Charging out of the Clover Park back field fleetfooted Warrior running back Mike James displays great determination as he fights off would-be Lakes Lancer tacklers.

Finally making it through the crowd, Pam Britton poses for Harta photographer.

Projecting rays of enthusiasm, the Clover Park Cheerleaders encircle our Warrior, Alenn Bautista, during the "Cherokee War Dance." Warrior fans got fired-up for the upcoming game against Lakes, after being inspired by a skit, "Funeral For a Friend," alias a Lakes Lancer.

of school

September

The month of September began with warm weather and thoughts of back-to-school.

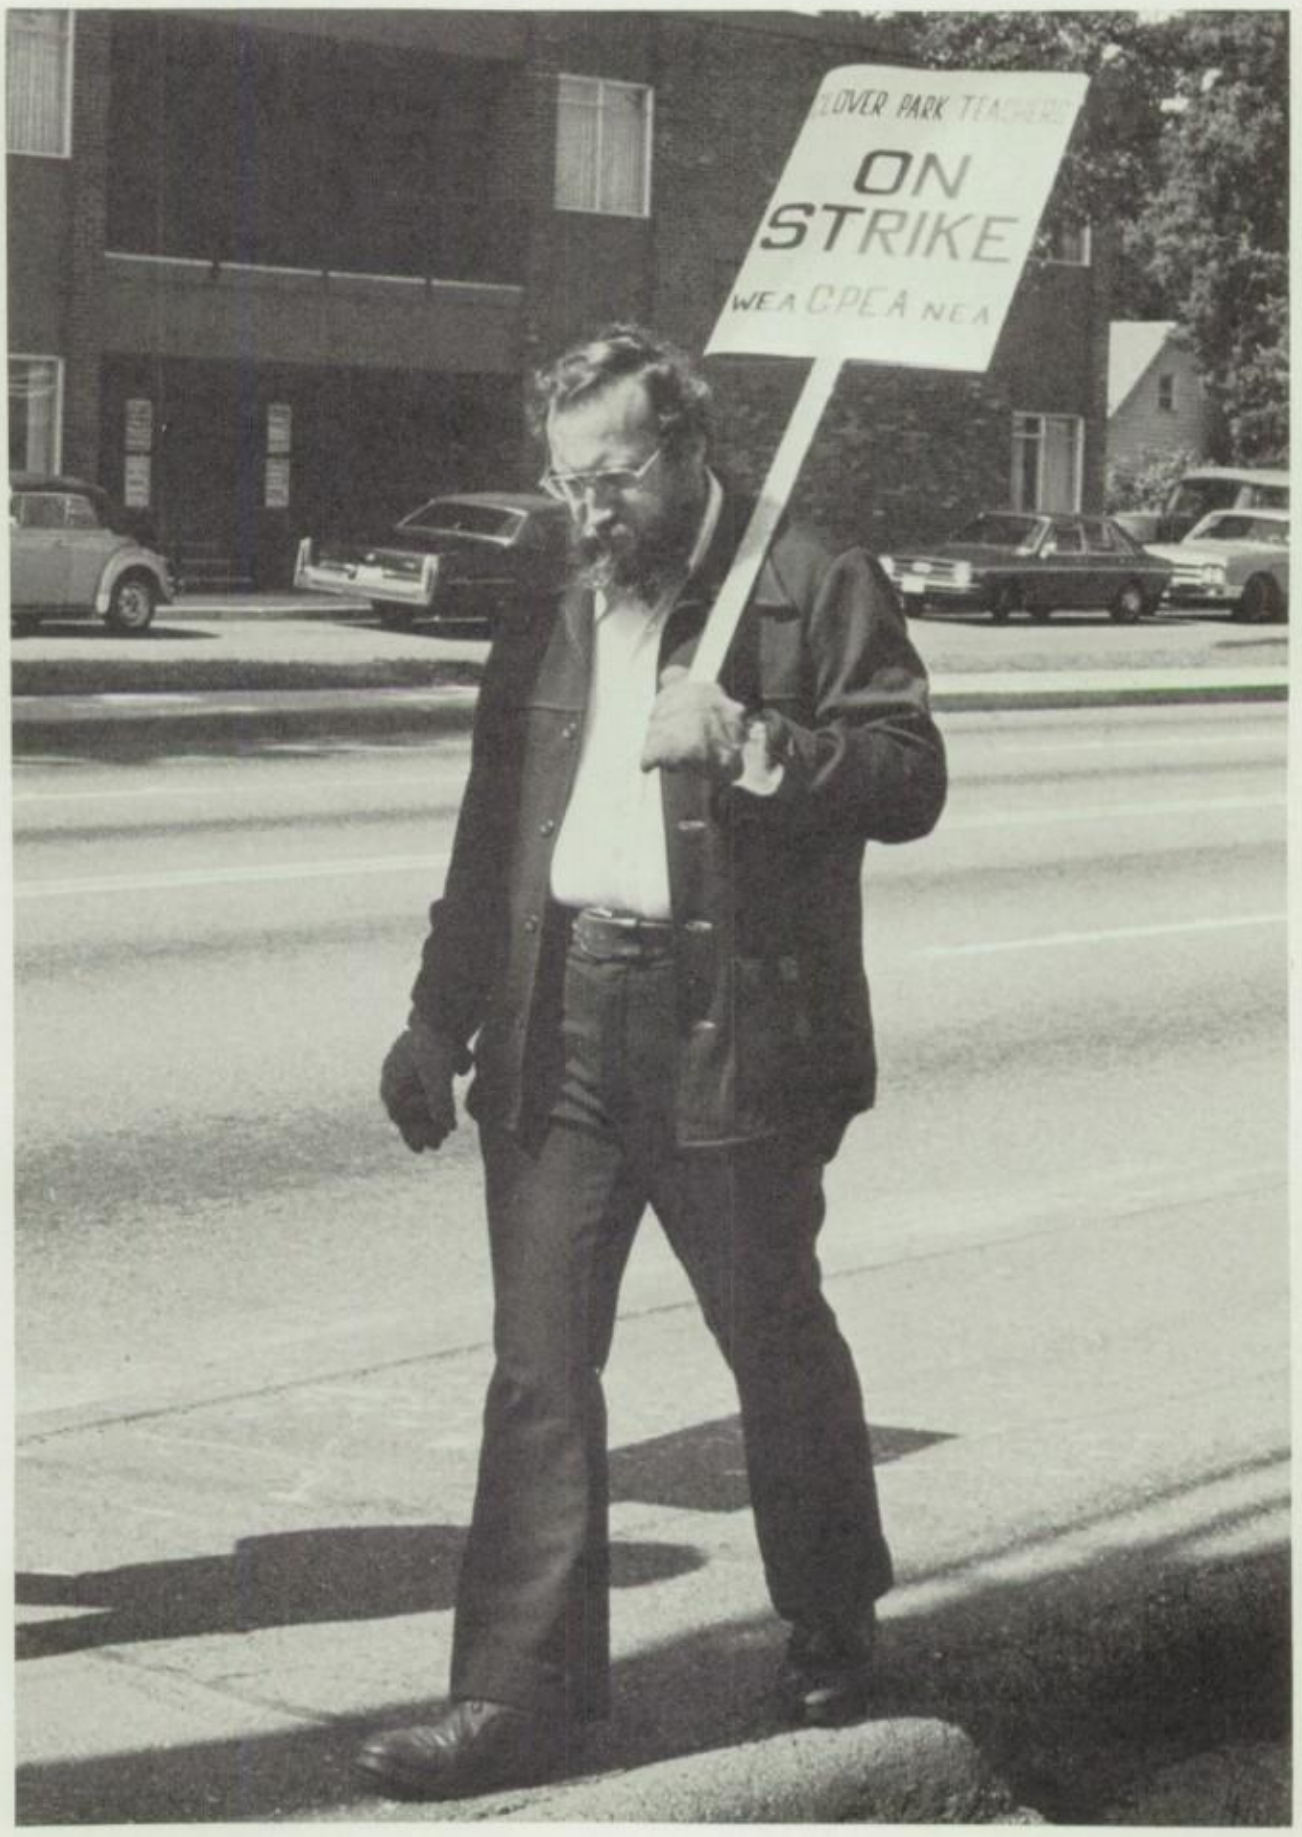
However, an unsettled contract dispute between the Clover Park Teachers' Association and the school district resulted in a 12 day picket by the educators, delaying the opening of school. On September 18, with the contract still unresolved, teachers returned to the classroom as the school bustled with activities anew.

The annual Howdy Assembly set the pace by promoting school spirit; offering humorous skits satirizing sophomores and rival football teams.

Class and ID photos were taken while ASB cards went on sale. Football games with Franklin Pierce and Lakes roused sports fans as the gridiron season got underway.

Band initiation required a rendition on kazoos, adding to September's liveliness.

Completing her initiation, new band member Ann Henley toots the CP fight song on a kazoo.



Discouraged by the unsolved contract and lack of negotiations, Clover Park teacher Mr. Leland Weaver, marches on during a controversy between teachers and school board members.

Equipped with tools, horticulture students work tediously on the newly built greenhouse.

October

October opened with a new greenhouse and a controversy. Debate stirred the community over the cutting of a 300-year-old tree on the campus. The cleared area made room for construction of the long-awaited greenhouse.

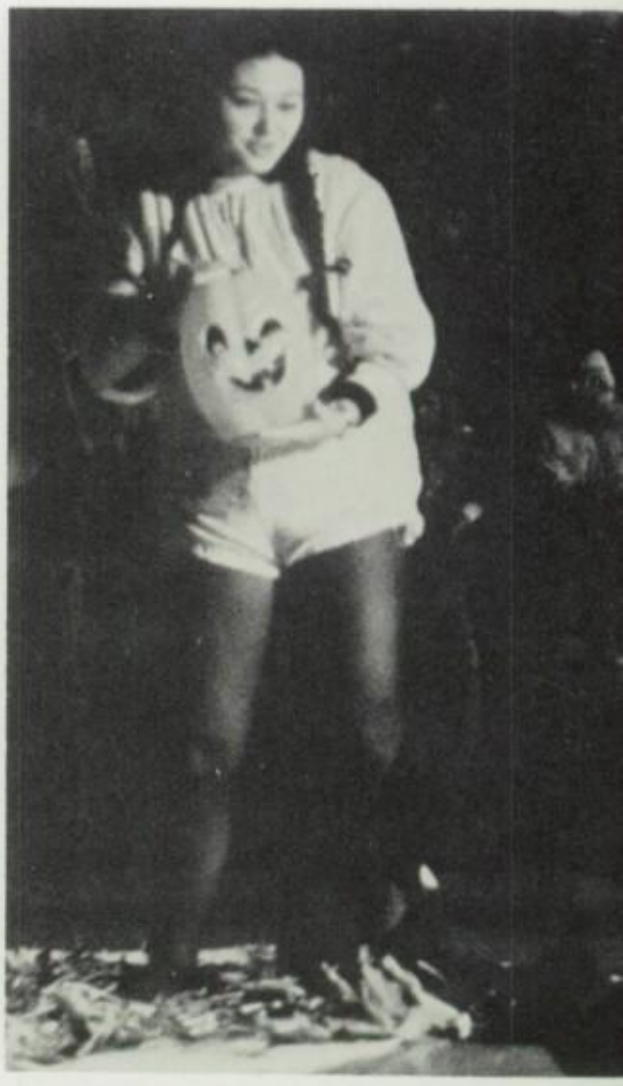
The autumn month witnessed the Thespian initiations, where hopeful nominees performed skits and dances.

Class officer elections stimulated the political-minded Warriors, as the interested youths ran for student government offices.

Back-to-School Night brought parents and teachers together in an informative question and answer session.

The annual pumpkin carving contest, sponsored by the Art Club, produced creative jack-o'-lanterns fashioned by individual homerooms.

The Halloween half-time show by the drill team and band helped close the '75 football season, as the gridders defeated the Roger's Rams 34-7.



Entertaining a pep assembly crowd, Alice Flowers predicts a football "Trick or Treat" for all.

Displaying the creativity pumpkin carving can produce, these attractive examples boast the prizes they took in a contest held on Halloween between all homeroom classes.

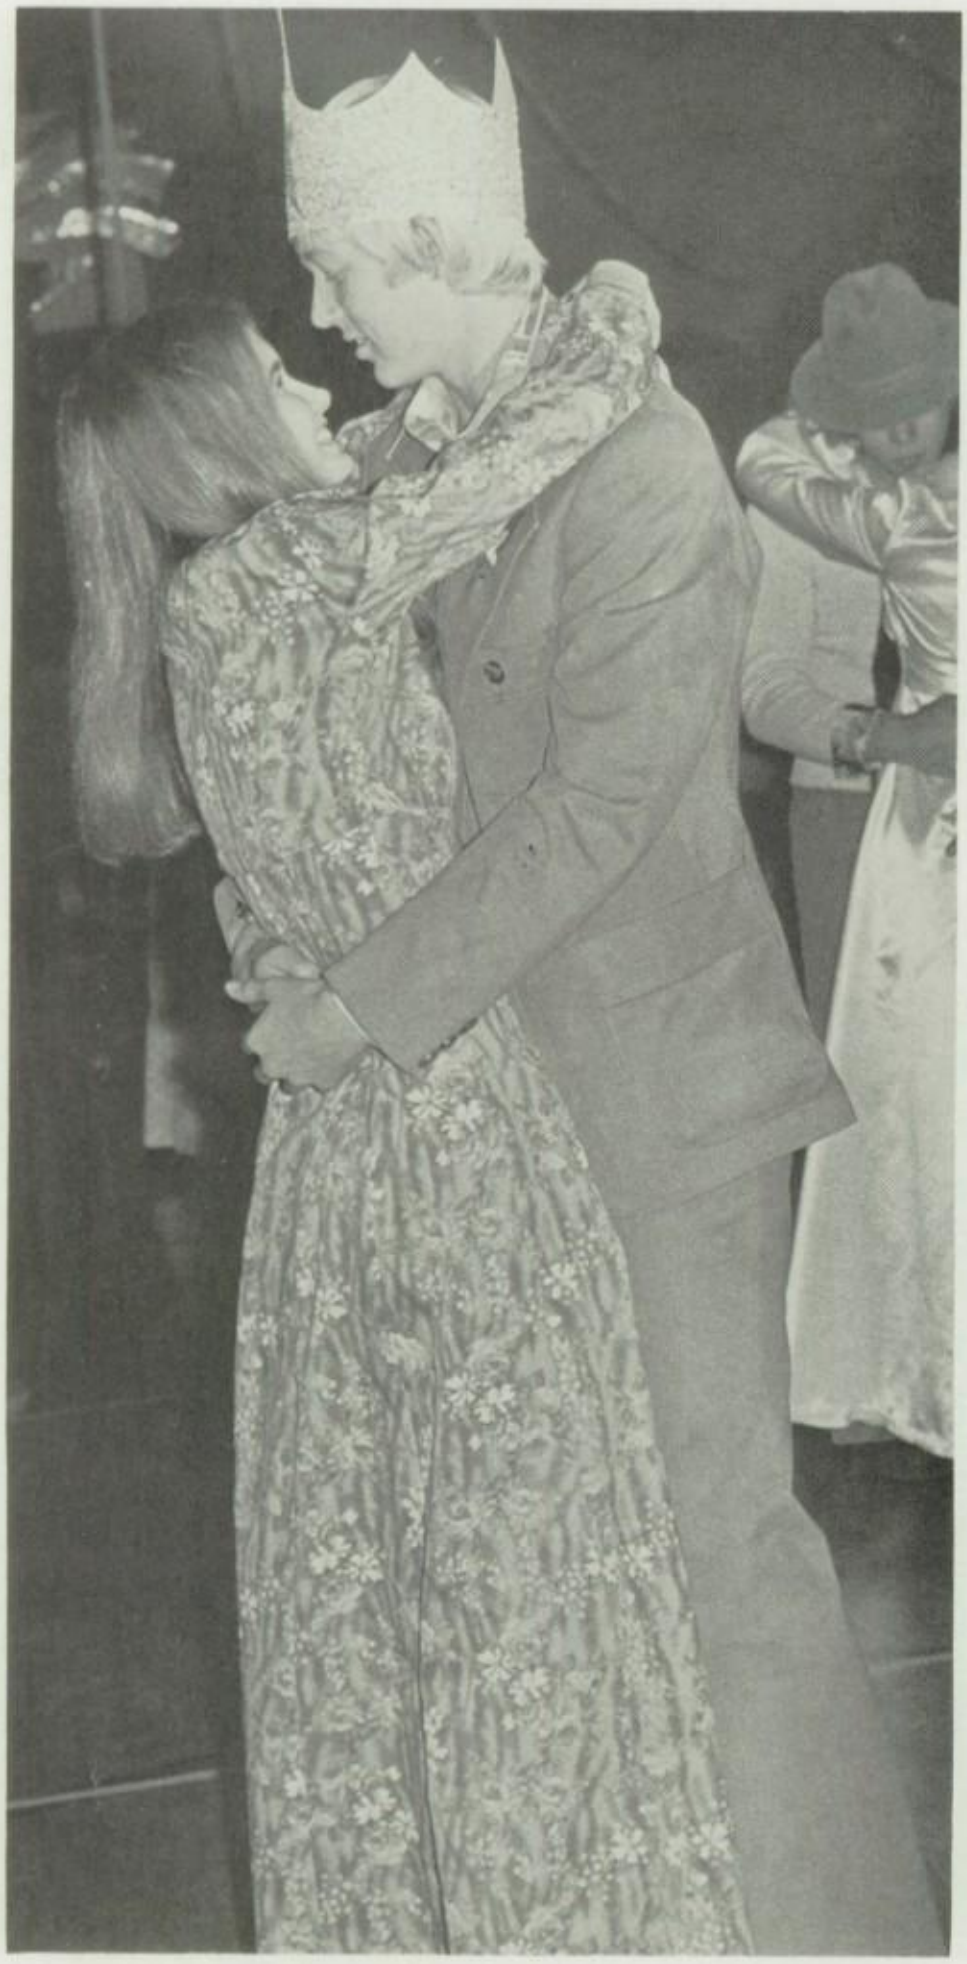
Tolo smashing success, couples dance in Moonlight



Beaming with radiant smiles, newly crowned King Brian Hagbo and his escort date Lorraine Boyle glide rhythmically during their spotlight dance.

Taking directions from the Seeley Studio photographer, Elaine Marlatt and her partner Joe Erno find a cozy pose for their 1975 Tolo pictures.

Dancing together under the starry skies, Tolo couple Ken Pearson and his date Lisa Bonifant swing with rhythm and gusto to band "Adrian."

Clover Park's Drill Team members transformed the North Gym into the romantic setting "Dancing In the Moonlight," the 1975 Tolo.

Amid the glittering silver moon and stars, with cloud-like white balloon clusters, couples swayed to the music of "Adrian."

During the evening's festivities, Adviser Mrs. Sally Wallace was presented a bouquet of roses by the Drill Team Dance Coordinators, Tony Jackson and Sandy Escalante.

Selection of the Royal Court climaxed the formal affair. Through balloting, the student body crowned Don Hankins, duke; Scott Owens, prince; and Brian Hagbo, king.

The Tolo continued as reigning King, Brian Hagbo, and his escort Lorraine Boyle, renewed the dancing to "Nights in White Satin."

Amid happy dancing couples, Jim Moses and his escort Rebecca Hall swing to the rocking sound of "Adrian" at the Drill Team's Annual 1975 Tolo.

Gathered around a glitter and glue covered table, Drill Team members prepare to transform the North Gym into an enchanting moonlit evening.

Swinging and swaying in a mellow moonlit atmosphere, to "Adrians" contemporary sounds of "get down" and "mellow" rock, romantic couples help to make the 1975 Tolo a successful investment for the Drill Team and also introduce new relationships to the social scene at Clover Park.

November

November busied Warriors with extracurricular activities during the sports off-season.

The month's beginning centered around five talented girls. The student body selected the most qualified nominees to vie for the title of Daffodil Princess. Senior Beth Clary represented CP during the Puyallup festivities.

Midmonth, the instrumentalists and vocalists' busy performance season started with the Music Department's Fall Concert.

The Home Economics students with their own designs expressed today's style in the Annual Fashion Show.

The Fall Sports Award Banquet honoring athletic efforts concluded the rainy month.

Waiting for the special moment, Daffodil nominees Julie Brown, Beth Clary, Janet Kai, Diana Lopez, and Terry Miles smile hopefully as they are judged on speech and impromptu.

Exclaiming her surprise Beth Clary begins the reign as CP's 1975 Daffodil Princess.

Modeling for the 1975 Fall Fashion Show, Karen Stout, who is escorted by Brian Vincent, shows off her new threads as Sharon Smith narrates.

Attending the Fall Sports potluck Banquet, Sandy Deathridge accepts an award and a letter for JV Volleyball from Coach Susie Ross.

In keeping with the American Bicentennial, CP's Drama Department presented a classic American Play for the fall production. "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder, depicted a view of the values and virtues of the American people.

Set in the fictitious town of Grover's Corner, the plot followed the changing lives of Emily Webb (Cleo Garcia) and George Gibbs (Dan James) through their school days, youth, courtship, marriage, and death; while projecting their emotional growth and maturation.

Drama Director, Mrs. Virginia Heidbreder, and Assistant John Warner worked with the cast in producing a drama while transmitted insight into the meaning of life.

December

December sees end of strike and ushers in new trimester

Winter Sports competition began as the Basketball, Wrestling and Gymnastics teams took on their first opponents in early December.

" 'Tis the season to be jolly," expressed some of the home rooms as they proudly displayed their yuletide spirit with door hangings of festive designs.

Mid-December brought heavy rains and flooding in Western Washington. But the settlement of the long dispute between educators and school board officials brightened up CP's communities with the signing of a two-year contract.

Clover Park's Music Department presented a Christmas Concert on the 19th, ending the last month of 1975 on a hopeful note for the new year.

Consisting of musicians from Canadian and American defense forces, the NORAD Band performs an invigorating set of popular, jazz, and patriotic numbers during their concert.

Ski school, dance among January events in new Bicentennial year

Participating in the CP Ski School, Shane Jones readies herself for the snowy slopes.

Ski School began in January with a number of Clover Park students taking to the slopes to learn to ski and a few, such as John Schoettler using their skills in teaching others.

The month of January sees the ushering out of the old as the temporary portables are rolled out, to be replaced by better new permanent ones.

In an effort to expand school facilities, permanent portables were installed this month, aiding both the Home Economics and History classes.

January

January ushered in 1976, and the official beginning of the American Bicentennial. The new year started the last leg for the Senior Class as caps, gowns, and announcements were selected and ordered.

Re-newed from Christmas vacation the Warriors moved back into studies and the new portables.

Snowfall in the mountains opened the CP Ski School; enabling new and old skiers to take to the slopes.

The annual basketball rivalry between CP and Lakes roused Warrior spirit; it was a standing-room-only crowd which viewed the Warrior athletes defeating the Lancers 49-42.

Seniors and sophomores joined forces in a midmonth victory dance to the music of "Borrowed Time."

Students in Mr. Robert's computer programming class had an opportunity to observe the district's computer data processing center in action during their field trip in January.

Beginning the new year right, January reader board suggests a successful season ahead.

Mr. Andrew Pazaruski discusses open campus and advises the Representatives on advantages and consequences during the Rep. meeting.

A guest from Curtis High, Raymond Cruz performs a Polynesian stick dance with Rita Flores as their part in entertaining the audience.

Setting his audience ablaze, CP graduate C-l Lopez performs a fiery Samoan dance.

International culture set the mood for the second annual Luau, held early in March. Featuring an international smorgasboard, the Luau fed over 500 guests.

A spectacular floor show followed the dinner. The Samoan fire dances were the main attractions as they opened and closed the show.

Polynesian atmosphere filled a great portion of the evening, with demonstrations of culture from many South Pacific Isles.

Oskar Musgrove, Alenn Bautista, Tom White and Tyrone Johnson demonstrated their Karate expertise.

Several additional dances were performed by CP's folk dancing class.

The international Luau helped build the class of 77's treasury.

Doing an enchanting Hawaiian dance, Samoan dancers Margaret Thompson, Luana Reed, and Colleen Reed entertain the crowd of people at the International Luau's floor show.

"Around the World on two feet," one of Mrs. Wallace's physical education classes performs "Debka Dayagin" an Israeli dance, with international flair during the second annual Luau. Clover Park's Junior Class provided music inspiring a festive atmosphere, enjoyed by all.

The ancient enchantment of "Aphrodite's Temple" provided a romantic setting for the yearbook sponsored annual Klayhowya Dance.

The "goddess of love" inspired a red and pink scene, accented with hearts and snowflakes. Under the glittering mirror ball, enraptured couples danced to the contemporary sound of the Seales Brothers.

Highlighting the evening, the coronation of the student elected Klahowya Queen captured the attention of the couples who lined the royal walkway. Radiantly smiling, Julie Brown joyfully accepted the bouquet of roses when crowned the 1976 Queen. The Queen's Court and their escorts led couples in the traditional coronation dance.

Pet Rocks, Mood rings and unisex fads set off Buy-centennial year

Life at Clover Park High provided students with a chance to express themselves, as they kept in step with mid-70 fads and fashions.

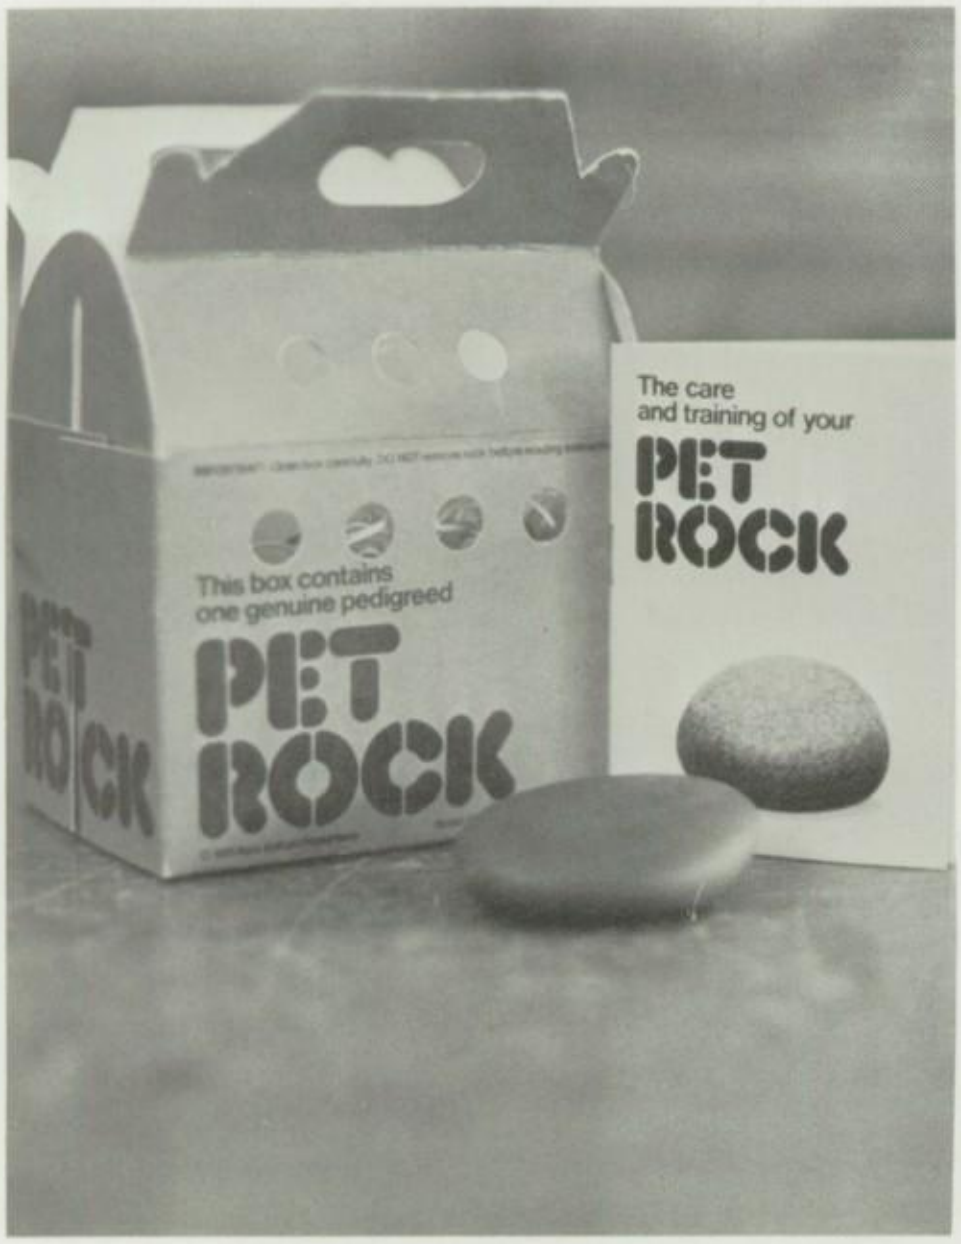
What's new this bicentennial year? A quick observation of CP's halls found that denim has faded; but not in popularity, only in color; as the jean-look remained a favorite.

The unisex fad became more and more evident at CP as hairstyles for girls and guys moved in the same direction with a feathered style.

The amazing 'spectra stone' and mood rings caught the eyes of young and old alike; and as absurd as it may seem, pet rocks were a big hit.

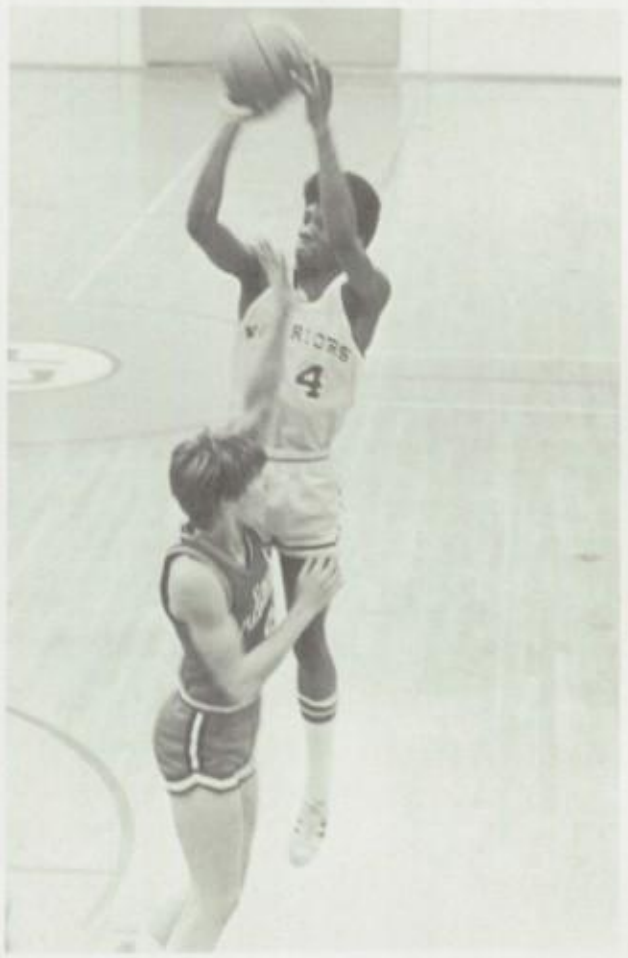
The style concious Warriors will continue to pursue the latest in fads and fashions.

Keeping in step with the latest hairstyles, are Karalee Endersby and Kelly Johnson.



Complete with an instruction booklet and a bed of straw, Pedigreed Pet Rocks became an overnight success and a handy conversation piece.

Mood Rings, wich reflect a person's feelings through a change in body temperature, decorated the fingers of fashion conscious CP students.



ATHLETICS

Showing strength and mobility, CP finishes with a 4-2 season record

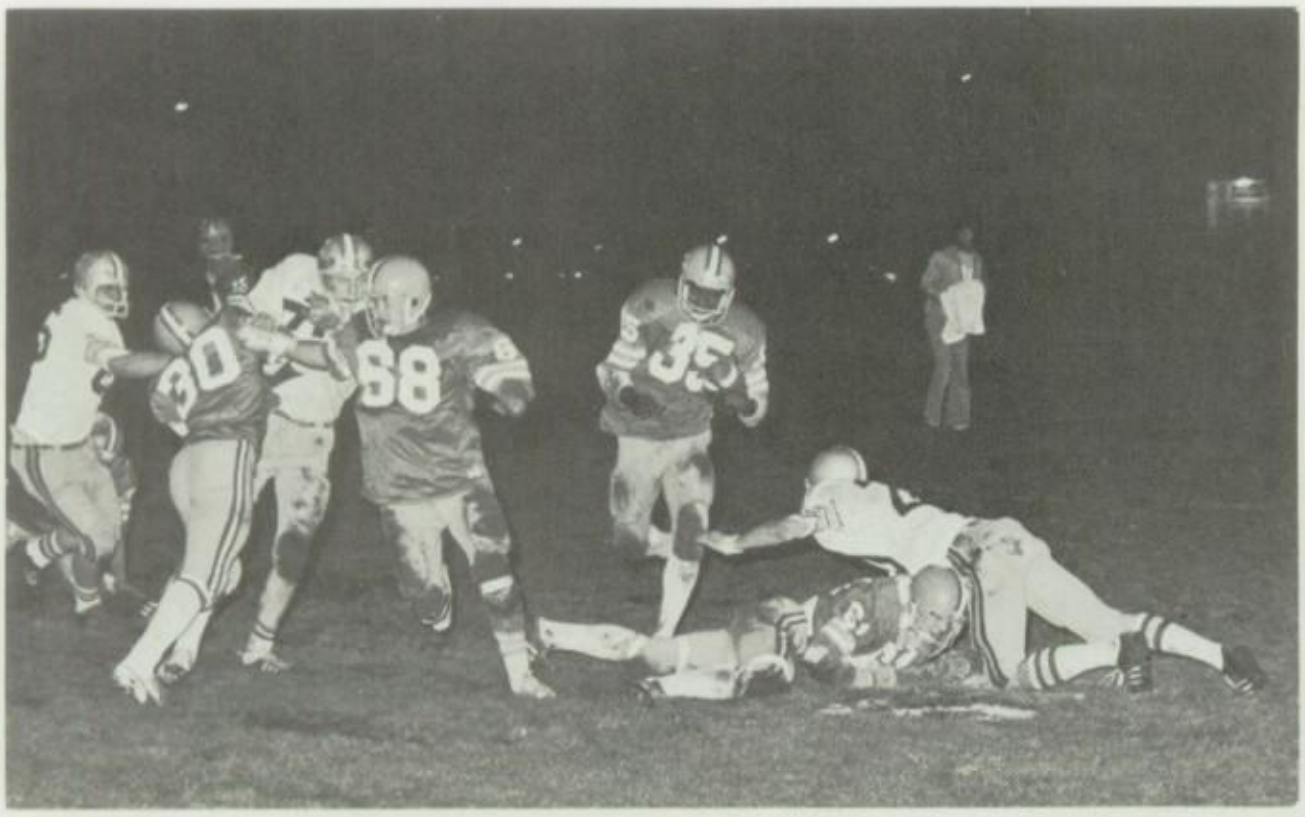
The 1975 Clover Park Football campaign opened two games late, receiving a setback by the teacher-district contractual dispute.

The SPSL Athletic Directors placed CP and Lakes into a special strike division to avoid penalizing the striking schools.

The Warriors proved unaffected by the postponement as they thrashed the Franklin Pierce Cardinals in the first official game, 14 to 6.

Highpoint of the season arrived two weeks later when Clover Park upset the highly ranked Federal Way Eagles, 12 to 7.

Head Coach Bob Colleran summed up the season, stating, "The Clover Park Football Team impressed the SPSL in 1975 with its speed, quickness, offensive flexibility, and defensive aggressiveness."



Using Warrior strength and strategic power, guard Dave Blankenship courageously blocks Viking defense, to make way for Mike James as he gains yardage for a CP first down.

Gripping the pigskin with stubborn determination, Clover Park's Mike James sweeps around right end to roll up big yardage as he finds a big hole in the Lancer secondary.

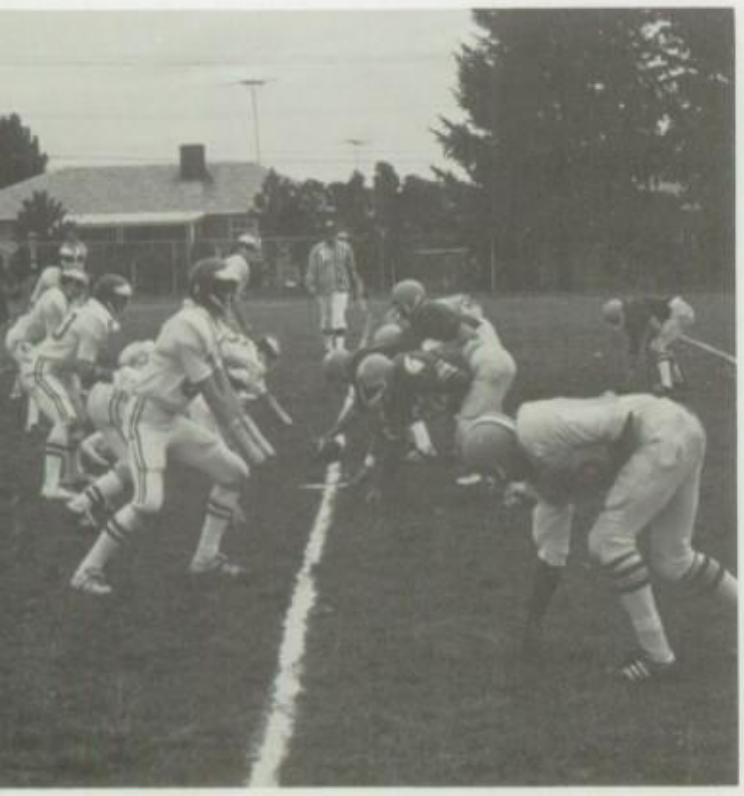
Victory over Lakes highlights a fantastic sophomore grid season



Controlling the ball with great skill, Sophomore gridmen line up against their opponents.

The 12-0 victory over Franklin Pierce opened the successful sophomore football season. However, the delayed start in school reduced the number of games played to four.

In the second game, the team left the Lakes Lancers on the 50-yard line as Kevin Grimms led the Warriors in three touchdowns for a 20 to 6 win.

The Bethel Braves, new to the SPSL, slipped by Clover Park 14 to 13. The gridders made a comeback the following week by defeating the Federal Way Eagles 12 to 6; and the Washington Patriots 7 to 6.

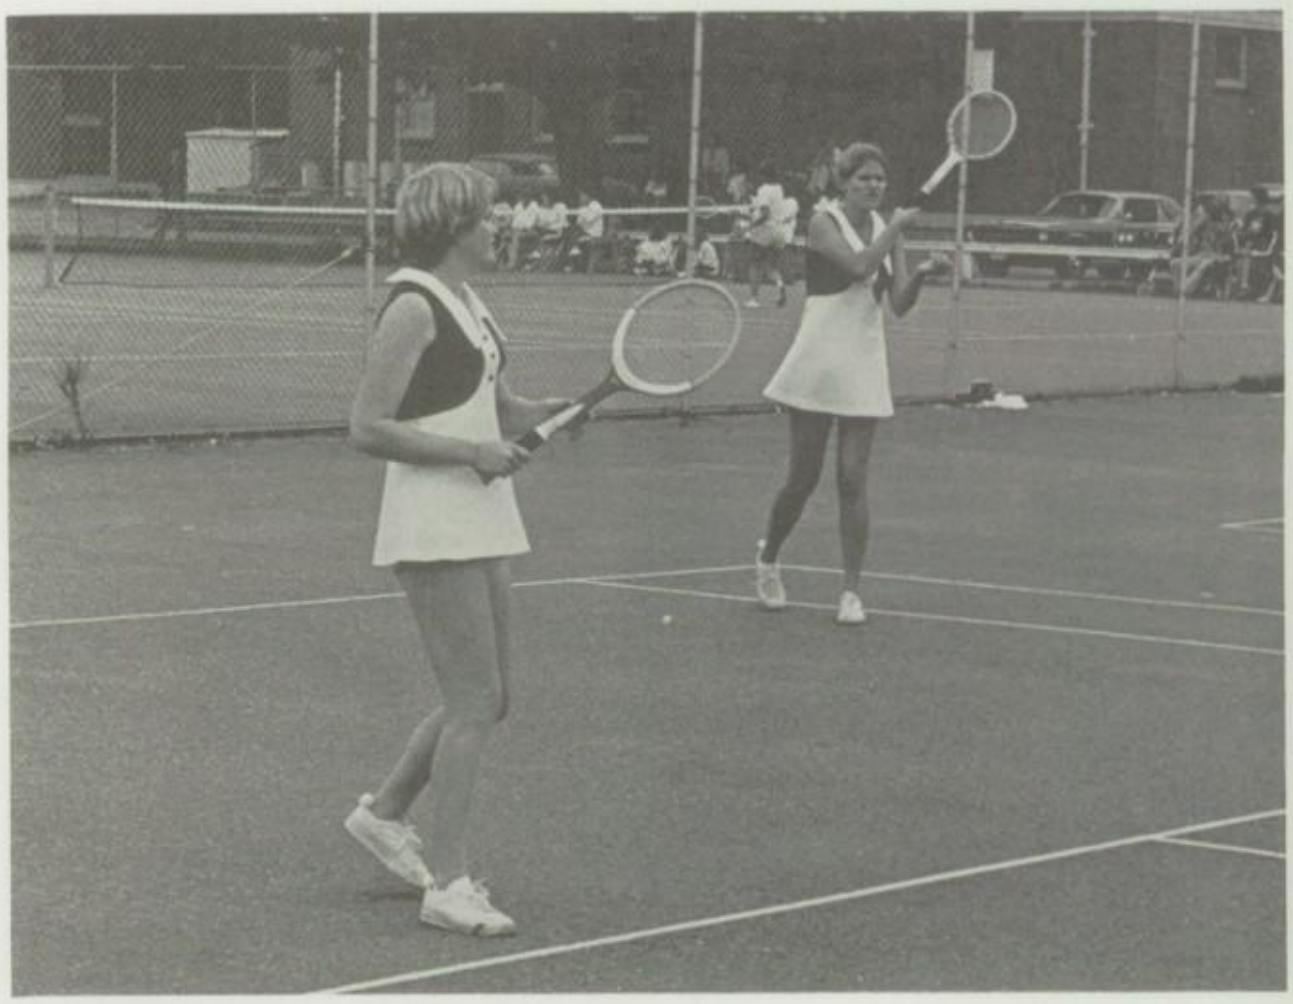
Bouncing into the fall season, the outstanding 1975 Girls' Tennis Team proved victorious for the sixth straight year, claiming first place in the South Puget Sound League.

Coached by Mr. Gary Thomas, the team encountered tough competitors with an undefeated record.

The Junior Varsity players displayed similar style and stamina, completing their season with a nine win, zero loss record.

The well practiced netters rallied in September and October, concluding their efforts in Sub-Districts.

The Warriorettes' champion doubles duo, Laura Glueck and Anne Woodward achieved a berth in the State Tournament to be held in May.



Witnessing a smashing forehand return by partner Michell Thomas, Megan Alexander views it with confidence and gets ready for a return from the opposing team to gain a point.

Wayne.

Girls' Warrior Volleyball Team battles many seasoned opponents

Starting the 1975 season late, CP's Varsity Volleyball Team mustered an eighth place South Puget Sound League finish with one victory and nine losses.

Under the coaching of Mrs. Sue Ross, members volleyed against stiff competitors as they yielded the season to experience.

Avoiding last place standings, the Warriors downed cellar team Franklin Pierce 2 to 1.

The Junior Varsity season finished with a six straight victory record, dropping their first three games to Washington, Jefferson and Curtis.

Voluntarily coached by Ms. Signe Ohtaime, the Junior Varsity spikers showed outstanding performance.

Keeping loose and psyching themselves to a win, Clover Park's Varsity Volleyball Team discusses strategy as they wait for the referee's OK of their service order.

Setting the ball for the spike, Dana Jones concentrates on perfect form as Phyllis Kropilak awaits her turn in an offensive play. Encouraging words are heard from Carla Iafrate and Cathy Daily while they watch and wait for the ball to be returned by their Lancer opponents.

Gibson, Young lead Clover Park to second place tie in SPSL

Clover Park's hard hitting Golf Team, led by returning lettermen Mike Gibson and Rick Young, shot their way to a second place tie with Puyallup and Bethel. The CP Linkmen finished the season with eight victories and five losses.

Under the direction of Coach Harold Roberts, the Warrior team spent many hours on the course, practicing to achieve their goals.

In the highly competitive Medalist Competition, CP took third in over-all team standings for the South Puget Sound League.

Displaying their golfing techniques, the team invited parents to the season's final match hosted by the cheerleaders.

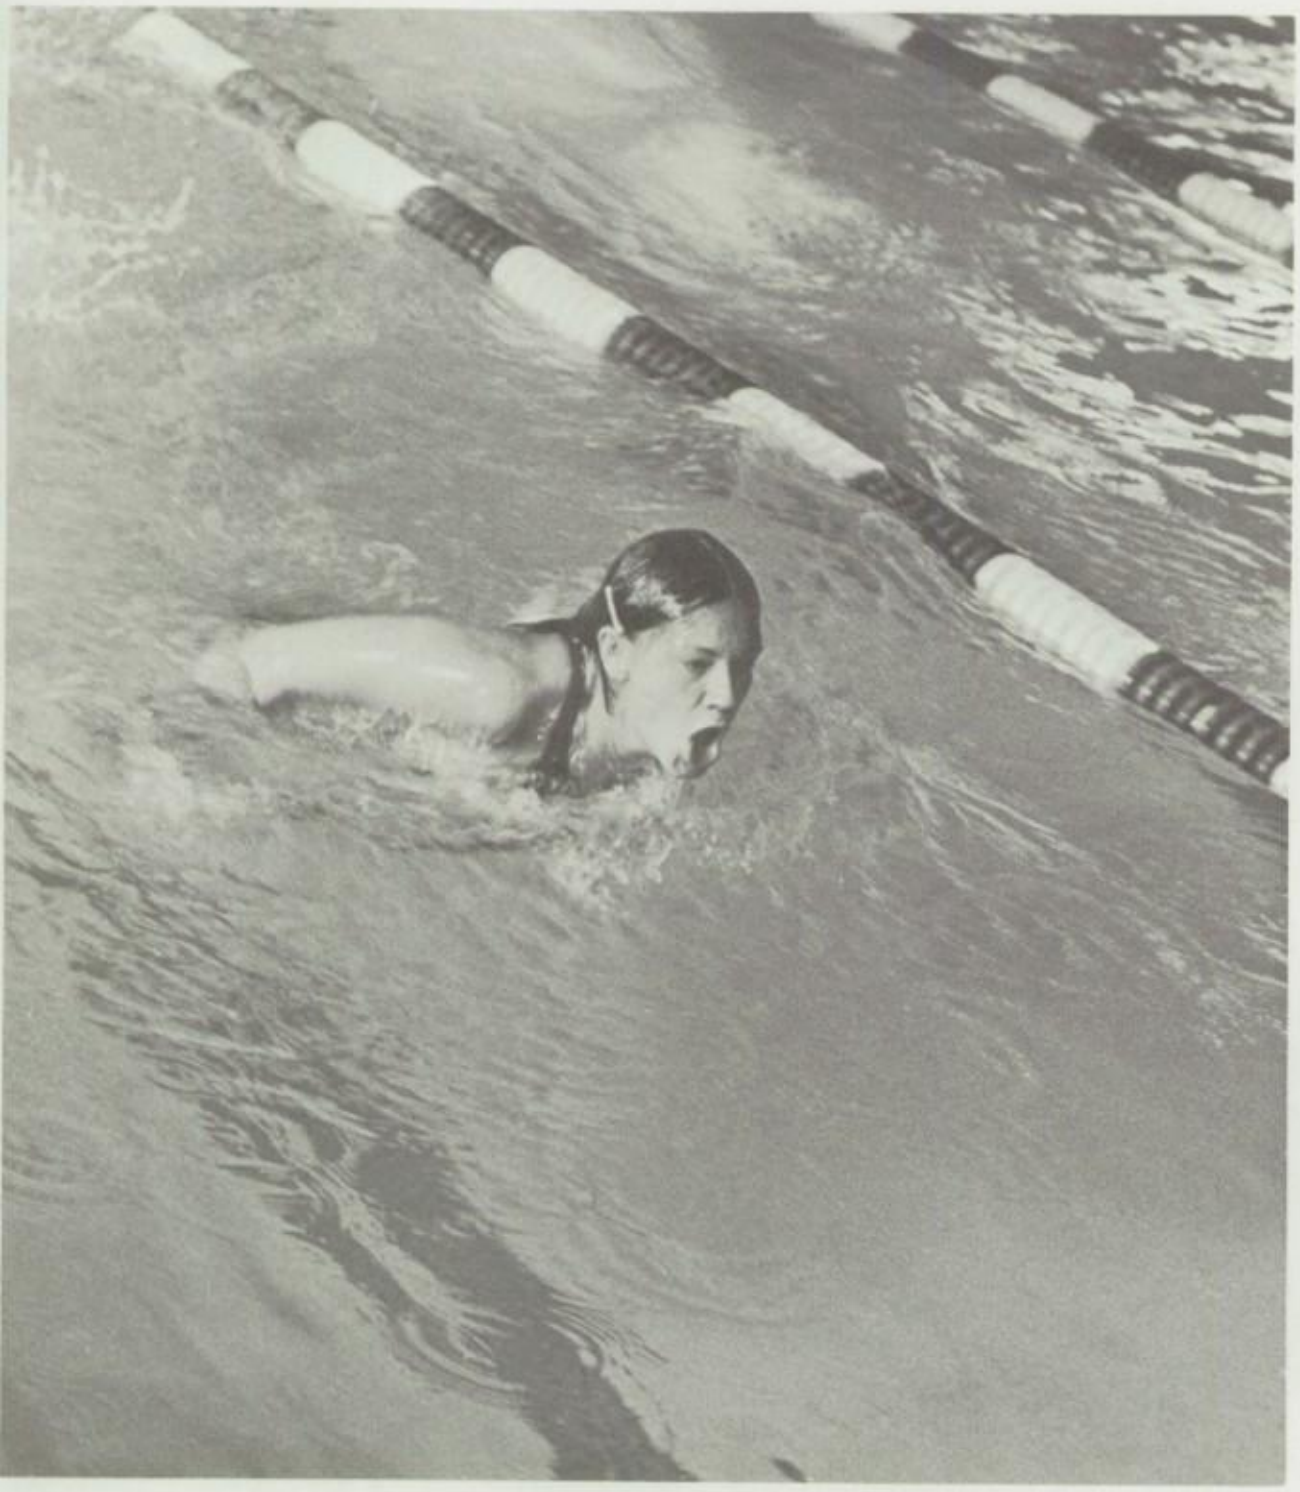
Gaining experience, CP diver Phyllis Youn performs a back flip from the low board.

Mermaids splash way to first place



Plowing through the water with a strong and steady determination, agile swimmer Tami Pearson fights an easy race for the Clover Park Swim Team and a place in the District Finals

"Splish, splash, we're taking a bath," says Sue Penley and Vicki Anderson as they take a break from swim practice. Both girls are members of the Clover Park Girls' Swim Team.

Splashing into the girls' swim season, the Clover Park mermaids swam their way to the SPSL co-championship title with Lakes and Curtis.

Under the persistent inspiration and drive of Coach Dave Emery, the swimmers performed in top-notch perfection as they proved superiority over five of their six competitors, losing only to Curtis.

Coach Emery remarked, "We have a real strong nucleus this year," describing the powerful returning swimmers Joy Gimlett, Vicki Anderson, Tina Owens, and Lonnie Krebs, who led the team into state qualifications.

The outstanding underclassmen Zoe Hoopes, Ruth Risely, and Tami Pearson, were supplimentary strength to CP's strong swim team of '75.

After driving to the basket Senior guard Brian Hagbo meets with a strong defensive challenge as his opponents try to block his shot.

Clover Park center Pat Keen reaches high to tip the ball to one of his teammates during a jump ball against the Puyallup Vikings.

Playing a disciplined brand of basketball and running the fast break when the opportunity arose, Clover Park's Varsity Basketball Squad captured second place in the South Puget Sound League.

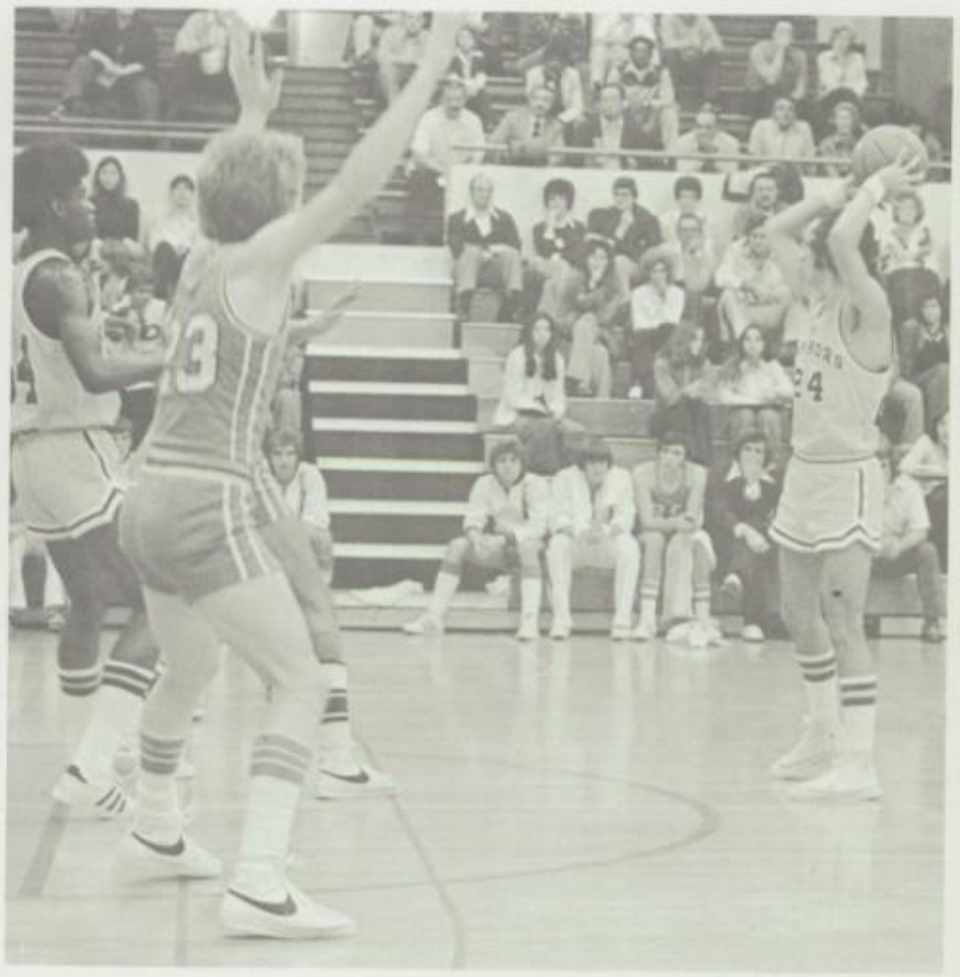
The Warriors were led by Senior Co-captains Ken Denman and Brian Hagbo. Hagbo also led the league in scoring average.

Summing up the season, Head Coach Jack Pelander stated, "This has been the best defensive and most unselfish ball club I've ever had the pleasure of coaching."

The hoopsters backed up Mr. Pelander's statement by allowing the least amount of points in SPSL.

The Warriors finished the season with a 13-win, 7-loss record.

Clover Park Warrior guard Brian Hagbo quickly dribbles down the court as a Renton teammember makes agile attempts to steal the ball.



Searching for a possible opening in the opposition's defense, Clover Park's guard Mike Shelley and teammates battle Federal Way.

Warriors advance to play-offs; clash with Renton

Struggling with his Renton Indian foe, Clover Park forward Jim Moses snatches a rebound during the West Central District Playoffs.

Varsity hoopster, Wayne White, attempts to sink a turn around jump shot for two points as his Warrior teammates go for the rebound.

Clover Park Center Tim Prince leaps high in the air in an attempt to tip the ball to an open Warrior teammate, to initiate the all important fourth and final quarter.

Sporting a 13-7 season record, Clover Park's Varsity Basketball Team placed second in the SPSL; entitling the team to a berth in the West Central District play-offs.

Coach Pelander's squad clashed with the Renton Indians on neutral territory in Puyallup.

Renton had previously defeated CP in the season opener, but the Warriors came back to beat the Indians midseason.

Cold shooting by both teams held the play-offs halftime score down, as the Indians took an 18-10 lead.

Clover Park kept their poise and battled back in the final two quarters. The Warrior rally came up short of victory, however, as the Indians won 35-34.

After calling time out during a Junior Varsity game with the Renton Indians, Clover Park Coach Merle Hagbo huddles with his young Warrior team to discuss strategy.

Showing excellent shooting form guard Mike Welsh attempts a field goal in the JV game.

Schaler, Martin lead JV basketball squad into successful season

Under the supervision of Coach Merle Hagbo, the 1975-76 Junior Varsity Basketball Team proved to be strong competition against their opponents. The squad logged an eleven-win, nine-loss record.

Junior Bill Schaler paved the way for fellow teammates, while displaying excellent ball handling and a superb outside shooting touch.

Stating that team members worked hard in both practices and games, Coach Hagbo indicated his pleasure with the squad; "The games we lost were close, a matter of two or three points, and really brought out the dedication of the boys."

Ending the season on a high note, the JV Team defeated Franklin Pierce in an overtime decision.

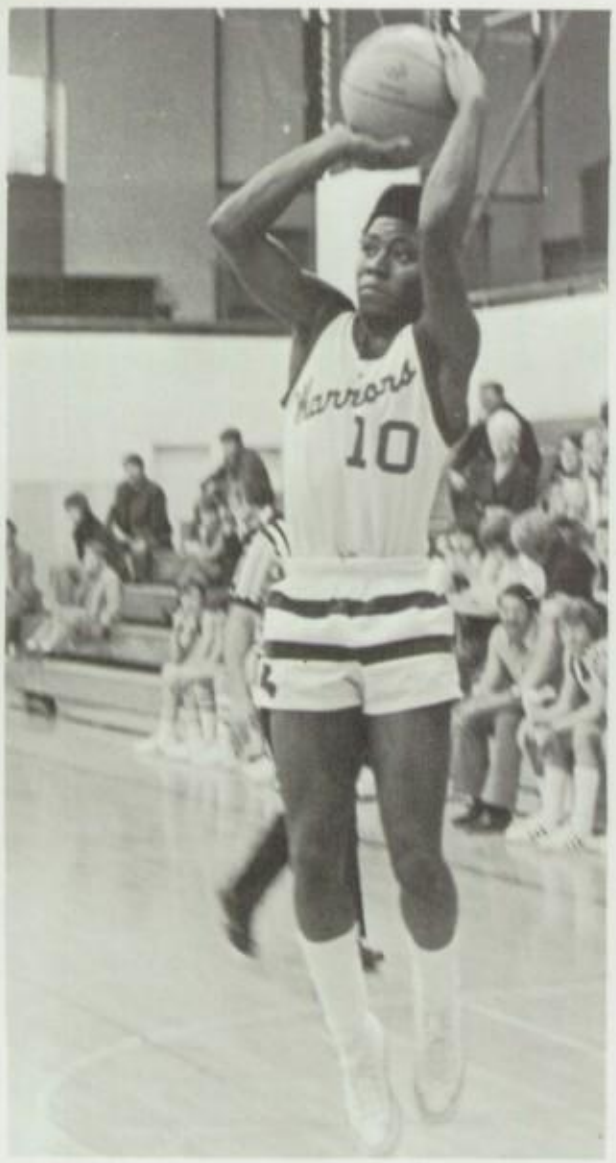
Sophomores bounce back to defeat archrival Lakes



Rugged competition confronted the Sophomore Basketball Team. The young Warriors compiled a season record of 7 wins, 11 losses.

The team, coached by Mr. Al Broeckel, was supported by loyal fans.

Mike Jewett and Dan Trekhel led the sophomore hoopsters in total scoring and rebounding.

In the season opener, Puyallup beat the Warriors 49-40.

Following, Stadium and Foss claimed victories with respective scores of 42-38 and 47-39. Mount Tahoma outscored CP 61-52.

Clover Park overwhelmed the new South Puget Sound team, the Curtis Vikings, with a 67-41 victory, and the rival Lakes Lancers bowed down to a 44-36 finish.

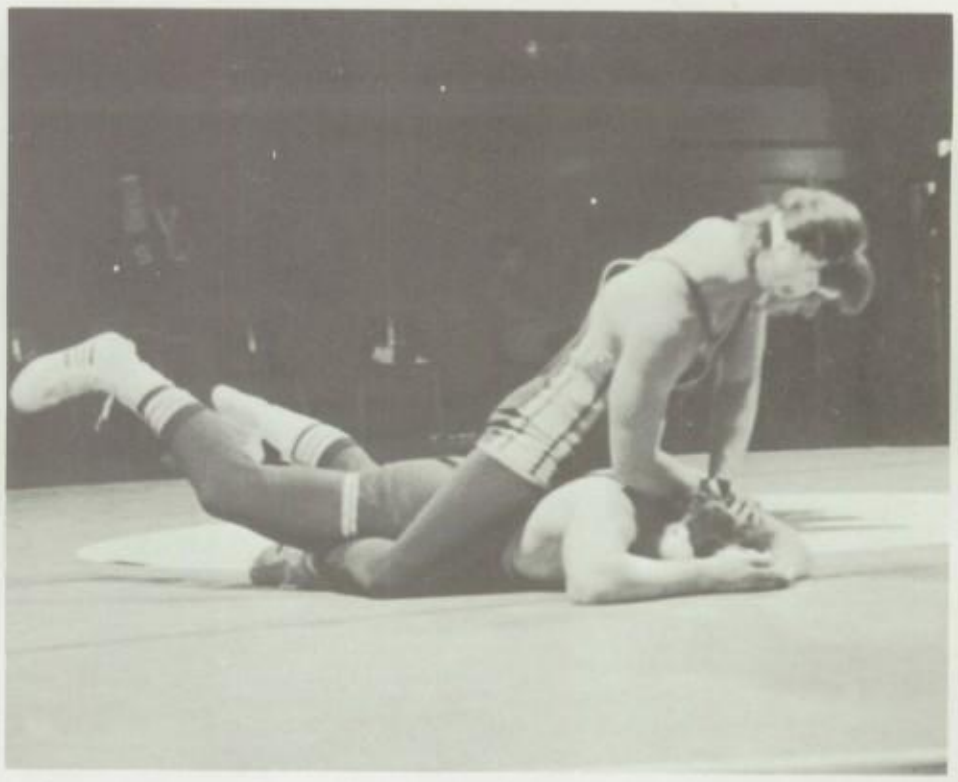
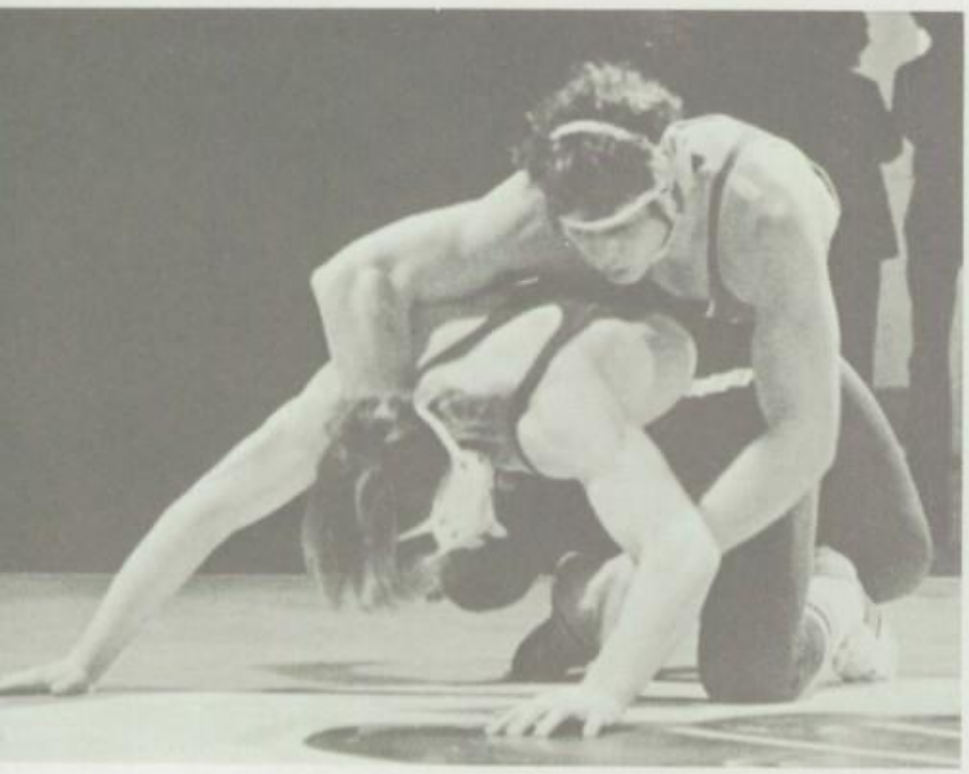
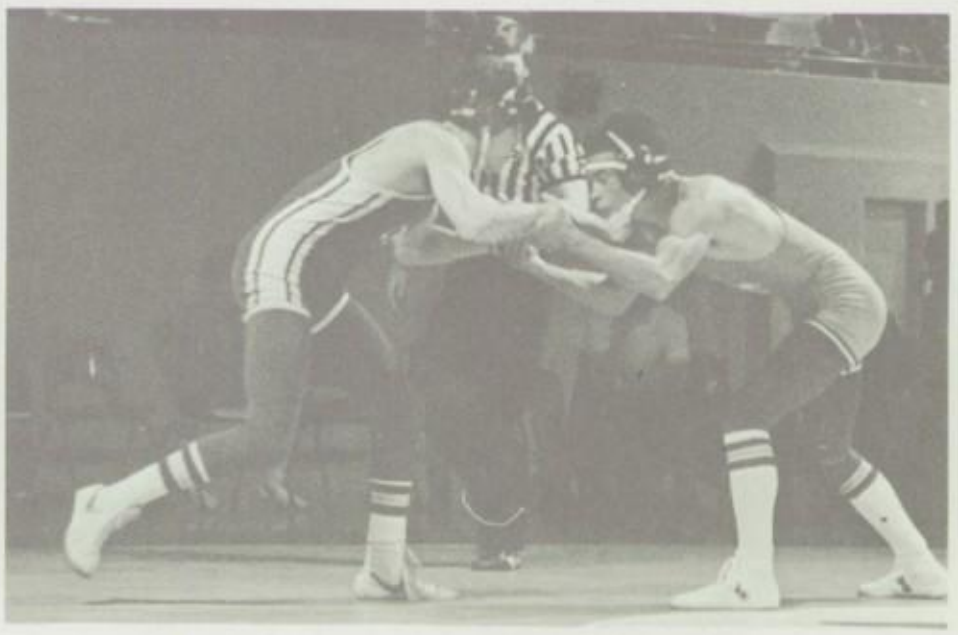
With smooth moves Clover Park wrestler Jay Herron gains a favorable edge over his opponent in a test of strength, skill and endurance.



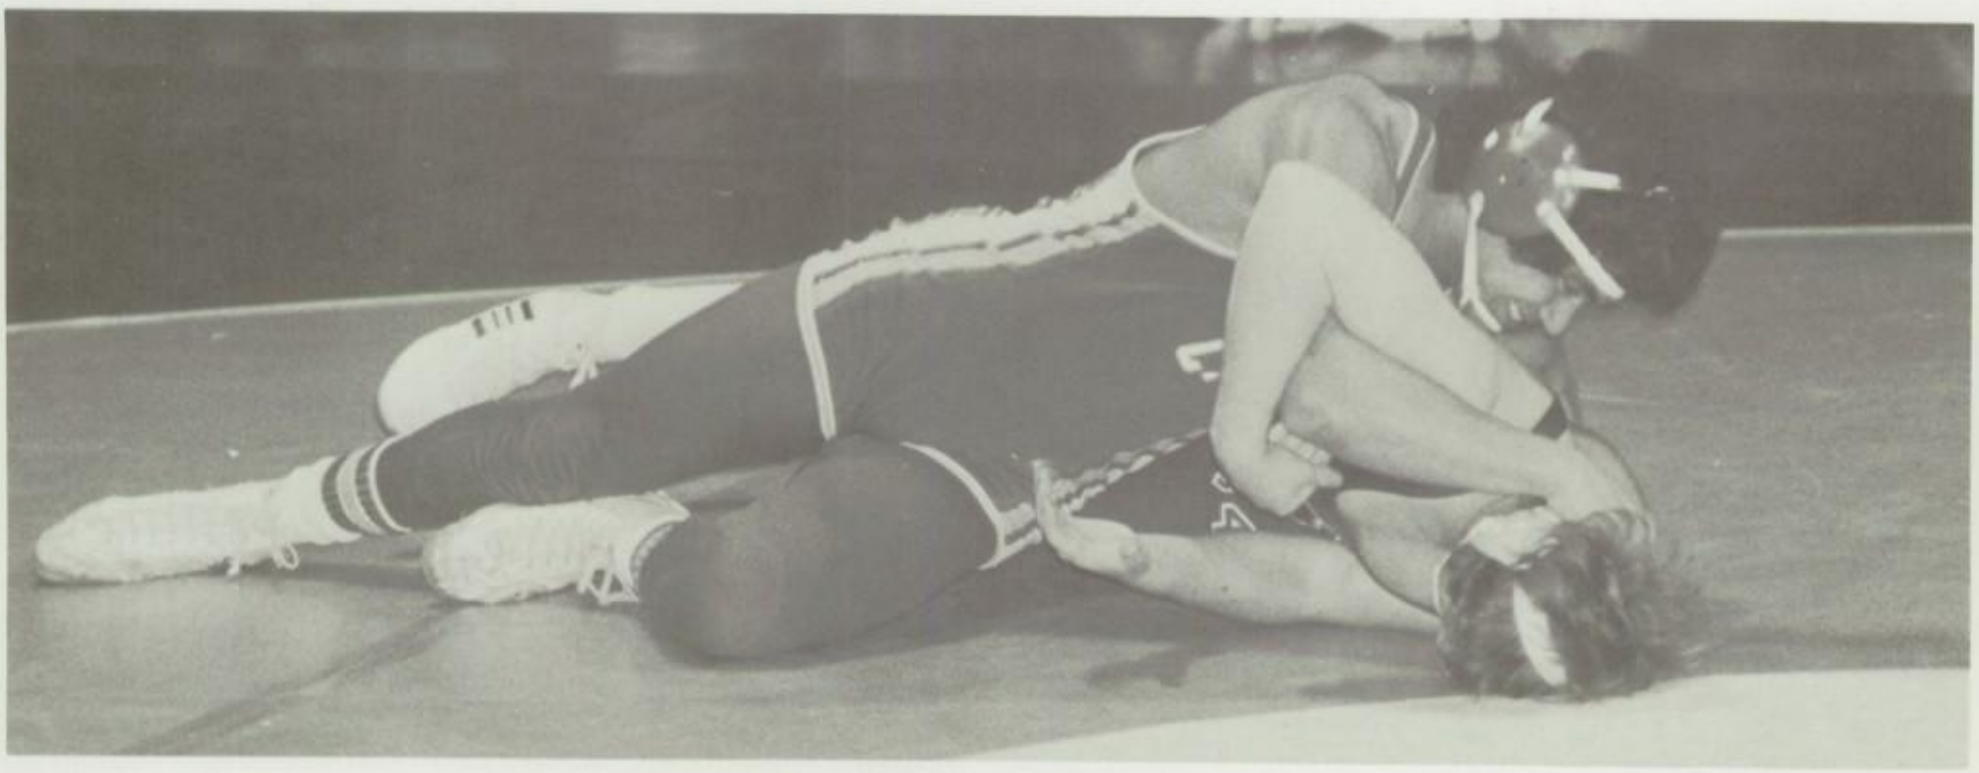
Skillfully suppressing his opponent, Varsity wrestler Rich Thompson executes one of many moves; a double grapevine force half-nelson.



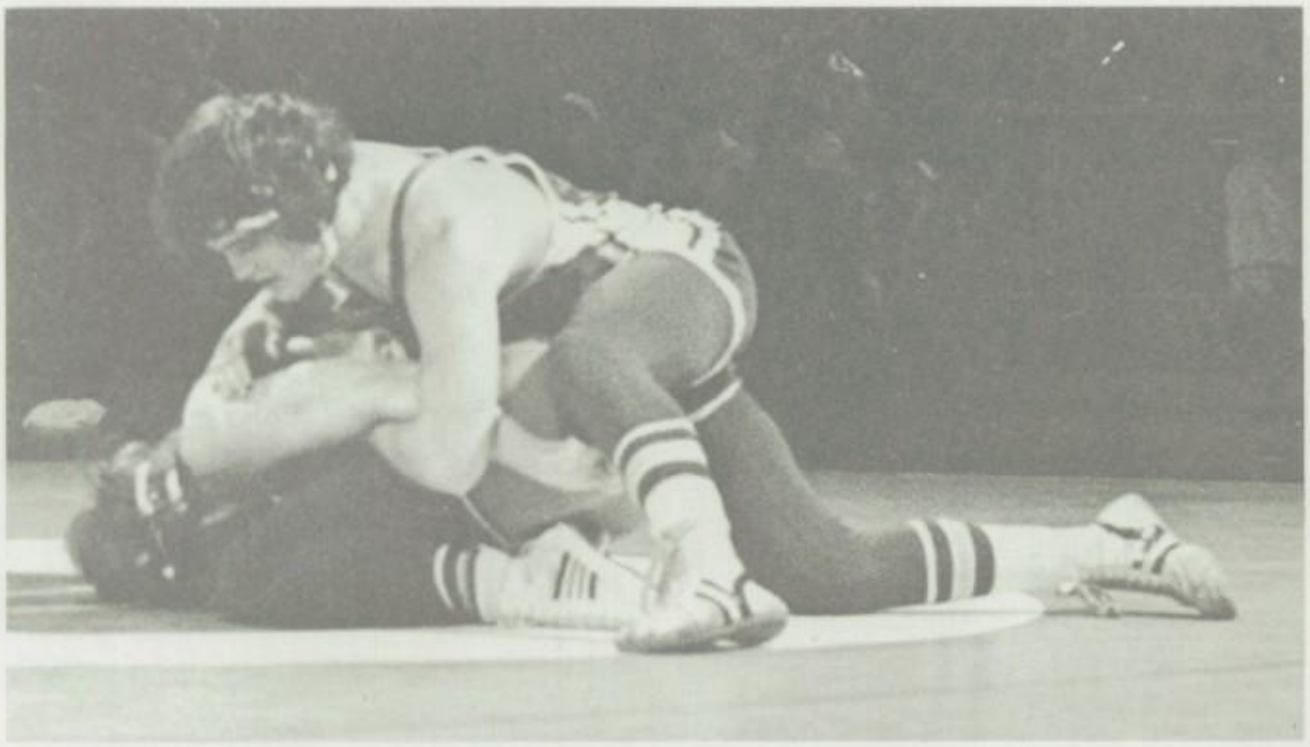
Using deceptive moves, Marty Stevens out-maneuvers and over-powers his opponent to chalk up a victory for the Clover Park Wrestlers.



With the Warriors force and might, CP wrestler John Crabill challenges his Lakes rival as they lock horns in an attempted take-down.



Striving for a pin, Varsity wrestler Dave Pritchard displays strength and determination as he prepares a takedown on his adversary.



After taking his rival down to the mat, Varsity Wrestler Scott Owen, maneuvers his man into a position so that he will score on a near fall or a pin during the Lakes vs. CP match.

Returning from a year's leave of absence, Mr. Dan Hensley coached the Varsity Wrestling Team to a 16-1 season record.

The squad placed second in both Sub-regionals, held on CP's own home mats, and at the Regionals in Vancouver, Washington.

Out of Regionals, six Warriors were statebound: State competition was held at the University of Puget Sound. Four matmen placed: Juniors Dave Wheeler and Mark Anderson took second, Scott Owen placed third and Senior John Crabill took fifth.

At the Winter Sports Award Banquet, John Crabill was selected to be the season's Team Captain, and Senior Jay Herron was honored with the Inspirational Award.

CP Gymnasts

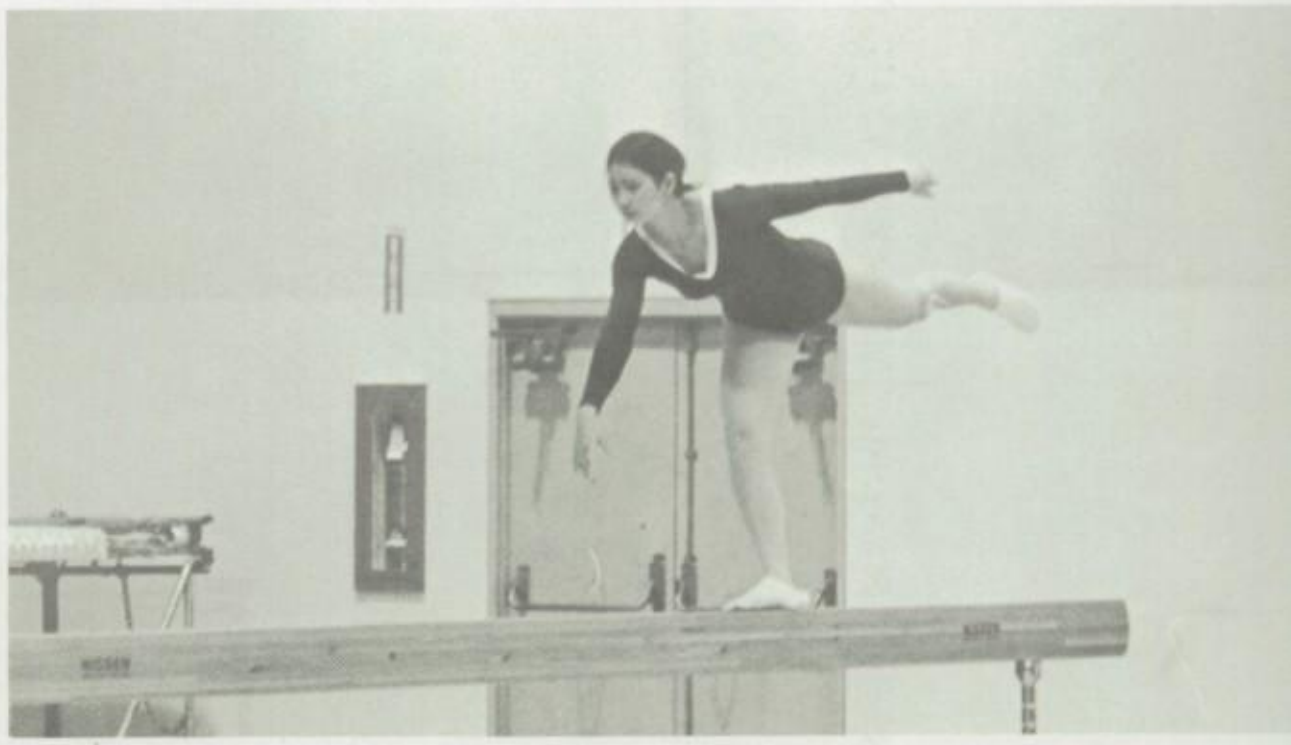
The 1976 Gymnastics Team started off a successful season with a new coach, Mrs. Peggy Carnes, and manager, Sharon Alcantara.

The team had a season record of three wins and three losses.

Although some girls concentrated on only one area, many competed in two or more. Included in the competitions repertoire were the balance beam, floor exercises, the uneven bars, and the vault.

At District the gymnasts took second place and sent five of the thirteen girls to Regionals. Clover Park's Laura Kanamine advanced to a berth in State competition.

The team voted the Inspirational Award to Anna Bowling and Laura Kanamine was elected team captain.



Executing an excellent scale on the balance beam, Gymnastic Team member Laura Kanamine performs with grace and poise while preparing routine for an important meet.

Sophomore gymnast Roeme Pama skillfully performs the splits as she holds steady before moving on through the rest of her routine during competition on the balance beam.

With a touch of grace, CP student Leone Hoga performs a floor routine for judges.

Performing a floor routine for the judges, Clover Park Warrior Gymnast Laura Kanamine shows a great deal of talent, style and poise.

Concentrating on setting the uneven bars, Girls' Gymnastics Coach Peggy Carnes and Sharon Alcantara achieve the proper height.

Warriorettes

Clover Park's Girls' Basketball Team finished in a fourth place tie in South Puget Sound play.

Outstanding forward-center Gretchen Van Dyke, led the Varsity team with a 9.6 scoring average.

The initial girls squad stressed discipline team play in both their offense and defense.

The female hoopsters ended the season with a league record of five wins and four losses, in a well balanced league race.

Junior Varsity players finished with a six win - two loss season record; losing to Renton and Washington by eight points.

Mrs. Nancy Rothenberg, a Lochburn physical Education instructor, coached the female athletes.

After beating her Franklin Pierce opponents down court, CP Varsity guard Dana Jones drives toward the basket to attempt a lay in.

Ready to spring up against her Franklin Pierce opponent, CP's Cathy McCloud waits for the toss as her teammates anticipate the tip.

Junior Varsity hoopster Cheryl Lattimer shoots a jump shot for a possible two points against cross town rival Lakes as teammate Lynn Peterson prepares for the rebound.

Strength, agility become an asset to young Varsity Baseball Team

Starting with seven returning lettermen, Clover Park's 1976 baseball team began the season with an easy win over Bellarmine, 8-1.

Hampered by the cold weater and rain, CP's diamondmen kept spirits up in order to capture a high placing in the SPSL.

The pitching staff, headed by John Martin and Dan Gordon, proved to be inexperienced, but showed great potential as the season progressed.

The leadership and background of the seniors helped carry the team and provided the rookies with experience.

Backing up the two pitchers in the field were returning lettermen, Brian Hagbo, Tom Brigham, Bary Morgan, and Mark Chop.

Apostle leads JV Diamondmen through rain ridden season

The spring monsoon slowed the beginning of Clover Park's 1976 Junior Varsity Baseball Team; but the squad made a strong comeback to take over first place in South Puget Sound League competition.

Losing to Puyallup 5-4 early in the season, the team toughened up their defense and overtook the Vikings in their second confrontation with a 4-0 score.

A positive attitude made a team of players that Coach Tony Apostle was proud to guide; and he looked forward to watching some of them reach the Varsity Baseball Team.

Pitchers Roger Hunton and Scott Ring, and Third Baseman Al Simmons led the reserve team through the successful season.

Rounding first after smashing another base hit, sophomore Steve Kirkwood aids the young Warrior JV diamondmen in an attempt to outslug their Puyallup Viking opposition.

Softball adds new dimension to SPSL competition

The Girls' Softball Team, in their initial season of play, faced a competitive season although there were only two other teams in the league.

In the first stretch of the season, rainouts and disappointments overshadowed team play as they lost a pair of diamond contests to arch rival Lakes. Coming back later in the season, Clover Park defeated the Curtis Vikings 6-5.

Sophomore hurler Debbie Allen proved to be a consistent pitcher throughout the season, with many agile infielders and superior outfielders; including Cheryl Gacek, Jane Holland and Tami Pearson.

First year coach, Mrs. Robin Blankers, guided the team to a successful first season.

Attempting to bring in Warrior base-runners, Diana Carmichael takes a forceful swing.

Clover Park's softball team moves into action with Pam Young guarding third base. Marilyn Young, Tami Pearson, and Jane Holland stay alert as an opponent comes up to bat.

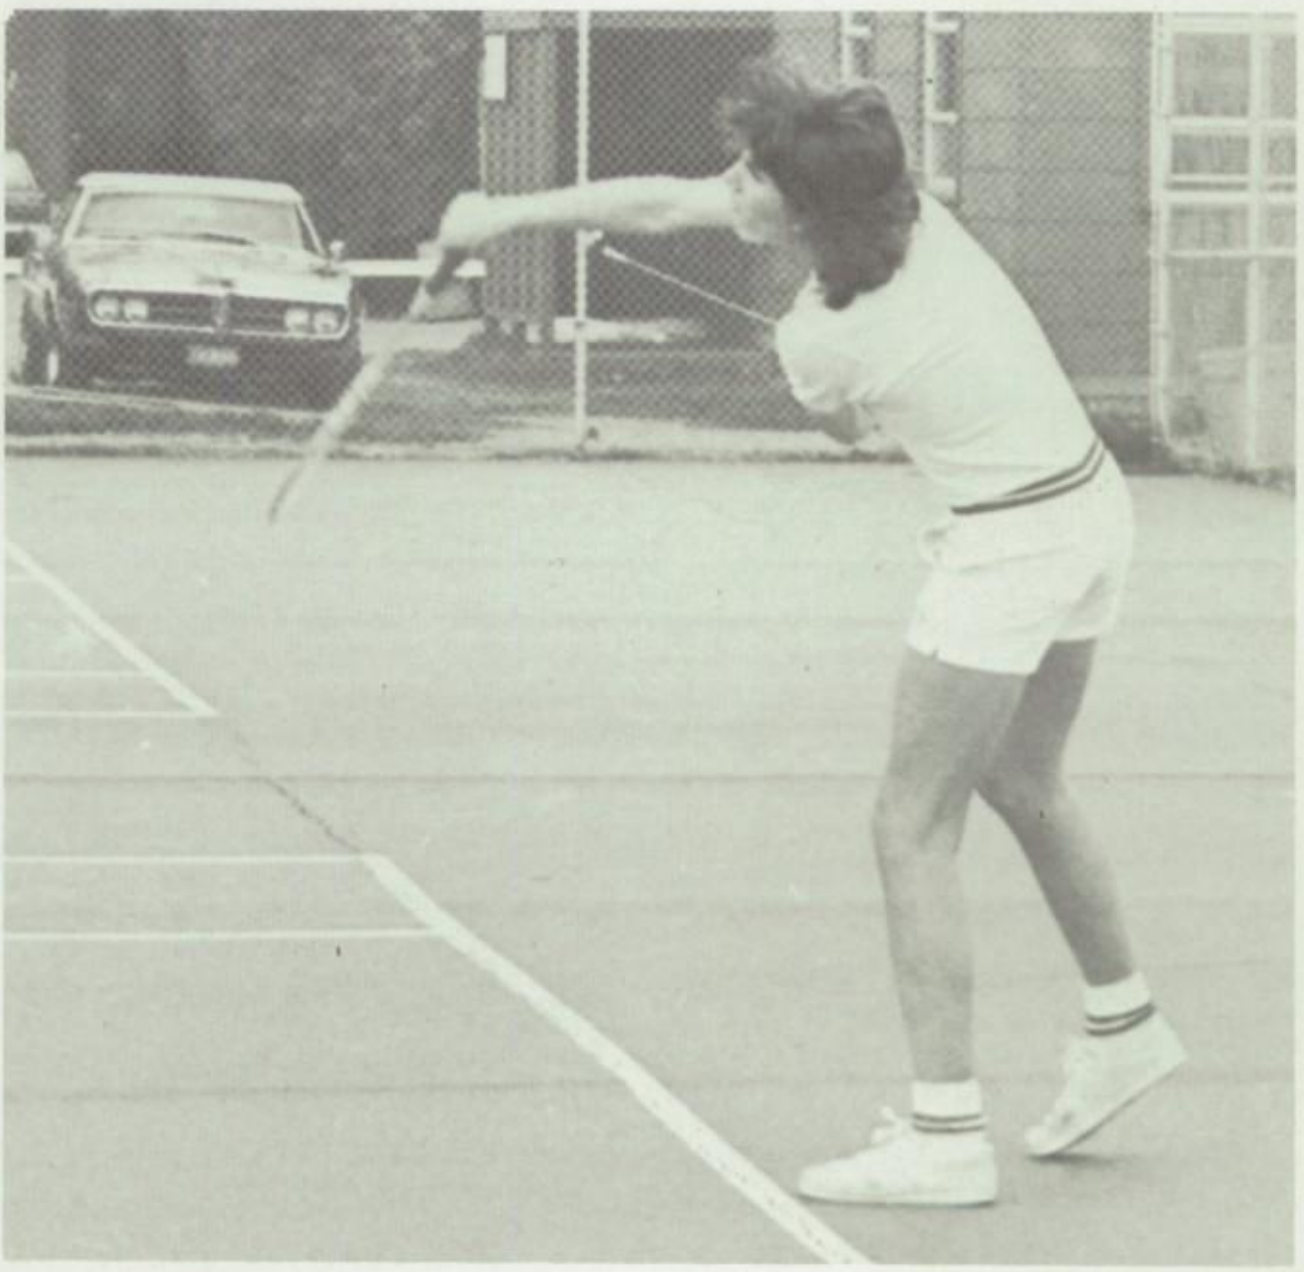
Smashing their way through a successful season, returning lettermen Joe Thomer, Mark Aaron, and Don Doran inspired the 1976 Tennis Squad into aggressive play against their South Puget Sound League competitors.

Despite cancellations of initial matches and practices due to rain, the netmen worked strongly together to form a dynamic team. Although losing to Federal Way in the league opener, the netters regained their poise in defeating cross town rival Lakes.

Instructing the boys squad with great vitality and pride, Coach Gary Thomas did an outstanding job with the young players and the "old pros."

Reaching high on his serve, Peter Whittaker hits the ball hard into his opponents court.



Using the skill and experience needed to be successful in the challenging game of tennis, Junior Mark Aaron exhibits a well placed forehand drive to ace his Viking opponent.

Clover Park Soccer Team members execute superb strategy as Keith Richards, keeping one step ahead of his opponent, dashes with the ball towards a Warrior goal.

Stiff competition await CP's Soccer Team

Clover Park's Varsity Soccer Team, participated for their second consecutive year in the new Central Sound Soccer League.

Several returning seniors added vital experience to the team. New underclassmen learned the basics, preparing for the next year.

Mr. Jack Carbone's coaching techniques proved invaluable to the Warrior squad.

The team suffered several setbacks as they lost the opener to Lakes 3-0. Slowly getting back on their feet after falling to the Federal Way Eagles in a similar battle, the inexperienced soccer players gained background and practice throughout the season.

Springtime musical 'Carousel' delights responsive audience

The contemporary musical play, Carousel, capped the spring scene at CP with romance and tragedy.

The four night production was produced and directed by Mrs. Virginia Heidbreder. The instructor aided actors during hours of rehearsals in April and May. Assisting the director, Miss Becca Thompson arranged the choreography.

Orchestra director, Mr. Richard Dawson, led the instrumentalists.

Mr. Richard Cambridge directed the vocal score of Carousel, and Mr. Bruce Brummond was music coordinator.

Mr. Bruce Brummond directed the vocal score of Carousel.

Portraying leading characters were Laura Pittman as Julie Jordan, and Dan James as Billy Bigelow.

The supporting cast included Evonne Palmer, Steve Swanson, Kirsten Pederson, and Tom Lawrence.

Members of the cast of 'Carousel' assemble on the stage during the opening scene. The musical drama centers around the trials and tribulations of two young lovers. Dynamic talent and perpetual excitement of the supporting cast made the stage production a successful spring musical.

Waiting for the morning doughnuts and coffee, the laughing sailors watch Carrie (Evonne Palmer) as she waves her wooden spoon wildly and angrily tells them all to "get away."

European beauties Leslee Hrabetin and Mary Means hold a pretty pose after their dance.

Radiant princess Beth Clary graces royal float

With a devilish grin and a wave of his hand, CP Warrior Alenn Bautista leads nine sparkling cheerleaders, stepping in unison, past the Washington Plaza Building and through a crowd of responsive onlookers during the 1976 Puyallup Valley Daffodil Festival Parade.

Radiant as the daffodils they carry, Princesses Patti Madsen and Cindy Thomson graciously wave to spectators of the Daffodil Festival.

Putting the blossoms in their proper places, Karen Stout and Laura Dornak decorate Lakewood's float for the annual Daffodil Parade.

Enthusiastically stepping down Pacific Avenue, Bev Maddox marches with the CP Drill Team.

Floating on a sea of daffodils the Queen's Float regally goes through the streets of downtown Tacoma, with the Queen, Renee Hopp, and her princesses aboard the ship, Mayflower.

Parading downtown Tacoma during the 43rd annual Daffodil Festival, CP's Marching Warrior Band entices sidewalk crowds, with their performance of a routine to "The Horse."

Red, white, and blue blended with the golden daffodils during the 43rd Annual Grand Floral Parade in a Bicentennial salute to America's first 200 years.

Leading the events with Queen Renee Hopp of Rogers High and her royal court, including Clover Park's Princess Beth Clary.

Float after float, each outshining the last, and a multitude of marching bands and drill teams rocked three communities during this 102 unit floral display.

Representing Lakewood and Clover Park, Princess Patti Madsen and Anna Bowling waved to onlookers from the Lakewood Summer Festival Float.

Academic excellence achieved by CP Honor Grads

Clover Park Honor Graduates of 1976 achieved academic excellence throughout their high school years; maintaining a 3.5 overall grade point average.

Dedication and hard work gave the graduates a sense of pride as they received diplomas and honor cords on commencement night.

In addition to graduation honors, many of the students were awarded scholarships toward further education in the fields of humanities, sciences, athletics and leadership.

Leaving behind cherished memories of Clover Park, the grads anticipated their future challenges and goals.

April

April began on a fearful note as pupils and faculty were worried with the passing of the important school levy. Passing one proposal, Lake wood citizens reinstated hope for high education at Clover Park.

The annual Daffodil Festival ushered in a long awaited spring putting most everyone in good spirits and ready for a shortened version of Easter Vacation.

CP's student body took part in preparation for the Mock Political Convention, and the Drama Department's musical production of 'Carousel' got underway.

Highlighting the Senior's final year at Clover Park was the Junior Senior Prom held on April 24th, at "Club 565."

April's Pep Assembly involved Mr. Carbone and Mr. Thomas in a game of "pass the life-saver."

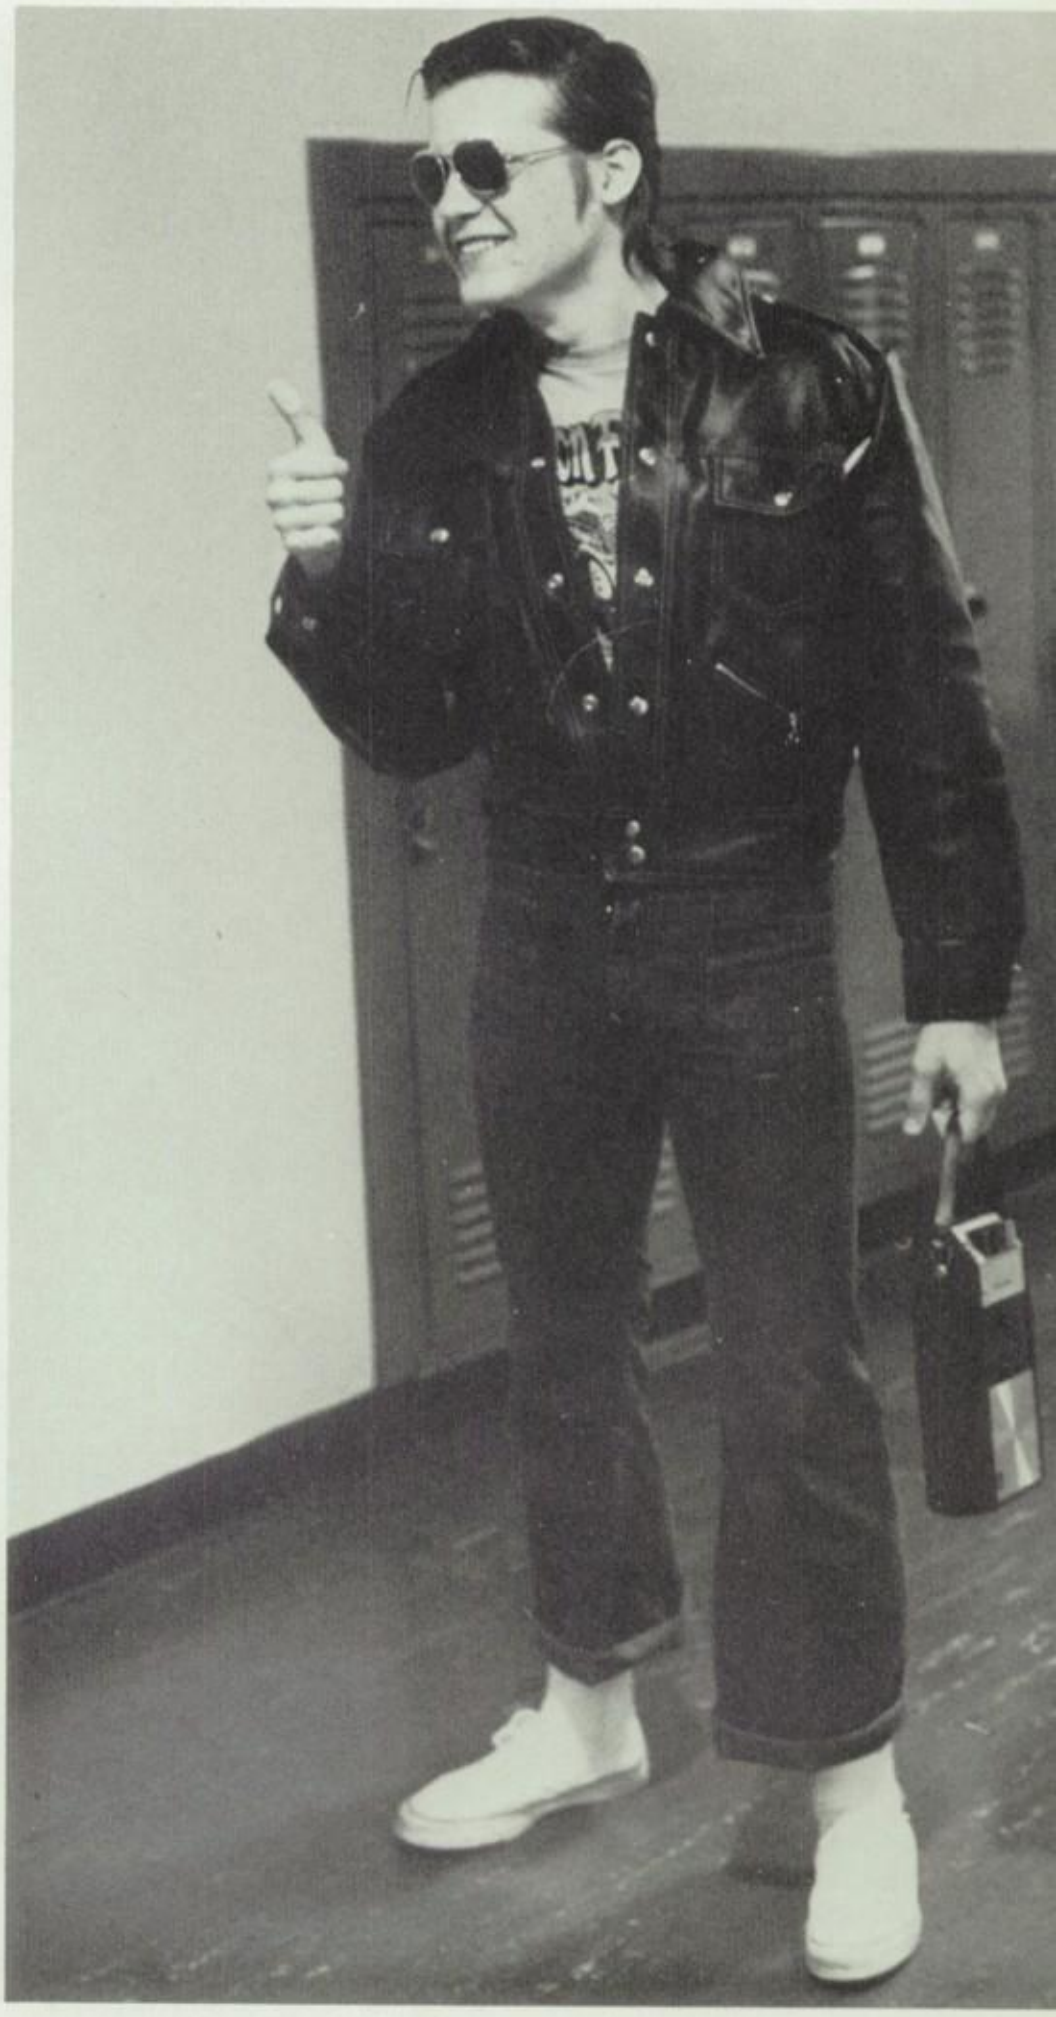
Being aware of spring sports with a mock game of "Truth or Consequences" Clover Park teachers participate wholeheartedly at one of the last pep assemblies of the 1975-76 school year.

Members of the Republican Committee Judy Kempe, Ed Quisenberry, Karen Coor, Donna Sakson, Vickie Hayward and Lizz Brown busy themselves with the planning of the Mock Political Convention. Held in May, the Convention involved the student body in the spirit of the election year.

Passing Levy, Jr.-Sr. Prom highlight glorious April

Dressed to fit the spring theme on the annual Junior-Senior Prom, couples enjoy dancing to a romantic slow tune by the band, "Sausalito."

Sophomores salute the Senior class during the Junior-Senior Prom, while dancing to the strains of the theme, "That's the Way of the World."



Ahhhy . . . ! Getting in the groove during Clover Park's spirit week, Randy Olson dresses the part for a nostalgic salute on Fifties Day.

Coach Erickson inspires girl

Sprinting for the finish line, Clover Park's girl tracksters, Cathy Connors, Sue Boyczuk, and Marcy Russell use their last ounce of energy while running the 220 yard dash.

Track team member Tina Drake shoots out of the blocks as she "gives it all she's got."

tracksters

A 78-27 win over Capital High opened the season for the 1976 Girls' Track Team. Following, the Franklin Pierce Cardinals and Lakes Lancers fell to the Clover Park Warriorettes in similar battles.

Phyllis Kropilak led the team in field events, while Barb Harris and Tesse Neil paced competitors in the running events.

Outstanding sophomores Darlene Cherry and Dana Jones added their poise and skills to the team.

Mrs. Jan Erickson coached the athletes through District competition in hopes of a State placing. Assistant Coach Barb Pyne proved helpful to those entered in field events as she led the shotputters to new record distances.

Anxiously awaiting the starter's signal, tracksters Carol Godsey and Jeanette Daniels ready themselves at the start of the 440 relay.

Putting forth outstanding effort during the mile run, Vicki Boyczuk, gives her all in an attempt to score for the Warriors against FP.

Clearing the high jump bar with ease, sophomore Gina Clevenger, aggressively leaps to add points for the Girls' Track Team, during the tough meet against rivals Lakes Lancers.

Young cindermen dominate CP Warrior Track Team

Speed, agility, and energy described the 1976 Track Team. The squad showed promise in the league opener at Franklin Pierce.

Providing experience in the running events, spikers Brian Hurlen, Luke Stevenson, Gary High, Ray Skar, and Ken Grimes added their talents to the Warrior Squad. Brian Vincent, Dave Pritchard, and Jim Richardson led CP in the field events.

Long distance runner Bob Sargent proved to be a sophomore sensation as he led the South Puget Sound League with the best in the mile.

Head Coach Jim Angelel emphasized improvement of the young team in strenuous workouts Coaches Darold Talley and Dan Grimshaw worked with long distance and weight men.

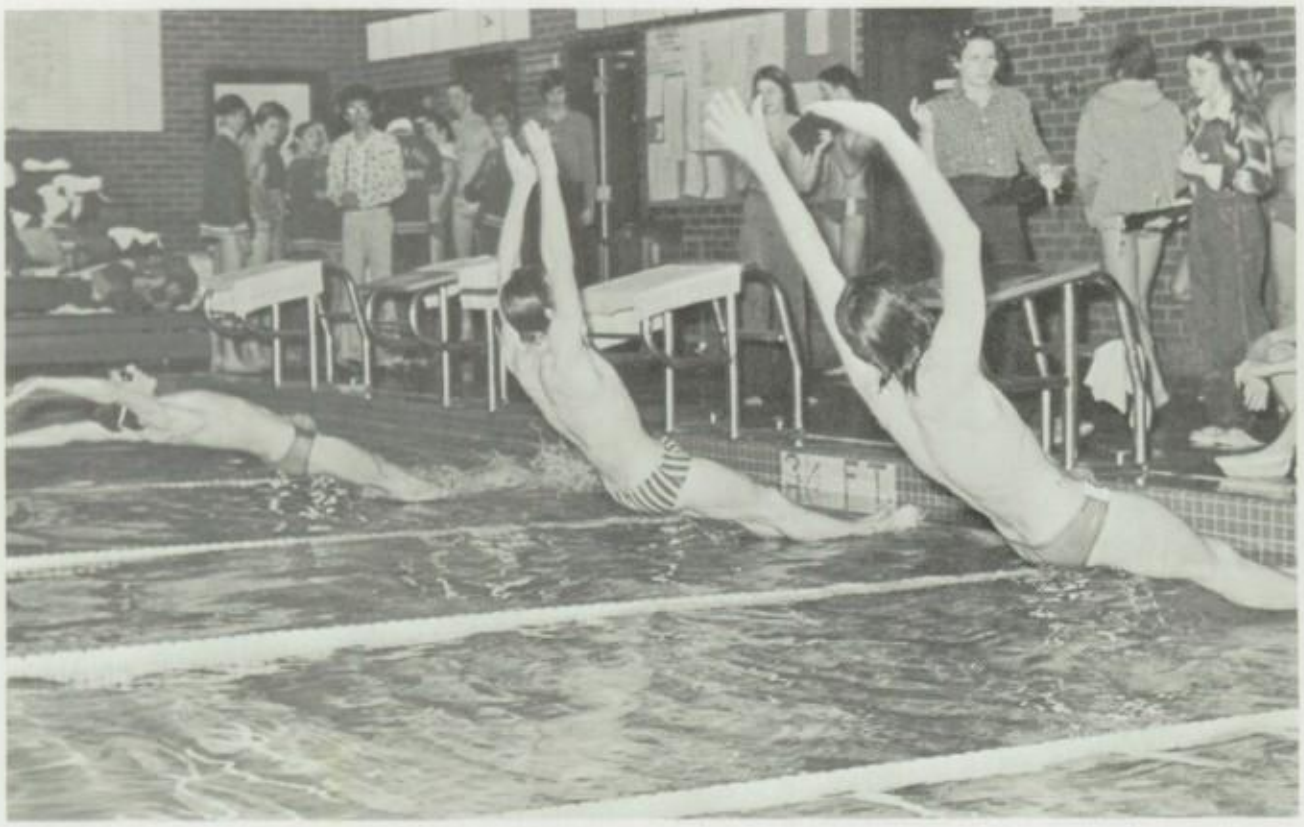
Dashing toward the finish line, Clover Park runners Buzz Barrett and Ray Skar, vocally encouraged by onlooking spectators, rapidly gain on their opponents in the final thrust.

Gaining experience for the up-coming Track season, Mike Firch practices the shot-put to add distance and to perfect his style.

Six of Clover Park's premier long distance runners start on another practice race to get into better shape and better their times.

As expressions of will and determination appear across their faces, Clover Park tracksters race down CP's Thompson Field while they prepare for another season in track and field. Headed by coach Mr. James Angelel, this year's team seems to be promising.



Utilizing skills in timing and coordination for the backstroke race, competitive CP swimmers push-off to a good start and demonstrate the talents necessary to win the meet.

Positioning for a back dive, diver Carlo Jones demonstrates great style and poise.

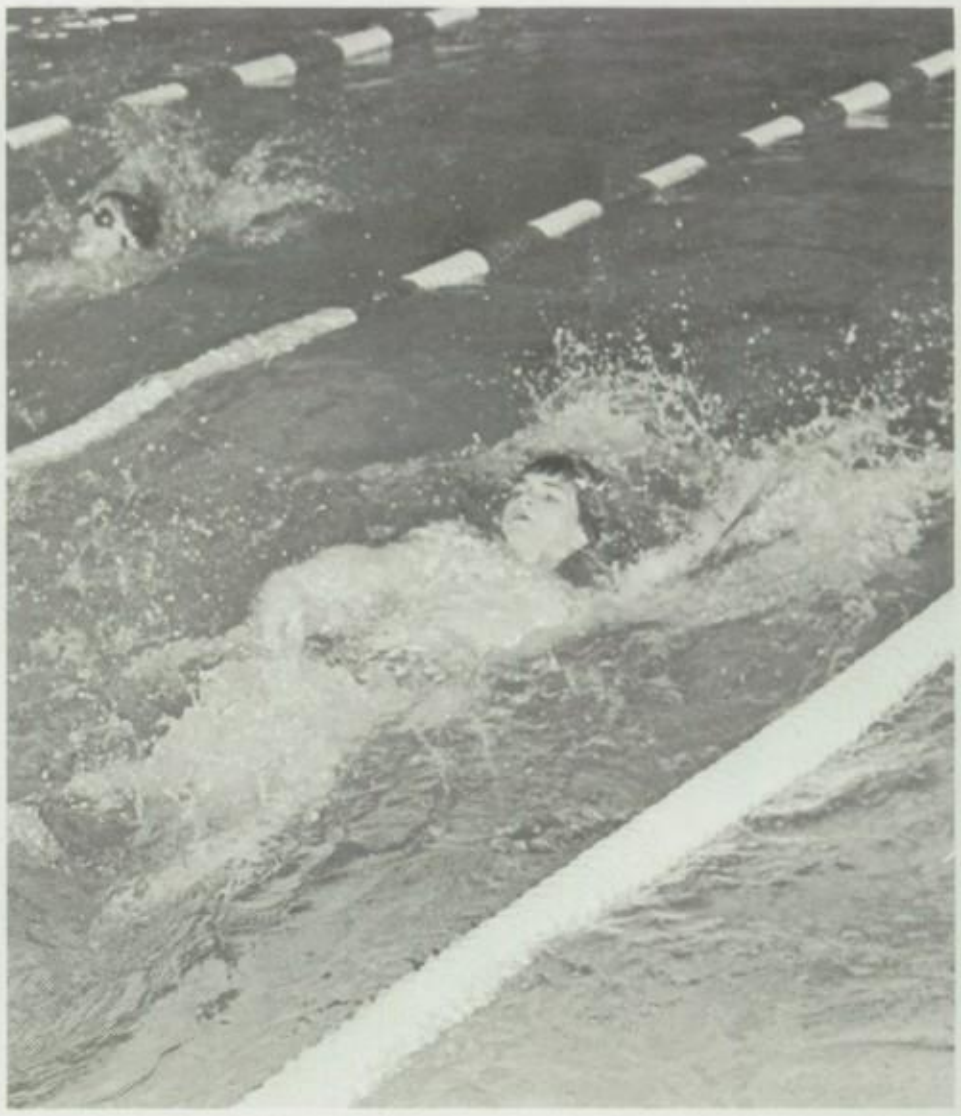
Gasping for breath during a grueling breast stroke competition, Tom McKee races toward the finish line in hopes of the fastest time.

Psyching himself up before reaching the cold water, Coach Dave Emery celebrates a CP swim meet victory by taking a chilly plunge.



Displaying strength and endurance as he swims the backstroke, Junior Varsity swimmer Lester Scampfer strives to achieve a victory.

Warrior team swims toward a second place finish

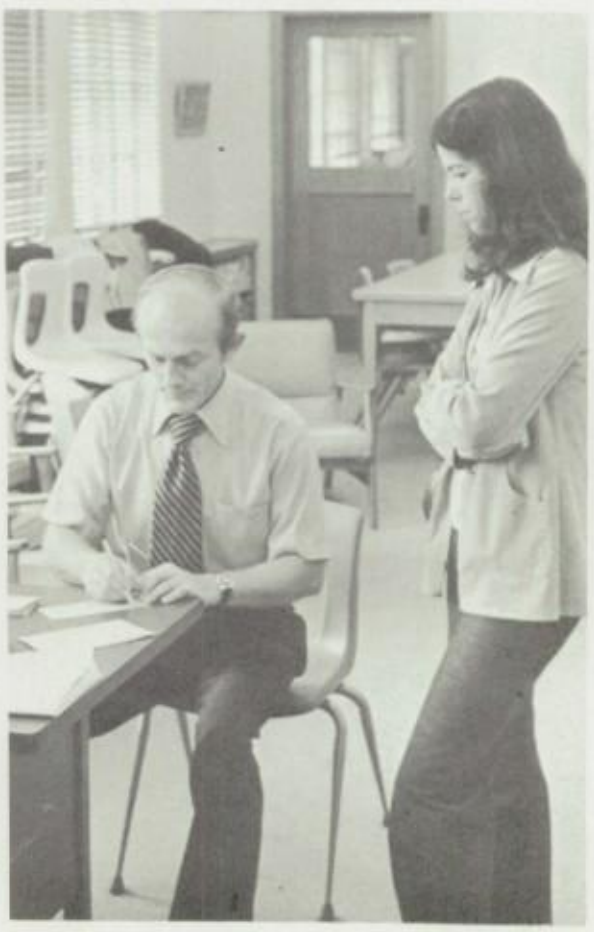
In performances surpassing previous years, the 1975-76 Boys' Swim Team had a victorious season.

Working with veterans and newcomers alike, Coach Dave Emery and the team strove hard, spending much time on rigorous daily workouts to condition and prepare themselves for the strong competition.

Their efforts paid off most noticably in a victory over highly rated Federal Way. The team maintained a successful pace, leading them to the hard fought second place title in the South Puget Sound League.

Climaxing the season at the State Meet with eight members of the team participating, Ron Barnes, Steve Klein, Dave Kanamine and Phil Hanel all placed.

Celebrating after a well earned victory, Clover Park's hard-working swim team members await



ACADEMICS

Clover Park's Board of Directors preside over another meeting as they think over án important issue. Pictured are: Ronald J. Clark, Dist. 4; Vice-President Robert P. Whitaker, Dist. 1; President Stanley C. Johnson, Dist. 2, and Harold J. Mulholland, Dist. 5. Not pictured is John Dimmer, Dist. 3.

CP School Board directs district toward successful year

Clover Park School District's governing board consisted of five professionals and businessmen working with Dr. Robert Chisholm, superintendent.

The board members worked to set district policies while trying to improve the educational system for the twenty-five schools. After settling a strike early in the school year, the board concentrated their efforts on passing the district levy, and okaying special projects such as the new CP greenhouse.

The November elections brought a new member to the board as Ronald J. Clark filled a vacant position.

Monthly meetings were rotated between the district's four junior high schools in order to bring the school board to the public and promote community involvement.

Discussing important issues, Clover Park Board members Stanley Johnson, Mulholland and Superintendent Robert Chisholm field questions from the interested audience.

School Board directors Stanley Johnson and Harold Mulholland take a break from district meeting.

Administrators oversee extra-curricular and educational activities

Checking into the CP constitution, Intern Administrator, Mr. Kenneth Carlton and Vice Principal Mr. Andrew Pazaruski add to their hectic schedules by assisting students with problems.

Clover Park's Administration oversaw the educational and extra-curricular functions of the students. This operation included school business, supplies and equipment, curriculum, and the athletic program.

"Our main purpose," stated Student Activities Coordinator Hollister Gee, "is to insure each student the best possible education available in all phases."

Working as a team, Mr. Donald Morris, Principal, Vice Principal Andrew Pazaruski, and Administrative Assistant Hollister Gee, handled the administrative business and extra-curricular functions. Mr. Kenneth Carleton studied as an administrative intern through the North Building Office.

Amidst the daily working grind, Athletic Director Hollister Gee ponders in deep concentration for a brief moment as he goes through his paperwork.

Tending to the pile of paper work cluttering his desk, Principal Donald Morris takes care of his many duties as principal of Clover Park.

Attending his last "Back to School Night," retired Industrial Arts teacher Mr. George Kenoyer expertly demonstrates his crafts in wood-working.

Surrounded by Christmas Cheer, Clover Park's dedicated faculty, enjoy themselves at the holiday tea, held in the South Building Study Hall.

Metals teacher retires; New faces add to CP's knowledgeable faculty

To help ease some of the growing pains of an overpopulated student body, new faculty members were added to the current teaching staff.

Bringing with them refreshing new ideas, William Smith and Gerry Magnuson entered the Business Education Department and brought back to life an inactive student club entitled Future Business Leaders of America.

Gaylen Masters, from Hudtloff, joined the English staff; and from Lochburn, Dan Grimshaw added to the Social Studies Department personnel.

Dan Roberts, heading the brand new Horticulture labs in the greenhouse, and Terry Parkins lent their teaching talents to the Science Department.

Louise Ulbricht took on the challenge of mathematics and Barbara Pyne patiently helped new motorists in the Traffic Safety classes.

After a year of absence, Wrestling Coach Dan Hensley returned to the Clover Park Mathematics Department.

Bidding farewell to teaching after 30 years, Creative Metals instructor George Kenoyer retired from the Art Department at the beginning of Christmas vacation.

Best wishes and much luck in years to come. You have done a great deal to make this a very pleasant year in physics. Let me know about your progress

Busy at the front desk in the main office, Secretaries Mrs. Geri Williams and Mrs. Jeanne Kitchen perform but a few of the many vital functions for which they are responsible. In addition to secretarial duties for administrators, they assist in a number of student and organizational services.

Custodians, secretaries improve CP environment

The clattering of typewriters, the ringing of telephones, the buzzing of copy machines did not deter the friendly familiar faces of CP's organized secretarial staff.

Sports or activities information, guidance counseling, or just general answers were always supplied by the effervescent personnel.

Mrs. Helga Thomas' Student Accounts Office stocked ASB cards and dance tickets while maintaining accountings for student fund reserves.

Behind the hectic CP scene, custodians kept the school running smoothly. Silently and efficiently the crew set up gymnasiums for social events and performances, and kept the campus clean and trimmed with general maintenance.

Janitor Mr. Horace Richards finds time during his busy schedule to mend a broken desk leg.

Clover Park custodian Mr. William Mays, uses th drill in preparation for the Daffodil float.

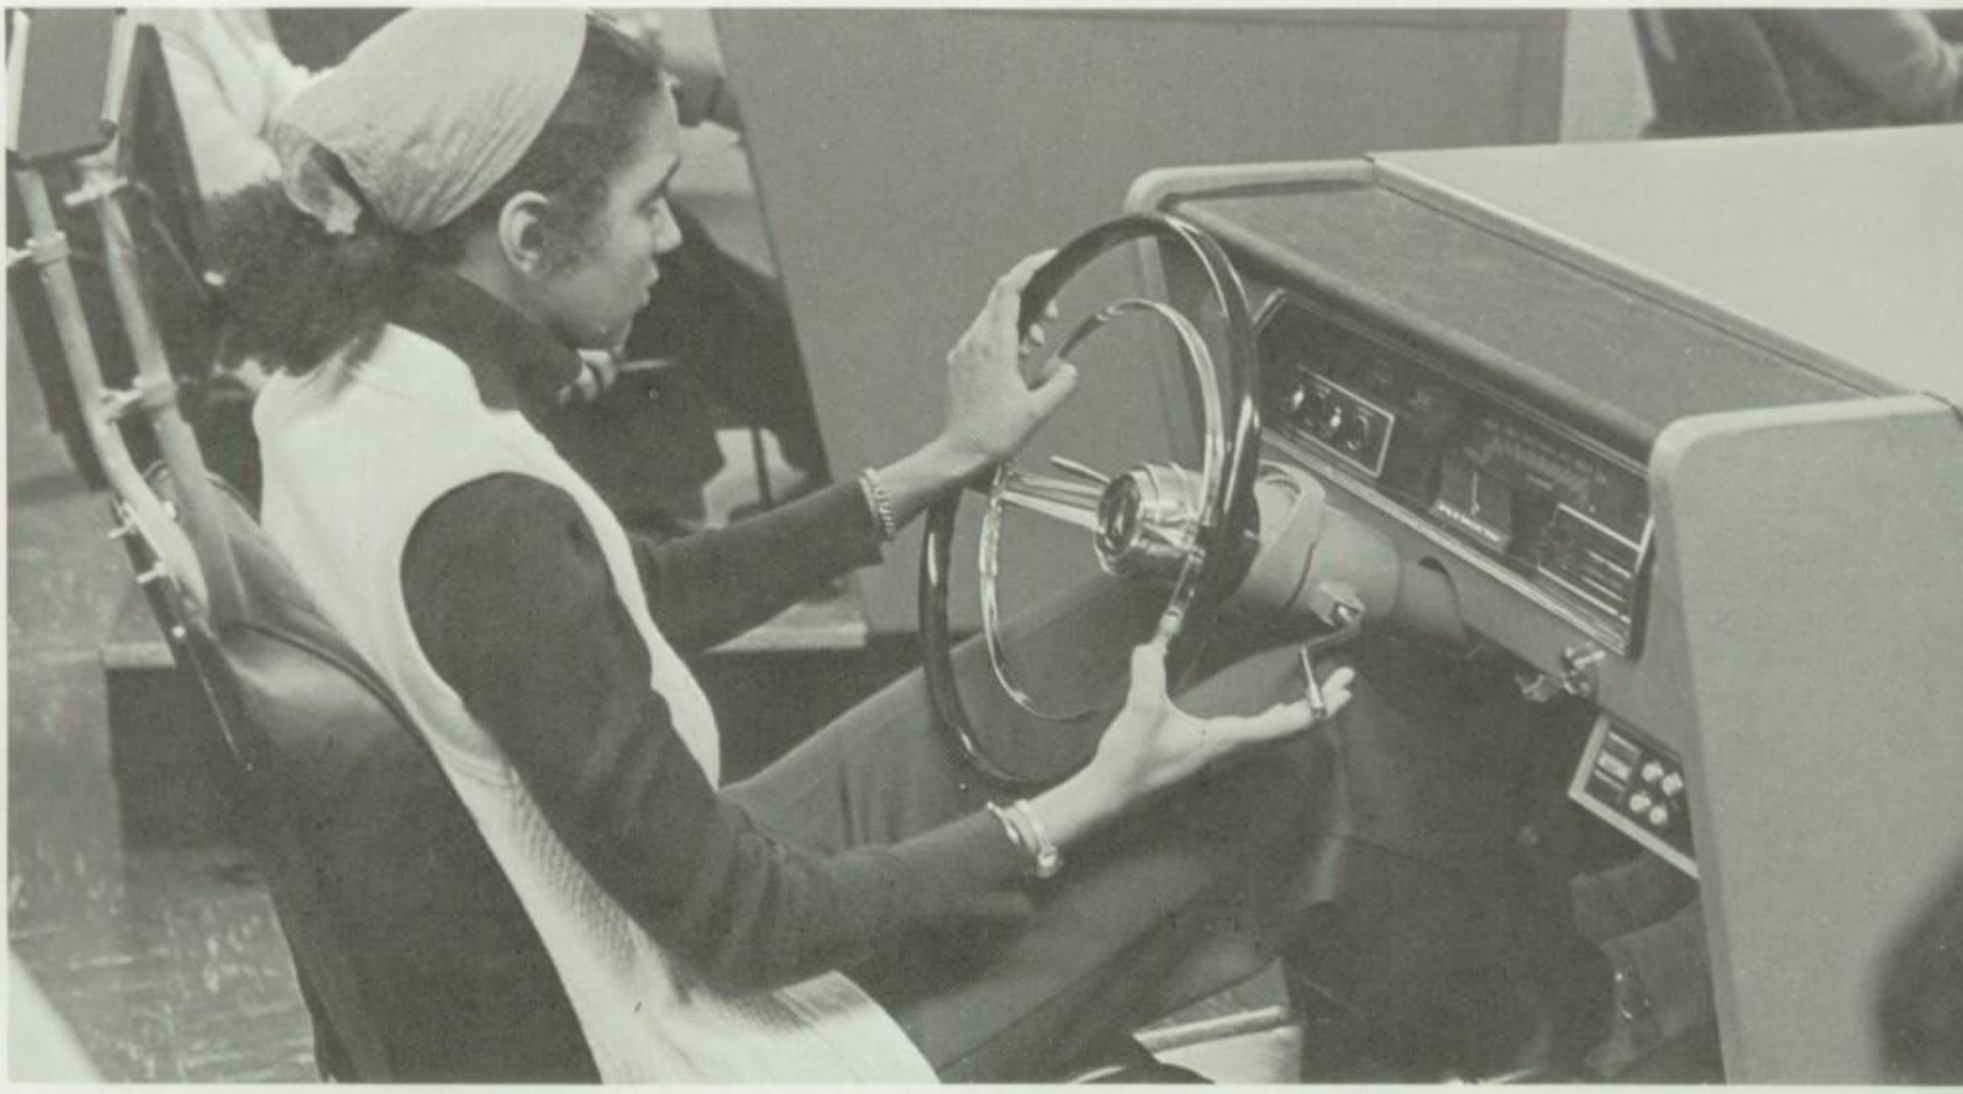
Executing the responsibilities of a library secretary, Mrs. Mandine Michaelson performs one of her many duties as she thumbs through the index section of the card catalog at Clover Park.



Before the lights go out and the training film starts to roll, an interested Machelle Sitgraves listens intently to her instructor. Helping to enhance Clover Park's students' knowledge of driving, the simulators give them the extra important practice they need without actually going out on the road.

Drivers' Ed hits road instructing CP students in safe driving skills.

The drivers' education course increased student awareness in defensive driving as the mobile class maneuvered their way through Tacoma and outlying areas.

The three-phase program consisted of classroom, simulators, and behind the wheel instruction, giving students an overall view in the rules of the road. In addition, students were taught some basic mechanics of the automobile.

Due to the lack of cars available in the fall, the "behind the wheel" segment of the course steered into a slow start. However, the single district car was utilized, along with instructors, to help students learn the techniques and skills of competent driving.

Helping out the future Washington automobile drivers, Mrs. Leslie Phillips drills and tests students daily on the finer points of driver education and safety on the many roadways of "the Evergreen State."

Gordon Dolman and the Special Ed staff help many CP students

Mr. Jack Carbone helps prepare his Secondary Alternate Program students for the future.

Savoring Thanksgiving delicacies from far off countries the foreign student program sponsored a large feast of exotic foods from Korea, Cambodia, Guatemala, Vietnam, and Haiti.

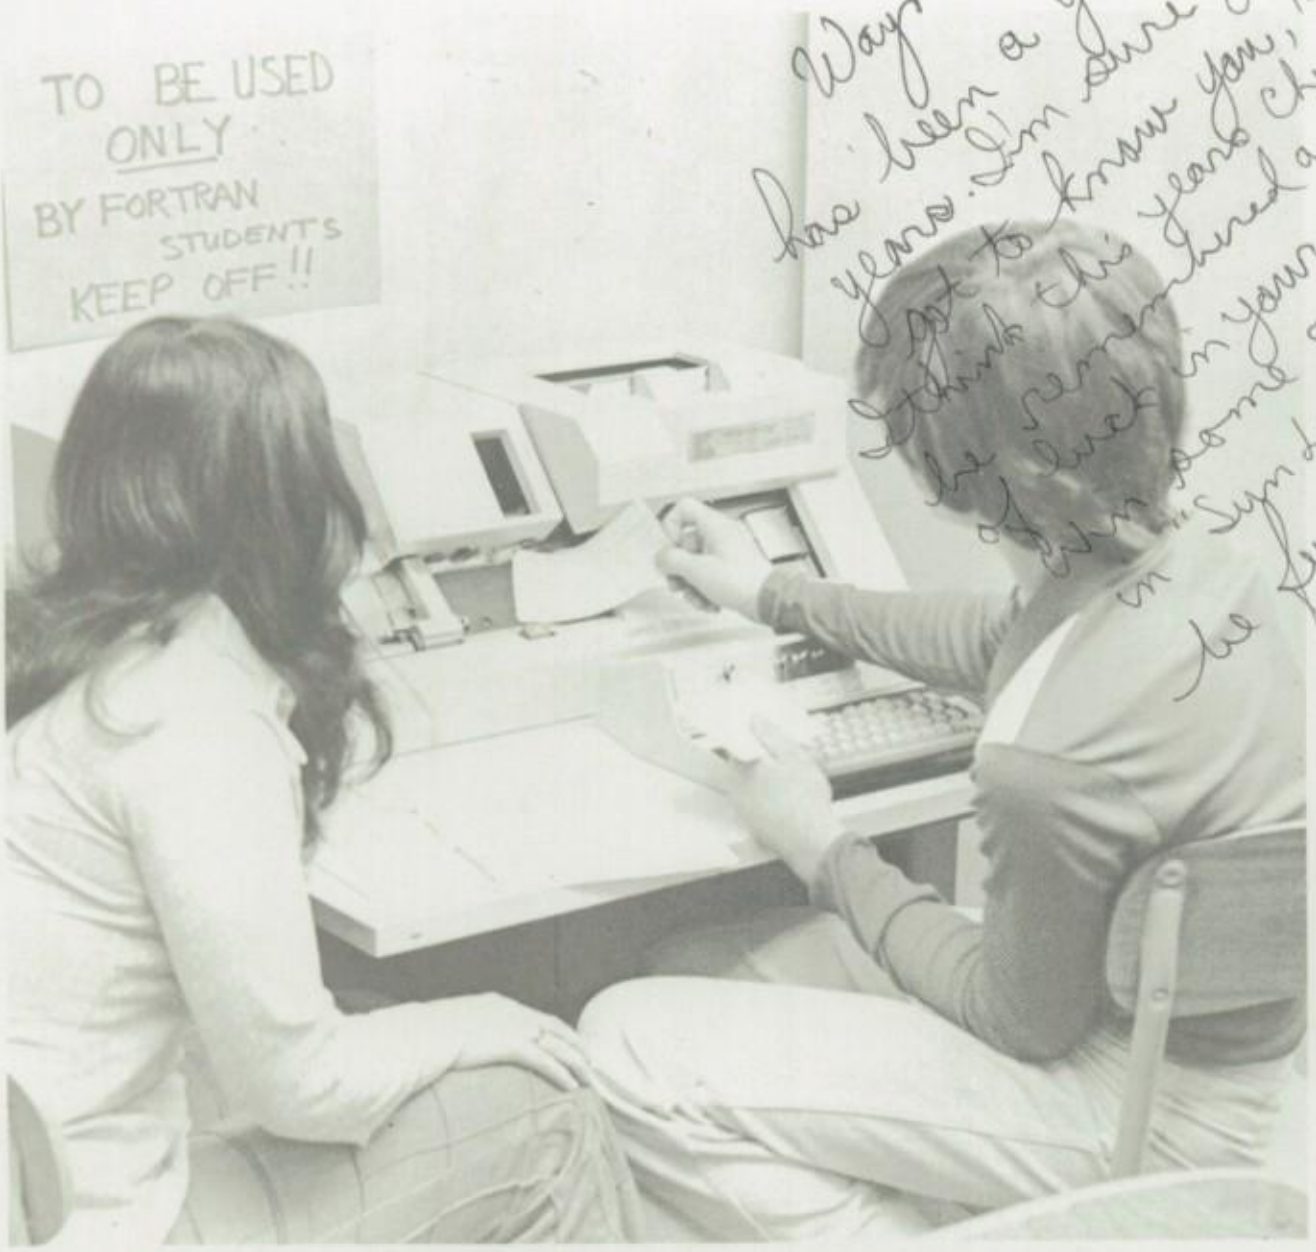
Some of our new citizens from Viet-Nam had difficulty in mastering the English language. Through the Special Education Department the newcomers received instructions in learning the basic skills.

The Work Study Program was included in the department. Local shops hired students, giving the youths opportunities to operate a business in realistic conditions.

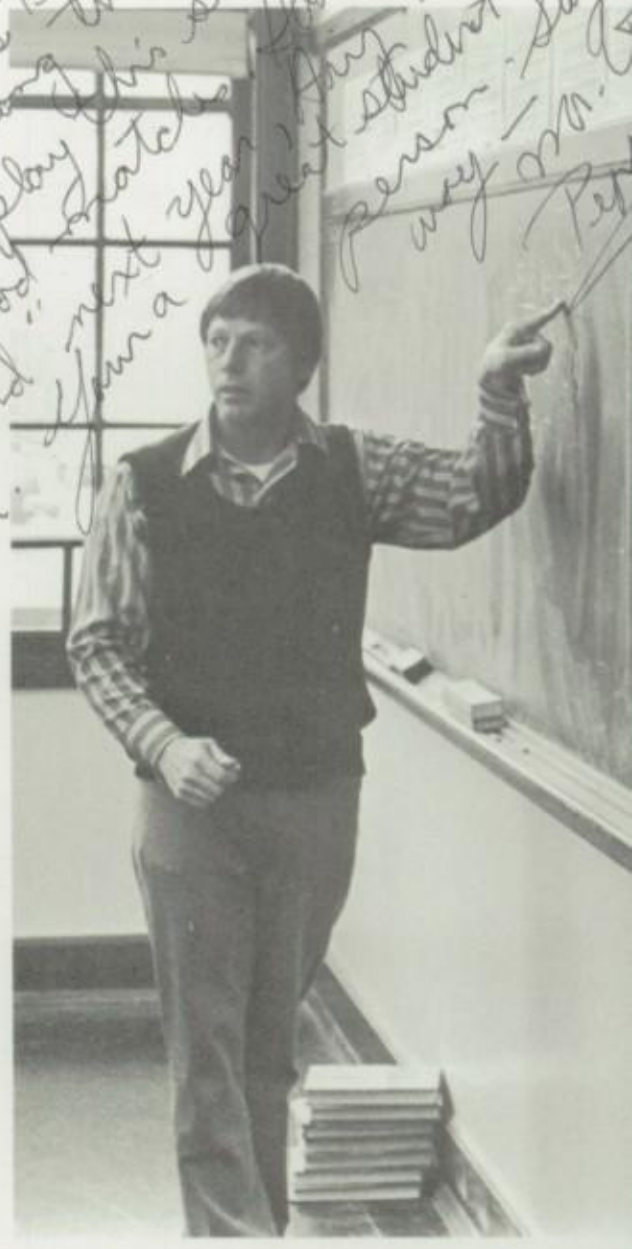
Employed students learned both the tools of the trade and gained necessary experience in their fields.

Mr. Gordon Doleman headed the Special Education Department as he and his staff patiently helped students in their particular study subject -- ranging from mathematics to history and English.

Reviewing assignments, Mrs. Jo Anne Cline helps Soo Mi Stevens and other Vietnamese students in the Work-Study Program to increase their knowledge of the English language.



Learning and experimenting with new computer techniques, Kelley Bland and Eric Trachtenberg make up their own programs and work them out in Mr. Roberts' "Computer Programming" class.



Explaining a complicated mathamatical formula, Mr. Harold Roberts gives his class a few tips.

Math department offers wide range of subjects for students to pursue Offering a wide variety of classes Clover Park's Mathematics Department provided knowledge of numbers for use in everyday life.

Courses ranged from Basic Mathematics and Fundamental Algebra to Probability and Calculus; satisfying most student's interests, and meeting the college bound scholar's requirements.

Several courses gave the mathematicians an idea about the working career in the mathematical field. Practical Trigonometry presented information and developed skills in surveying. Computer Programming and Computer Concepts explored the field of rational machines.

The mathematical logic taught, took students from the basic problem solving techniques of daily life, to mechanical reasoning and solving abstract puzzles.

Gathered around their fearless teacher Mr. Jim Erickson, students listen intentively to a question and answer session hoping to catch a few more pointers to help them in "Limits."

CP English Department stimulates growth in reading and speech skills

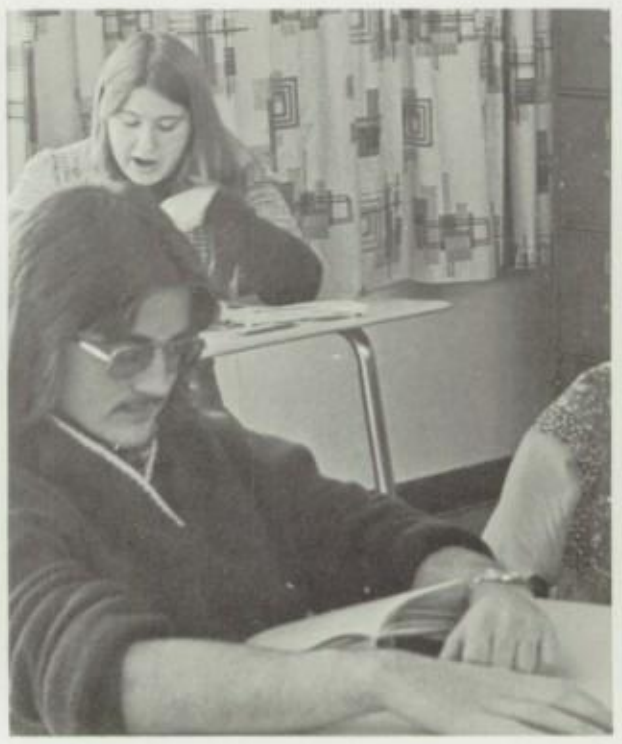
A variety of classes offered to improve literature, writing, and speaking skills busied students in Clover Park's English Department.

The students were able to tie fun into learning with classes like, "Hey That's Funny," and "It's Magic." Clover Park boasts the only class in magic offered in the State of Washington.

Book bound students found themselves comfortable in the many literature classes available to them. "Murder and Mayhem," "Individualized Reading," "The Bible as Literature," and "Fiction Faces Life," were a sample of courses which developed the reader's skills.

Writing and speech and drama classes stimulated proper use of grammar and improvement of the student's individual self-expression.

Proving that the hand is quicker than the eye, Johnny Henderson and assistant Willette White perform a supernatural trick for another Friday show in Mr. Robert Fleming's "It's Magic" class.



Deep in concentration, Gerald Lucien reads one of the assigned books for "Fiction Faces Life."

A drama class provides students with a chance to perform the one act play "Once Upon a Playground." Under the guidance of Mrs. Virginia Heidbreder, the production cast portrays "tomboys"; included are Dawn Redemann, Rita Pederson, Barb Shea, Denise Clark, Rene Story, and Judy Sanford.

Displaying creativity in designs, student artists and instructors produced a variety of handicrafts.

A full selection of courses in basic painting, drawing, and pottery were included in the current Art Department's curriculum. The standard courses were enhanced by further studies in painting with oils, acrylics, and drawing with pastels. Printing, textiles, silk screening, stained glass, photography and art crafts were unique additions to the fundamental classes.

The annual art show consisted of outstanding art work created by the students throughout the year. In addition, Mr. Topolski's Advanced Media Specialization students displayed their projects, ranging from clay beads to tables and chairs, in private showings.

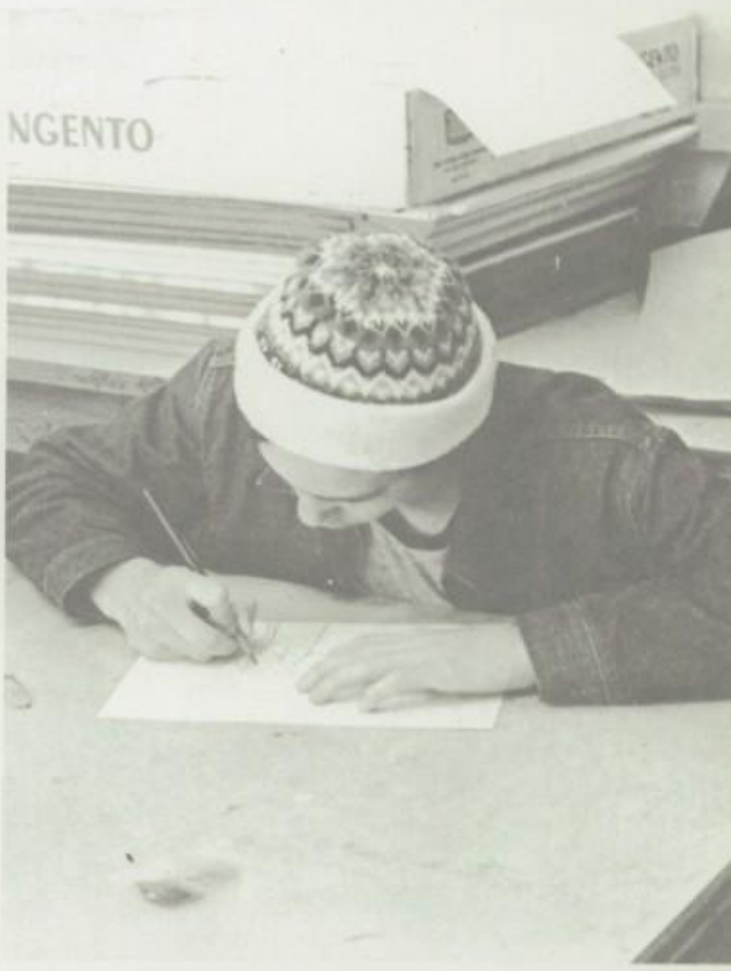
Softening, shaping and molding, Vicki Boyle ponders over her project in Media Spec., a class giving the student a chance to express themselves.

Mixing various dyes in Textiles class, Gayle McClay masters the perfect color for her batik.

Adding to the general mess, pottery Instructor Mr. Michael Topolski gets his hands right in there giving some special attention to students Tammy Johnson and Kathy Glueck. As they gain experience on the wheel they too will be creating many interesting and sometimes unusual works of art.

Art Department decorates campus for Christmas season

Enthralled in the creative art of weaving, Patti Guenthoer tries the "under and over" technique while constructing one of her many masterpiece wall hangings for the Evening of the Arts.



With a steady hand, art student Dave Fortune concentrates on skillfully completing a sketch.

Demonstrating the skills and talent needed to create a hand-crafted pot, Senior Robbie McCarren puts the finishing touches on his work in Pottery.

Working with extreme precision, Kelly Johnson sketches intricate original designs for a batik, which will be dyed in a variety of bright colors.

Students prepare for future in a 'Business World'

Concentrating on trying to keep records staight, Vicki Burgess jots down numbers in a very practical class, bookkeeping. This class helps to prepare students for future business plans.

Searching through the pages of her assignments, Lourdes Lavides seeks assistance from Mrs. Kettner.

"It's a business world," describes the Business Education Department at Clover Park. Offering a wide selection of courses, the program gave the students the chance to explore the possibilities in typing, shorthand, business machines, office procedures, bookkeeping, along with an understanding of the stock market, the American economic system and the laws governing citizens.

The team of instructors educated their students in the market for secretaries, public accountants and business machine operators.

The Business Education Department provides firsthand experience of on the job training, preparing students for future employment.

As they practice on their slants and loops, Sandy Guizzetti and Karen Hjelmstad write the day's lesson.

Promoting the skills of shorthand is only one of th classes Business Education offers.

Historical views of nation's first 200 years shown in Social Studies

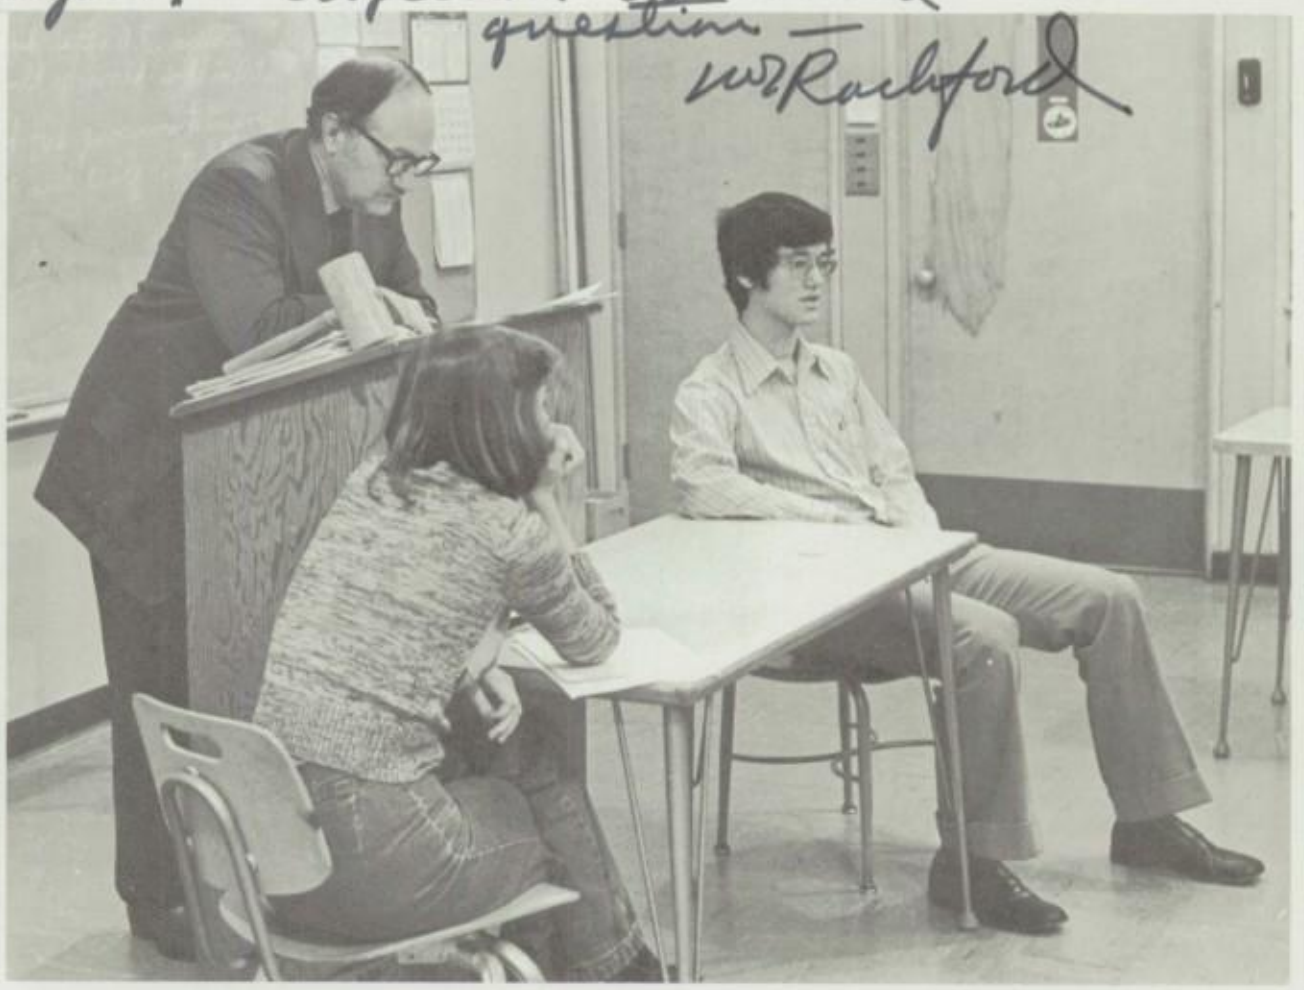
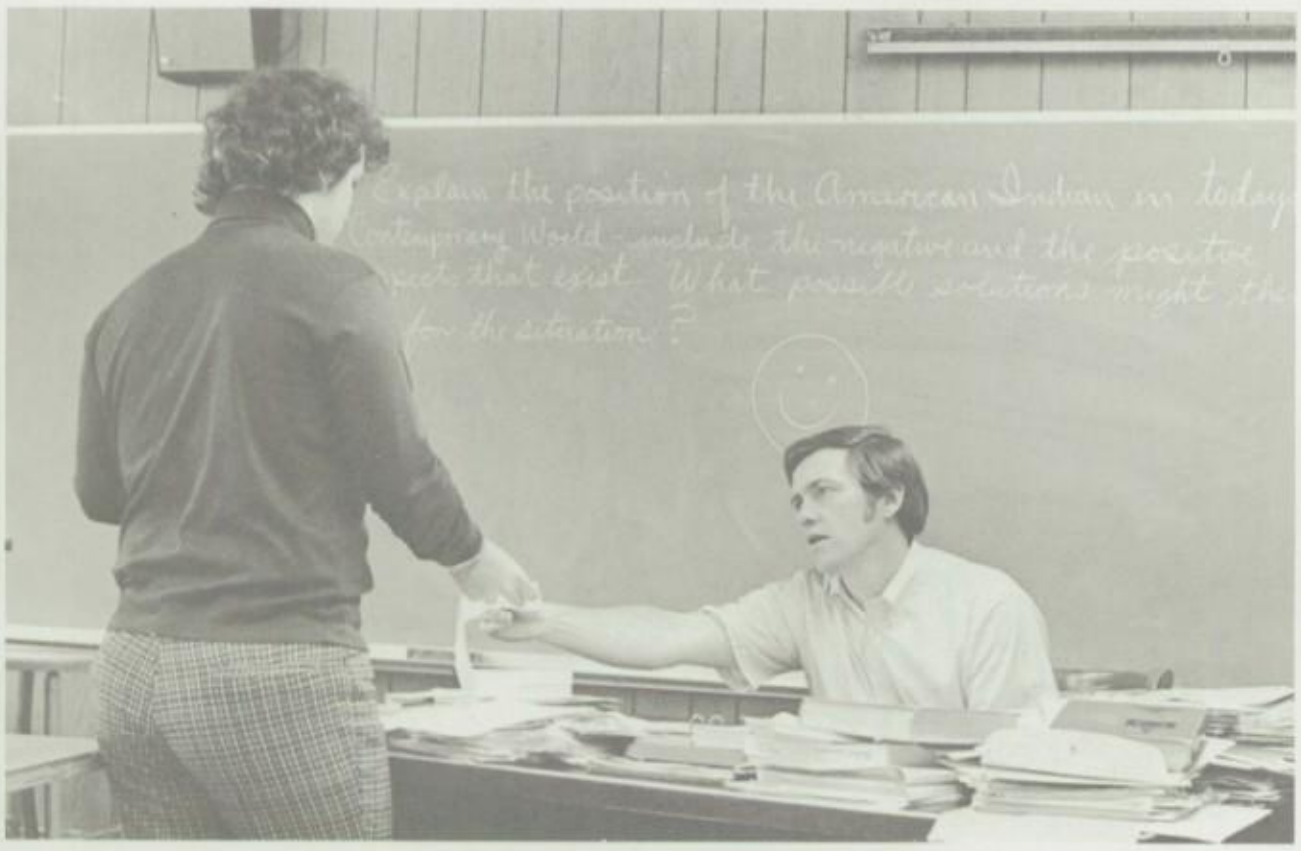
Lincoln High School's principal speaks to a Contemporary Affairs class on racial conflicts.



Seriously thinking over their case at a mock trail, Marilyn Hull and Wayne Smith learn about the court system in Mr. Warren Rachford's social studies "Law and You" class.



With a smiling face backing up an accumulated pile of papers, Mr. Robert Colleran takes time out from his sorting to help a student with a problem in today's Contemporary World.

Taking advantage of the increased range of activities offered by the Social Studies Department, students toured Seattle's famous 19th Century underground city, in addition to class projects, films and field trips.

Maintaining the variety of fascinating courses, the department retained such favorites as "Riches to Rags," "Colonial America," "Czars and Cossacks," and "Kings and Queens of England." Each course offered students a detailed study of national and world history.

Some of the upper level courses in "Contemporary World," and "Human Ecology" helped to extend the students' interests in keeping up with current events in the news.

Music groups perform for entertainment of community

The Music Department attempted to keep the school and community entertained through the use of the international language of music. They spent many hours practicing for several different type performances.

Sponsoring the annual Variety Show, music students raised money to help pay for their many activities.

The annual music Concert Season ticket sale was a success as Clover Park's bands earned over 1200 dollars, topping every other district group.

The department brought honor to CP as many talented groups participated in various musical contests.

The total Music Department sent ten representatives to the Washington All-State Music Educators Convention held on February 16.

Loosening up their vocal chords as they practice for another singing performance, the girls of Mr. Brummond's Celestial Singers class look over their sheet music to learn the tune correctly.

Filling the room with the melodious music of violins orchestra students, Laurie Hrabetin, Sherri Hendrickson, and Bobby Allen concentrate on their music during practice for an upcoming concert.

Practicing for an upcoming solo, Vikki Boyczuk takes some helpful performing tips from Mr. Hunt.

Donned in a traditional Mexican sombrero Mr. Paul Raymond, Spanish Instructor, with the help of student Henry Bautista, teaches Dean Sivara Spanish.

Taking a break from the everyday class curriculum, Sue Penley prepares a delicious mouth-watering French delicacy for her hungry classmates.

n the midst of the hustle and bustle of collecting the laily assignments, Mrs. Huguette Bennett takes time out to chat with French student Phyllis Young about the current class schedule.

Language classes help teach foreign traditions thru verbal techniques

"Bueno dias," "Bonjour," and "Wie gehts." Echoes of Spanish, French, and German were heard throughout Clover Park as students practiced their verbal techniques of foreign language. Along with the classroom practices of the language, other activities stimulated a realistic look at the culture of the particular country. These included tasting traditional French dishes, singing songs, performing dances of other lands, and acting out German plays. During the Christmas season, Spanish classes enjoyed a typical yuletide fiesta.

The Foreign Language Department is rapidly expanding as more and more pupils take the courses to enlarge upon their vocabulary and break the universal "communication gap."

Glove-trotting students bid Clover Park High farewell as they left for Western Europe in the new Fall Study Program.

Twenty-two travelers from CP, instructed by Mr. Stevan Antles and Mr. Gordon White, left on the 28-day visit.

Departing on September 19th via Canadian Pacific Airlines, the wayfarers visited the colorful countries of Great Britain, France, Austria, Germany and Holland. Four to five day tours of each country added to the traveler's knowledge of the culture and people.

The traveling youths' high school education continued, with students earning up to four credits in independent studies and an additional two credits in comparative cultures.

Wayne, School at Clover ... in thought, and in wonderm what the future holds is a question. But have fun and enjoy yourself finding the answer.

Leisurely enjoying the culture along with the beauty of Old England, Clover Park students gather to admire the Oxford University Chapel during their 28 day Foreign Study League Program.

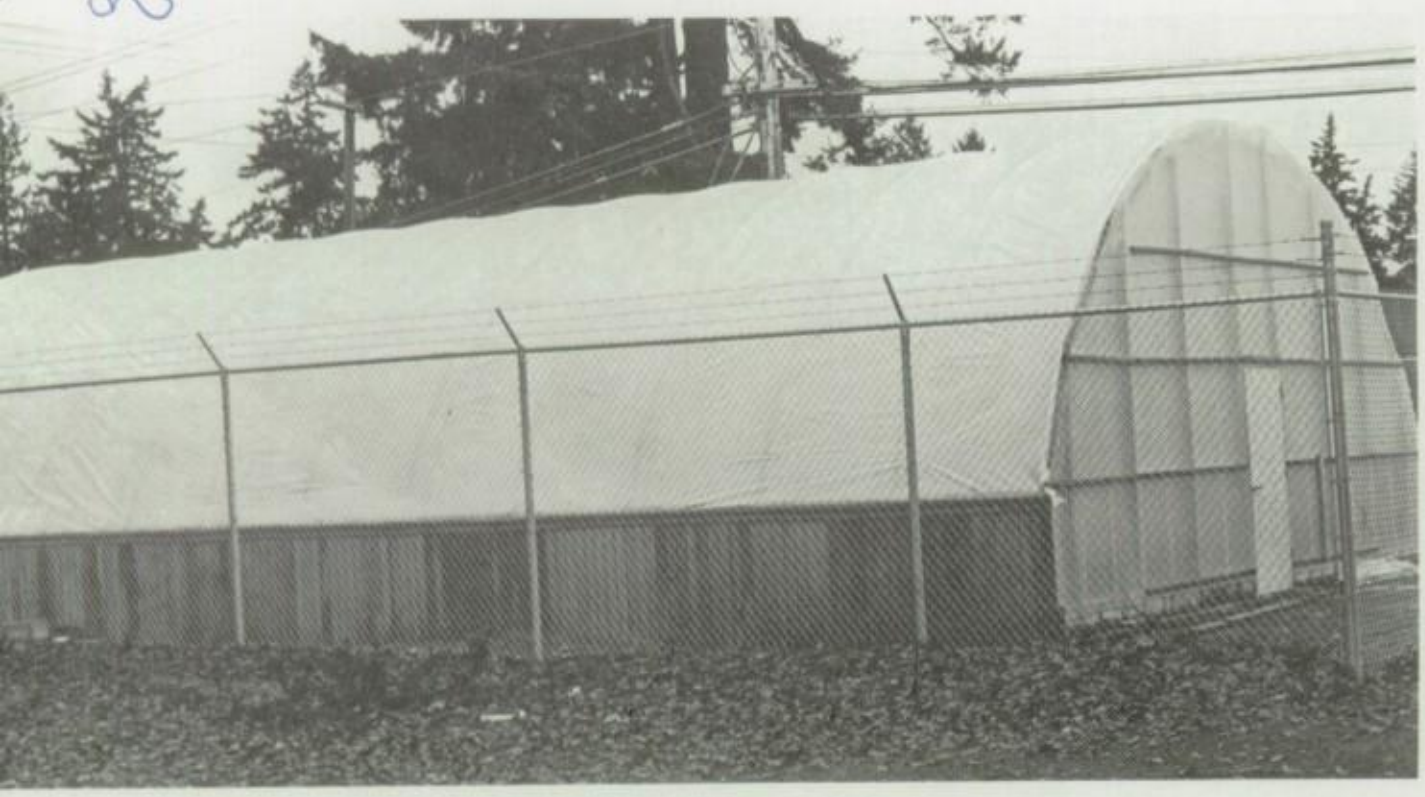
Amid a flurry of flapping feathers, Kurt Newman stands in the magnificent city of Amsterdam, Holland, while friendly pigeons enjoy a free meal.

Laughingly displaying their decor, tourists Valarie Dvorak and Cynthia Collins try on traditional uniforms worn in Berchtesgdan Salt Mines.

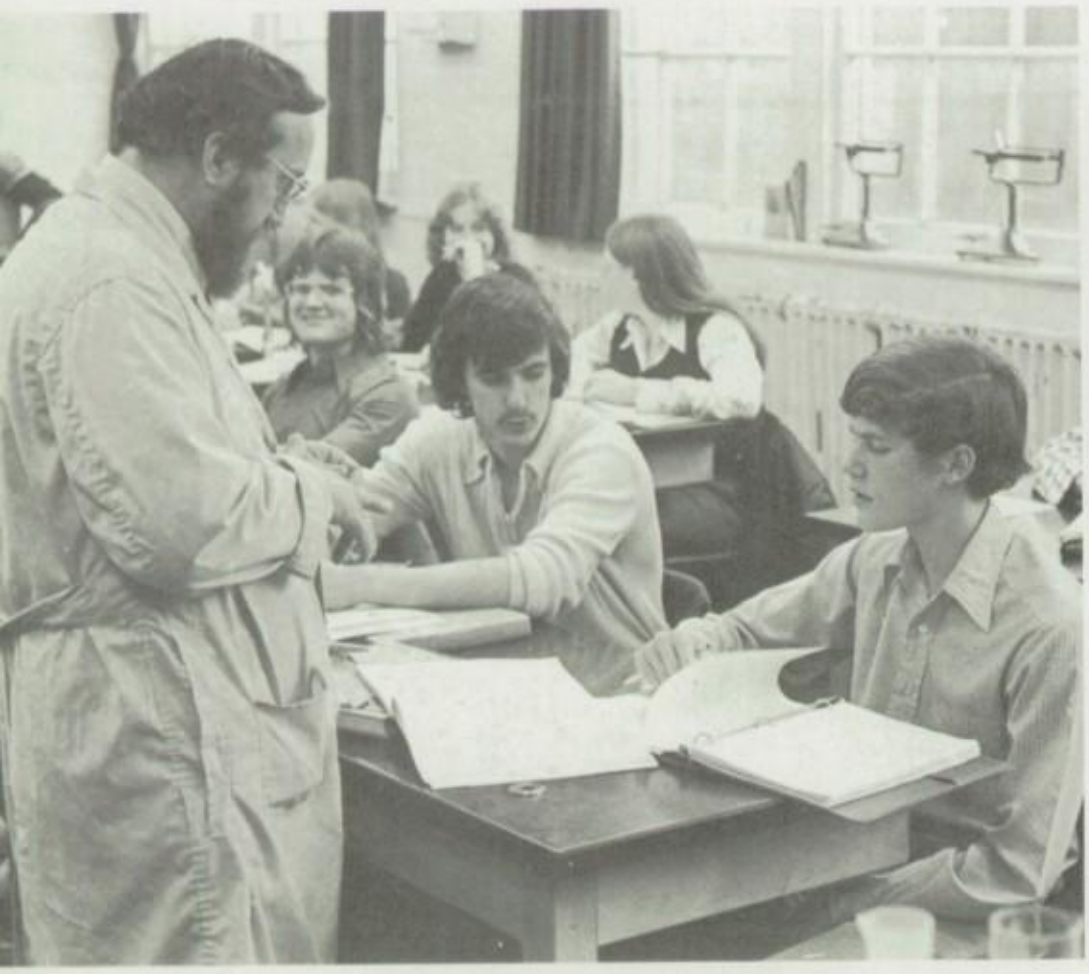
Following their tour guide Michelle, Margaret Clapp and Liz Kraft discuss the interesting and colorful history of the Luxemburg Gardens in Paris.

Greenhouse enlarges Science



Clover Park horticulture classes have a complete change of scenery with the new greenhouse which is located at the south end of the campus.The new greenhouse was built with the help of students.

Conducting a physics experiment Joyce Alcantara utilizes a spring to help analyze wave motion.



Taking advantage of Mr. Leland Weavers' resources, students ask questions about confusing problems on one of the daily assignments in chemistry.

An atom can be seen, but the inside of it cannot. Keeping this principle in mind Don Anderson uses it to help him illustrate indirect observation.

curriculum

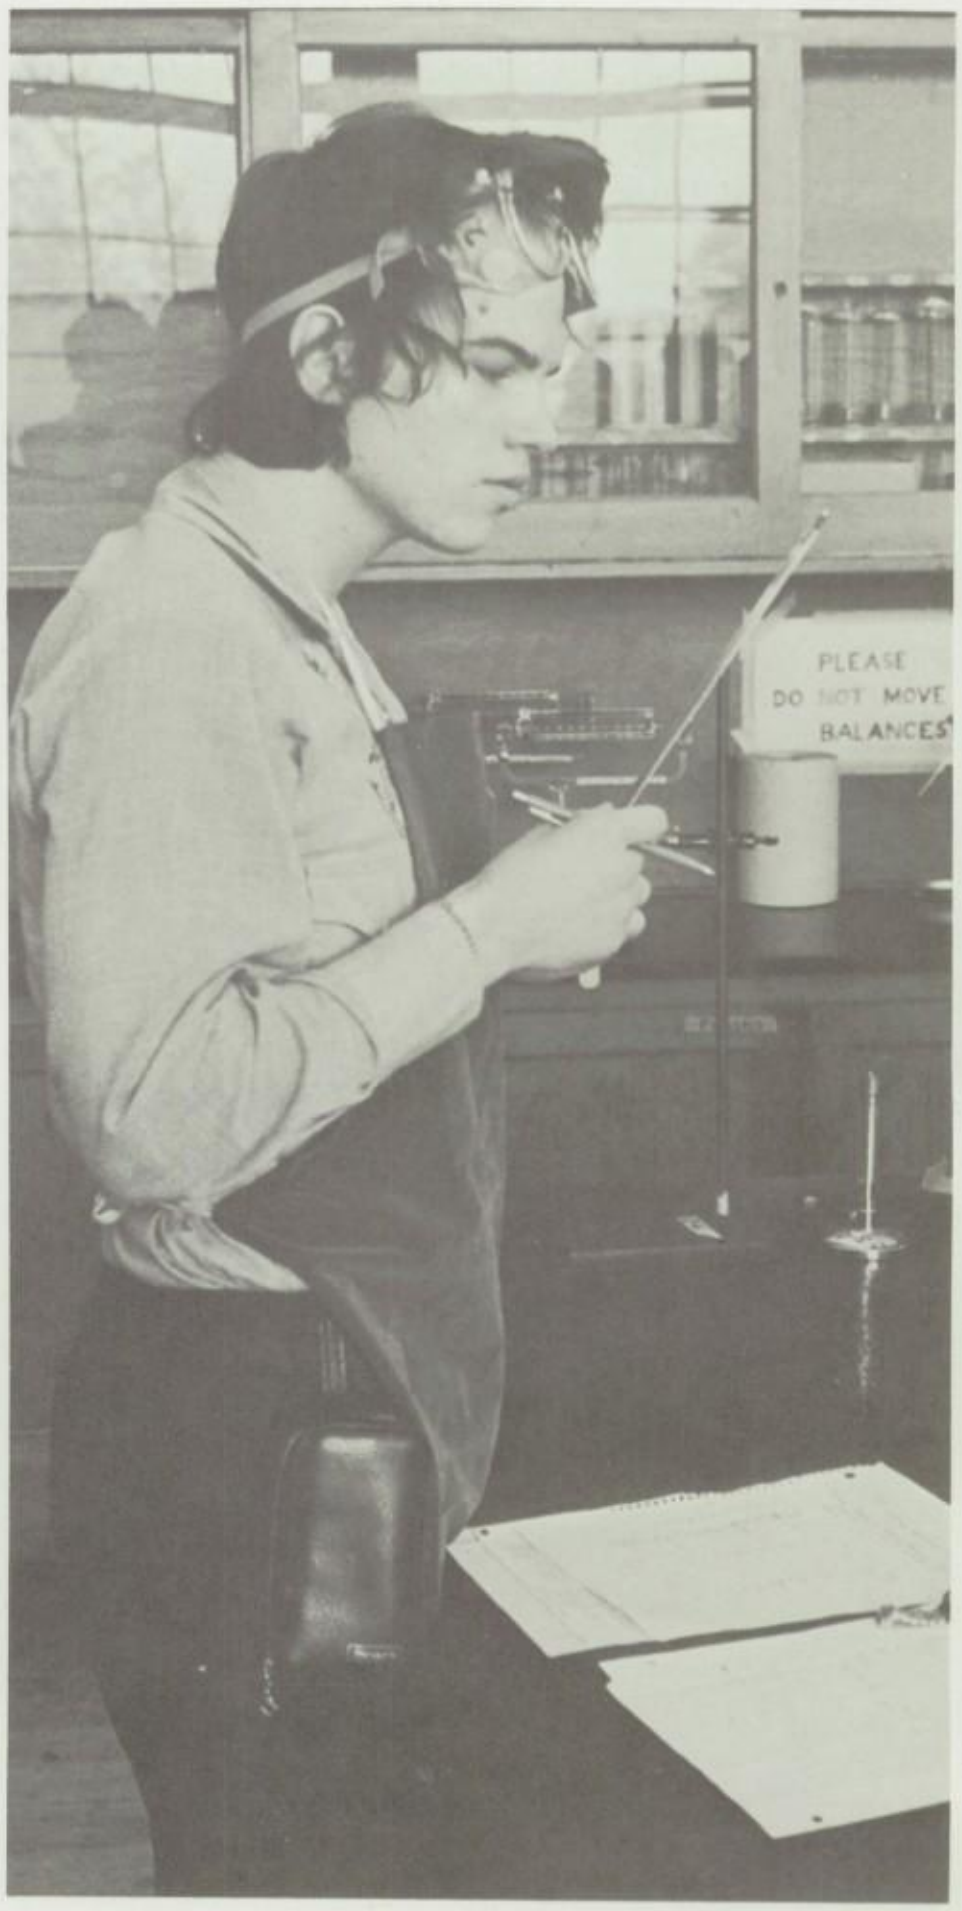
Future scientists took advantage of the broad selection of subjects offered by the Science Department.

Many intriguing field trips played an important role in the understanding of science. Short excursions included visits to Fox and Day Islands for the Marine buffs, while chemical refining companies were explored by the chemistry students; the Physics Department visited the Trojan Nuclear Plant in Oregon, along with a side trip to the Centralia Steam-Electric Project.

Helping to add new dimensions to our Science Department curriculum, "How Does It Work?" was introduced to Clover Park in the Spring. The class stimulated the participants' interests to further investigate the complex mechanisms of today's world.

"What's inside an atom?" Sophomore Bruce Thibodeau experiments with a pin and a styrofoam ball in Mr. Brian Anderson's class looking for an answer.

While using a time consuming balance in order to find the mass of a beaker, amateur chemist, Chris Anderson prepares to work out his experiment.



Computing a thermometer reading, chemistry student Shawn Morrow compares the temperatures of solidification of one substance as another is added.

Wide variety in Home Ec offers students chance to build new skills

The wide variety in the Home Economics' curriculum added new skills to Clover Park students.

Co-ed classes offered boys and girls the chance to discover experiences in clothing, foods, and personal living techniques. Unique educational classes included "Foods of Other Lands," displaying the dining customs of foreign nations; "Creative Needle," bringing embroidery, knitting, crocheting, and quilting to the hands of students; and "Apartment Living," which exposed students to the responsibilities and benefits of living on one's own.

The assortment of courses in the department gave a wide choice to all future homemakers in the study of Home Economics.

"Something's burning," says Janine Tejwaney to her assistant cook, Cathy Adams as they attempt to prepare the main dish of a foreign delicacy as part of a group project in cooking class.

Baking biscuits keeps Peter Whittaker busy as he learns methods of bread making in foods class.

Student seamstress Yolette Marc perfects the straight stitch technique with expert assistance from CP's able sewing teacher Mrs. Linda Dunbar.

Putting their green thumbs and skills learned to use, Gretchen Karpen and Machelle Haughawout putter in the dirt while planting their terrarium.

Many career choices offered to Clover Park students at Voc. School

Clover Park's Vocational-Technical Institute offered 65 career training courses to high school students and graduates. At the completion of the courses, students become eligible to practice their individual skills.

The Exploring Vocational Education program (EVE), introduced in 1975, allowed 45 students to search through five career "clusters;" transportation, health, marketing, manufacturing and communications. Those enrolled were able to more from one field to another until they settled into the particular area they wished to study.

The newly purchased Channel 13 (KCPQ) began airing in January. The added facility will increase the public television viewing population throughout Pierce County.

Being one of the many EVE program students, Steve Harkins takes a special nine day trial course in A & P Airframe Production as one of his five selected occupations to explore for the trimester.

Sampling the field of Commercial Art, Sandy Guizetti takes advantage of the Exploring Vocational Education Program (EVE) offered by the Voc. school.

Around the world in a Travel Consultant class, Clover Park student Patty Gorder is taught how to use a travel planner as part of the 10th month program.

Instructing his students in the game of Volleyball, Physical Education teacher Jack Pelander guides them to the proper position on the gymnasium floor. Basketball/Volleyball is only one of many recreational Physical Education classes offered at Clover Park under the trimester system.

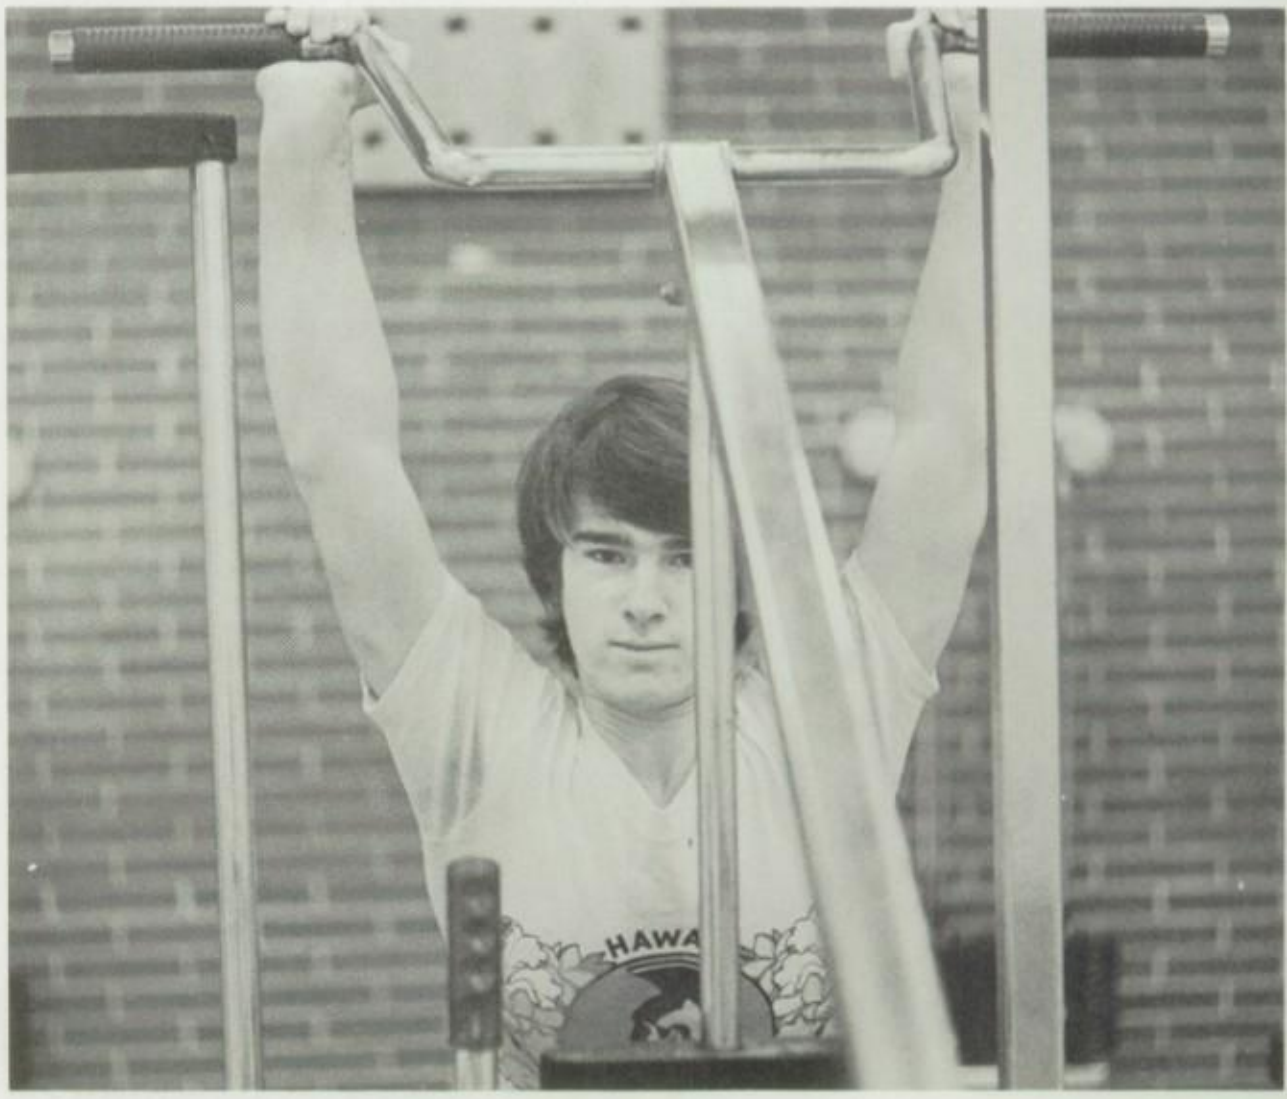
Athletic minded CP students participate in many PE activities

Exercising students strained to keep their bodies in shape by participating in a variety of sports.

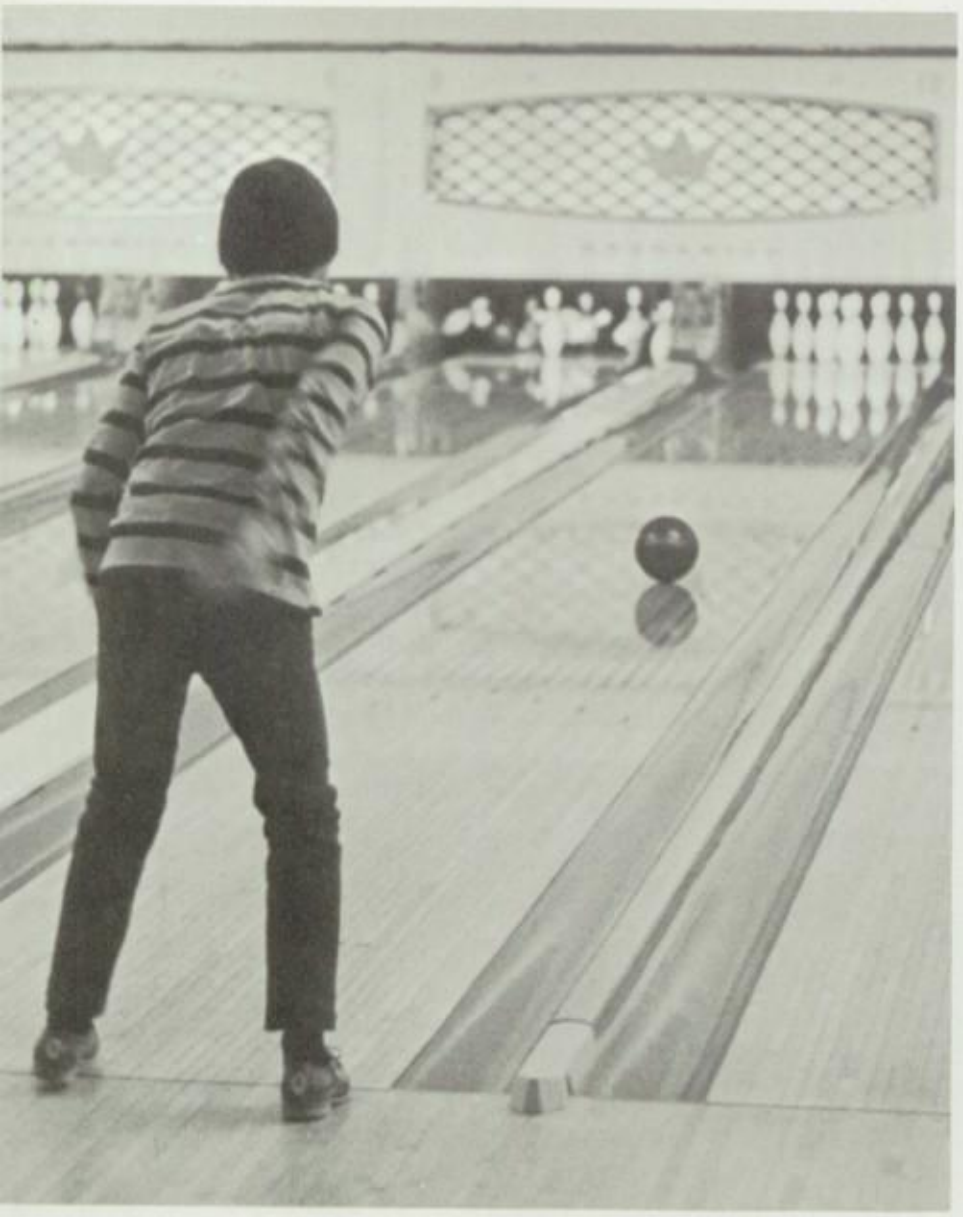
The Physical Education Department offered new innovative courses, including "Around the World on Two Feet," introducing students to the folk dancing techniques from foreign countries. "Student Leader," involved students aiding instructors in teaching PE classes.

Calorie counting girls kept busy balancing their weight while the boys toned up muscles.

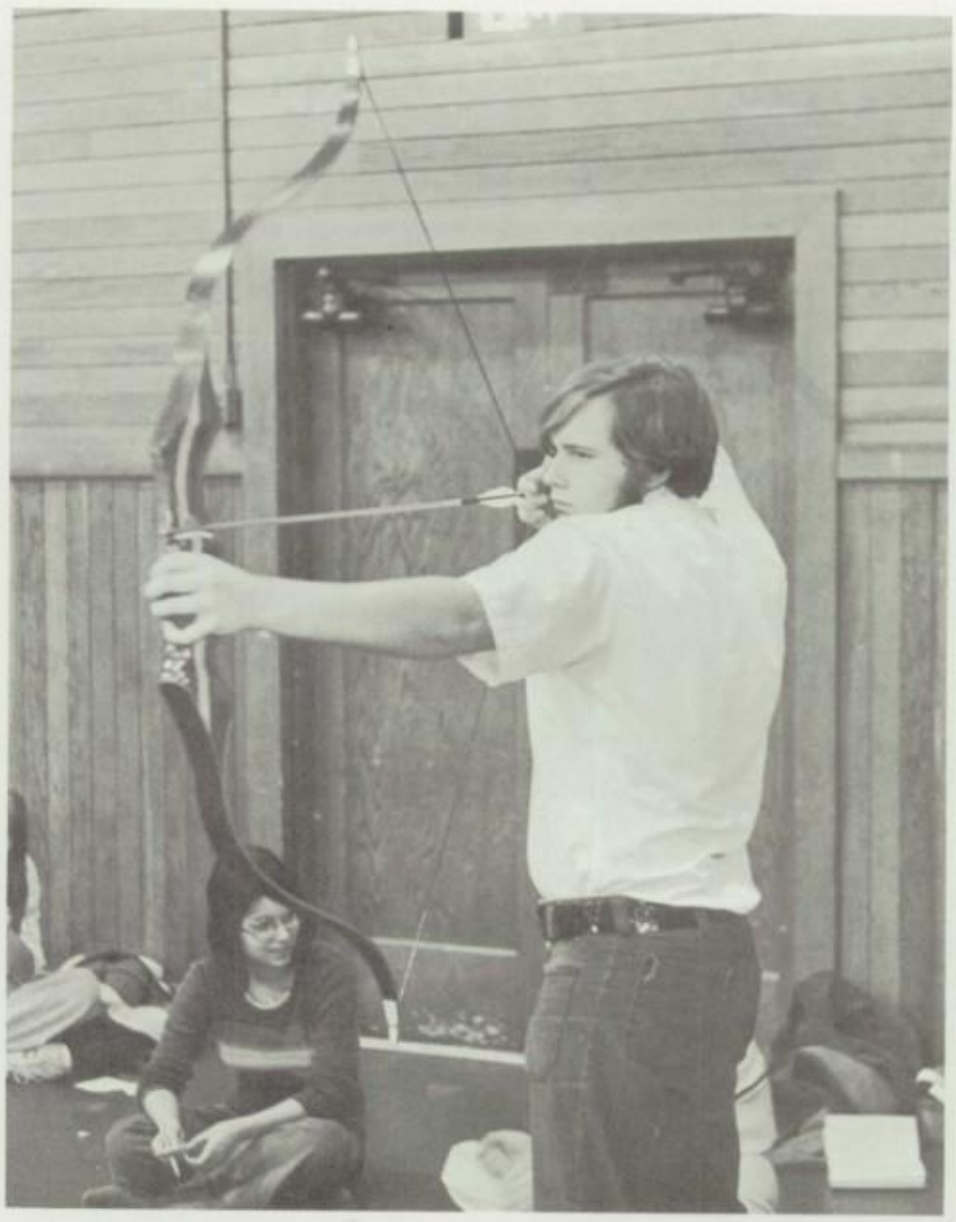
Course offerings in the department consisted of seven classes designed for girls, seven for boys, and 14 co-ed. Eight full time instructors teach in the department headed by Mr. Merle Hagbo.



Using the Universal Gym to add strength and personal discipline, Jim Davis presses extraordinary amounts of weight while preparing himself for the upcoming wrestling season.



Applying skills which have been acquired, a student in the bowling class strives to perfect his delivery and improve his score at the Villa Bowl.

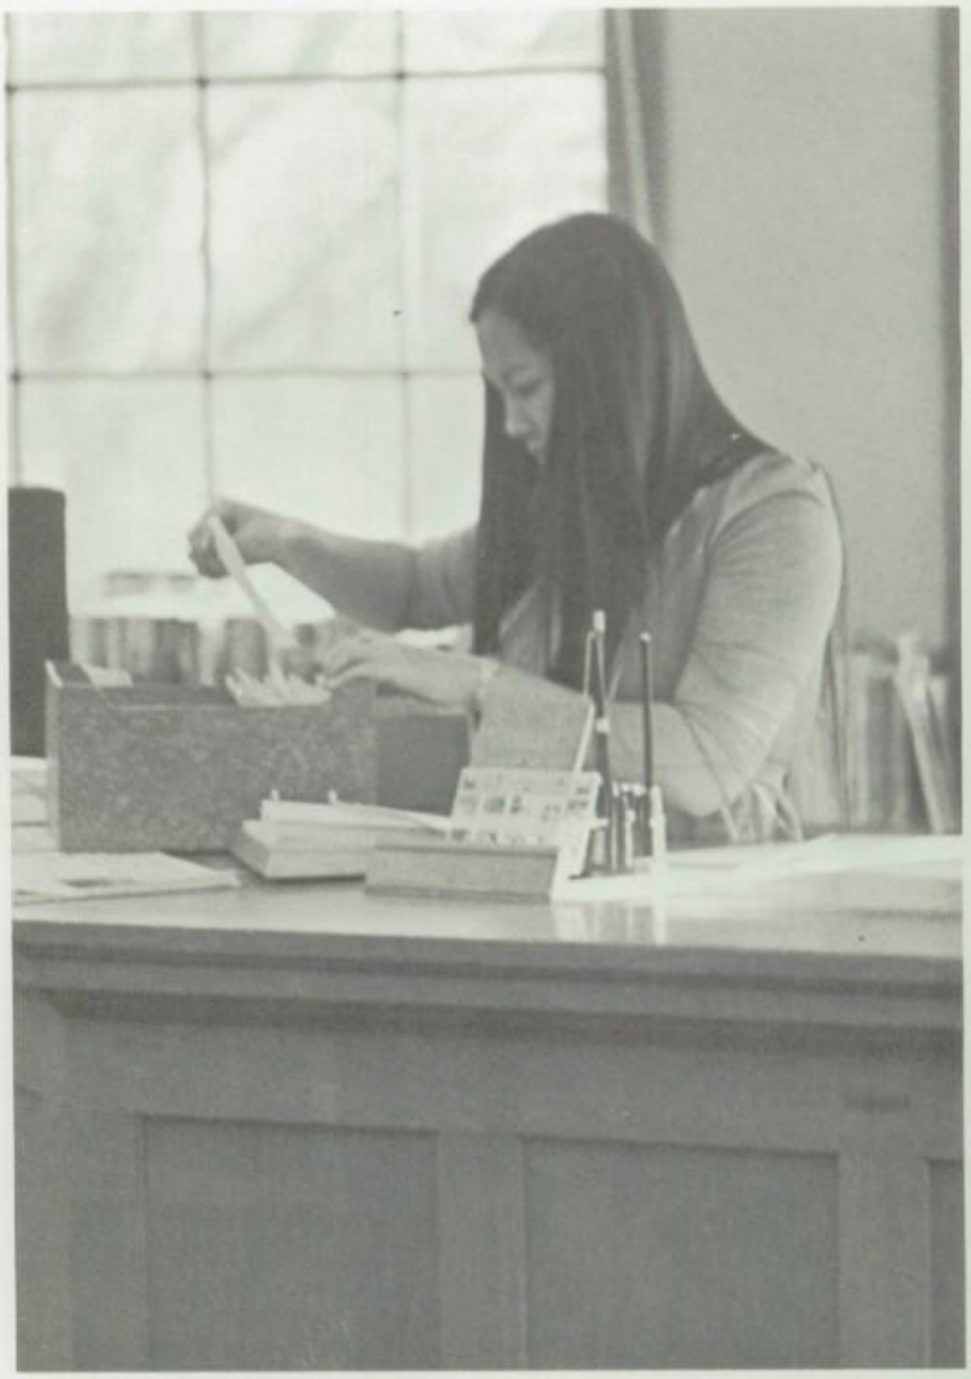


Archery requires perfect poise, steady eyesight and skill, which marksman Mark Snyder tries to display as he attempts to score a perfect bulls eye.

Starting the class off right, students in Mrs. Sally Wallace's fifth period Modern Dance Class, stretch their muscles to help them limber up a bit before they practice on their performances.

Showing excellent serving technique Bill Compton tries to strategically place the ball.

Utilizing Clover Park's fine library facilities, Susan Gunter examines a reference source in order to complete a class assignment.



Filing through student's schedules, South Library Assistant, Irene Dodge checks classes before writing out long overdue book notices.

CP resource centers stocked to meet student demand

The dual Clover Park North and South Libraries offered a combination of services to students.

Reseachers investigated both areas for materials pertaining to their particular subject matter.

In addition to books and periodicals, the resource centers are well stocked in records, films, cassettes, record players and projection equipment.

Catalogues listing materials available in the Pierce County Library System since 1972 added to the convenient service for CP High School students.

Throughout the year, the librarians and staff encouraged studious students to use the materials for course work or personal knowledge.

Learning about the North Library's procedures and the well organized resources that are available for students like herself, Lisa Schneller chats with Mi Geraldine Chesly.

Leading us in this Bicentennial year were the student leaders who ran Clover Park's government.

Student Council, led by President Jay Chang and Vice-President Stan Gress, budgeted various school groups and organized the student functions for the school year of 1975-76.

The council represented Clover Park at various leadership conferences throughout Washington.

Rep-at-Large Sonja Stevenson led the representative assembly in the much debated discussion of student smoking and open campus.

Class officers coordinated fund raising in an effort to increase monies. Dances, bake sales, phonebooks and class rings still proved to be worthwhile investments.

Pooling their thoughts on a decision for the Senior Class Announcements, Student Council members Pat Van Haren, Beth Clary, Vikki Boyczuk and Jay Chang discuss major issues.

As head of CP's Smoking Committee, Melinda Futrell reports at a Rep Assembly meeting.

Hashing over the current problems at Clover Park, classroom Reps congregate in the North Library at one of the Student Council-Represenatives meetings to help get new ideas that could help or improve the needs and relations for the bicentennial student body at Clover Park.

Student volunteers help achieve efficiency

Tending the difficult operation of precision lighting, members of the CP Sound and Light Crew, Bill Derby and Bert Gooch prepare to dazzle the coming crowd for the night.

Performing one of many tasks, Attendence office worker Duana Dewald finishes her typing.

Busily stacking her change, Lila Dart helps to keep track of the student account money.

Contributing to the school by performing necessary duties, the service groups of CP assisted at dances, concerts, and similar student functions.

Mr. Brian Anderson's Sound and Light Crew kept the audience and performers all a-glow. In addition, the group provided sound by operating the PA system.

The Usherettes, headed by Counselor Nancy Mace, handed out programs and directed patrons to vacant seats. The dedicated girls proved to be an important asset at school activities.

Office Assistants and the library's student staff also helped administrators and secretaries in school operations.

Enrolled as an ofice assistant, Kim Ohme learns the correct procedure for running the Xerox copy machine, on an errand to the Main Office.

Cheerfully displaying some of her skill as a Main Office worker, Helen Scriven explains directions to Laverne Mackey for her next destination.

"Take one please," says Usherette Alia Bennett as she passes out programs to the oncoming spectators at the annual Christmas Concert.

Orchestra mixes old and new for captivating arrangements

The Clover Park Strings, conducted by Mr. Richard Dawson, kept a busy schedule throughout the year as they participated in concerts; entertaining the school and community.

Camerata, a select string group, added a soothing, symphonic sound at the Daffodil Princess selection early in November; followed by numerous public appearances.

Several versatile orchestra students accompanied the bands and vocal groups in individual music programs.

Pacing the orchestra groups to excellence, Ian McDonald and Bob Alura qualified for the All-State Orchestra.

After hours of practice, Laura Titus, and Tina Feters, display their musical talents.

CP's 1975 Orchestra stands for a deserved round of applause after presenting a program that included pieces with soloists that were featured on the violin, cello, and harpsichord.

CP's versatile bands work hard for a variety of fine performances

Band Director James Hunt led Clover Park's bands in providing an assortment of entertainment throughout the year. The Concert Band planned a tour in which they visited Abbottsford, Canada to compete in various musical contests.

Instilling victory spirit in the teams and spectators alike, the Pep and Marching Bands played at home football and basketball games. Drum Major Pat Lovell led the marching unit in half time shows and parades. In addition, the Pep Band displayed their talent at a Sonics-Buffalo game in Seattle.

Outstanding instrumentalists, Vikki Boyczuk, Laura Burns, and Terri Huber, participated in the All-State Music Directors Convention.

Thinking over his marching routine, Trombone player Brian Kelly prepares for halftime.

Entertaining many at a football halftime show, Clover Park Marching Band members perform to the popular exciting selection, "Round and Round."

CP's choral groups perform at Bicentennial events

Singing to Tacoma's television audience about the joys of Christmas on The Don St. Thomas program, CP's Swing Choir present their tunes.

Getting into "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer" the Celestrial Singers show off their Christmas spirit at the annual Christmas Concert.

Voices reverberated in the halls as the Choral Department rehearsed a variety of tunes, under the direction of Mr. Bruce Brummond.

The various groups displayed their appreciation of music as they put forth effort for perfection. The groups performed at the Tacoma Mall, Western State Hospital, and KSTW-TV, in addition to season concerts, and private performances.

Singers Dan James, Mary Klebeck, Laura Pittman, Rosemary Hall, and Bob Pulliam demonstrated their vocal abilities as representatives of Clover Park in the All-State Choir in Eastern Washington.

Soloists, concert, and jazz groups received excellent ratings at the annual competitive spring festivals.

Megan Alexander, Chris Souza, and Tina Ortiz prepare for a Celestial Singers performance.

Under the direction of Mr. Bruce Brummond, Clover Park's Centurians take time out in between songs during the Christmas season as they perform for KSTW televison.

Clover Park High School's Powder Company patiently awaits their cue to display their musical talents as Scott Sutherland plays a drum solo at the annual Fall concert.

After completing a square dance during the Fall Concert, Mixed Chorus receives an ovation.

Wayne, WE have known each other since the funding of the Astronomy club. I want to thank-you for being a good friend to me. I hope your studies at Arizona University are what you had hoped. I know you'll do a good job because your a dedicated person. A friend always,

CP's Debaters use effective speech at area tournaments

Proving that effective speech leads to increased knowledge and better understanding, CP's Debate Team, coached by Mr. Warren Olson, affirmed and rebuttled their way into area competition. Dedicating their efforts toward the environment, "Scarce World Resources" served as the national topic for the '76 year.

Debaters researched an enormous amount of material in preparation for their public speaking tournaments. Topics included cryonics, presented by Mike Snodgrass, and Interpretive Reading skills were displayed by Lizz Brown.

Competition is limited to the fall and spring months, with members traveling to UPS, PLU, and WSU for their largest tournaments.

Outlining their plan of action, 1975-76 debate team members, Ed Quizenberry, Jack Blaylock, and Lizz Brown, discuss important techniqu needed to beat their opponents.

Intellect is always apparent with such scholars as Lyn Weston, Clarissa Lunden, and Marilyn Young, members of Honor Society's Landscaping Committee to beautify CP's campus.

With a steadily growing membership, the National Honor Society led an active year. The club sponsored several activities. Projects included candy sales to raise money for scholarships and program improvement; trick-or-treating for UNICEF; landscaping the court area in the North Building; and selling and delivering carnations and telegrams for Valentine's Day.

The officers: Vice President Cleo Garcia, Secretary Cathy Drake, and Treasurer Karen DeVick were led by President Glen Clark in maintaining the well-established reputation of the Honor Society.

Members of the society must hold a 3.167 GPA and have performed a school or community service.

DECA students learn while working in student store

The Warrior chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) operated the student store in an effort to learn proper business procedures.

The store supplied students with candies, writing instruments, paper and class workbooks.

Club President, Martha Ortiz led members in a one-day operation of Villa Plaza's J.C. Penneys.

A local conference at Sherwood Inn and the Western Regional Conference in Seattle headed the list of informative meetings in which the Chapter participated.

Part of DECA's training for the youthful business person included public speaking, commercial displays and competitive rund raisers.

Chess Team tough opponent for Puget Sound Clubs

Tony Hansen prepares to make a crucial move toward checkmate, while Mr. Harold Roberts tries to carefully avoid his opponent's strategic maneuvering of his chess pieces.

Battlefields of chessmen raged as the Clover Park Chess Club gathered every Wednesday afternoon. Adviser Mr. Harold Roberts welcomed all students who wanted to improve their playing ability as well as sharpen their strategical form.

The chess team was composed of five top chess players from the club's ten members; the remaining members attempted to grasp one of the top five positions to participate in interscholastic matches.

The team's schedule was formed of five major matches played against South Puget Sound area schools, with an additional tournament at Stadium High. The Clover Park Chess Team placed itself in contention as a league leader.

Talented staffers spend long hard hours creating 1975-76 'Super K'

Displaying creative talents, the yearbook class strove to meet the deadlines involved in producing the 1976 annual, the Klahowya.

Under the direction of Editor-in-Chief Leslie Wood, and veteran Adviser, Donald Turya, the writers, artists and photographers spent many hours creating the "Super K."

The unstructured class atmosphere assisted the imaginative young journalists as they wrote innovative stories and captions around the central theme, "Reflections."

Despite the normal daily work load, staffers coordinated their efforts in creating "Aphrodite's Temple." Symbolizing love, the formal Klahowya dance was presented on February 21.

Concentrating on precise lettering, Judy Redig eagerly adds some last minute touches to a poster announcing the upcoming dance "Aphrodite's Temple," sponsored by Klahowya.

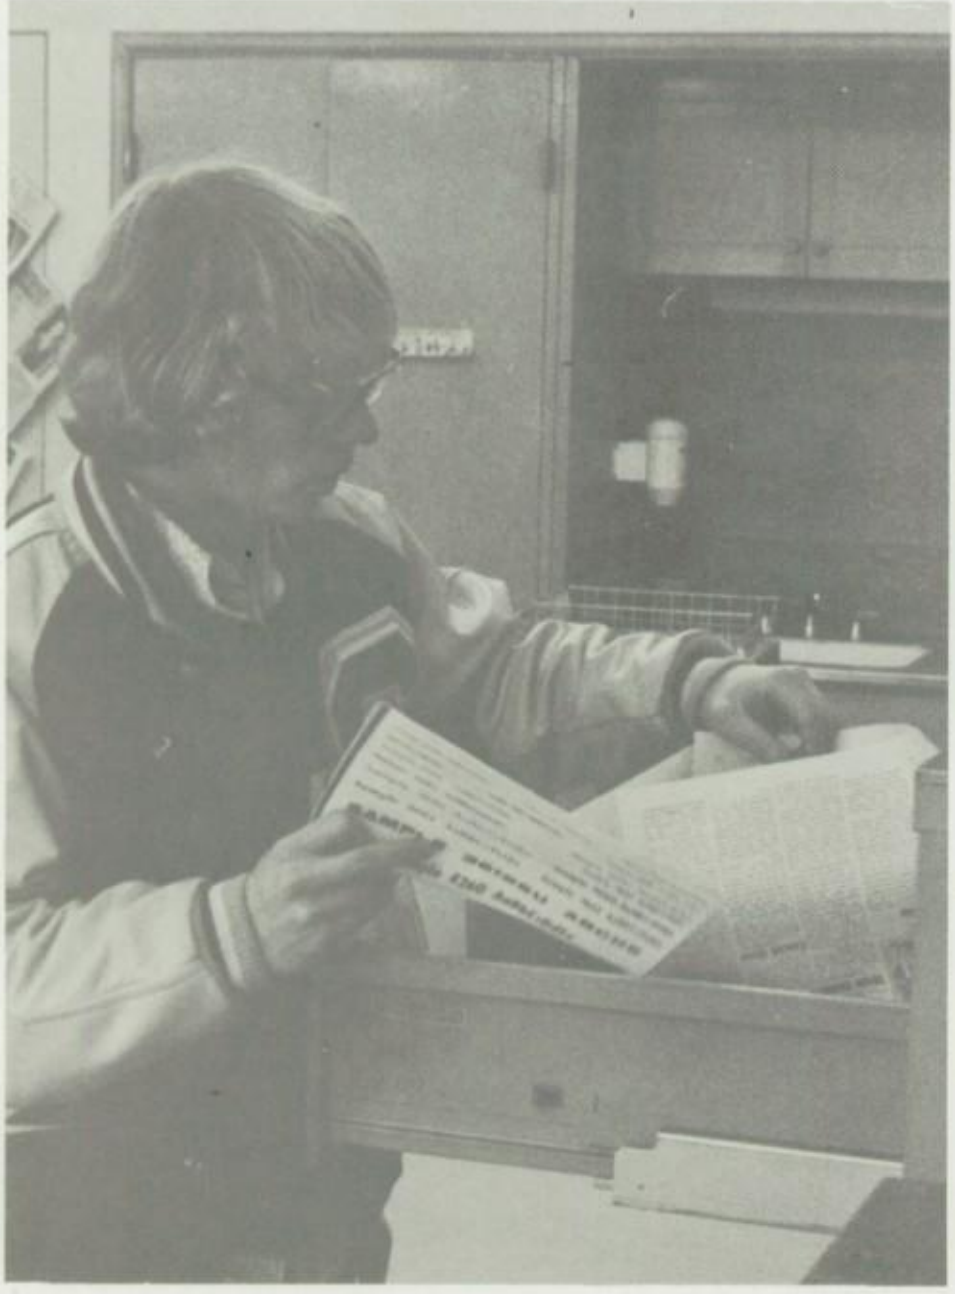
Earnestly concentrating on perfecting his work, Lay-out Editor, David Dysart, compares some of his ideas with those of last year's book.

Agreeing that "two heads are better than one" Klahowya staff members Karen Grubert and Patti Armbruster together finish up a caption.

Busily working towards another of their many important deadlines, staff members Neil Jorgensen, Wayne Smith, Leslie Wood, Dianne Kalenius, and Dale Thompson continue the struggle to turn in top rate captions, stories, and photographs with the end result of a good annual in mind.

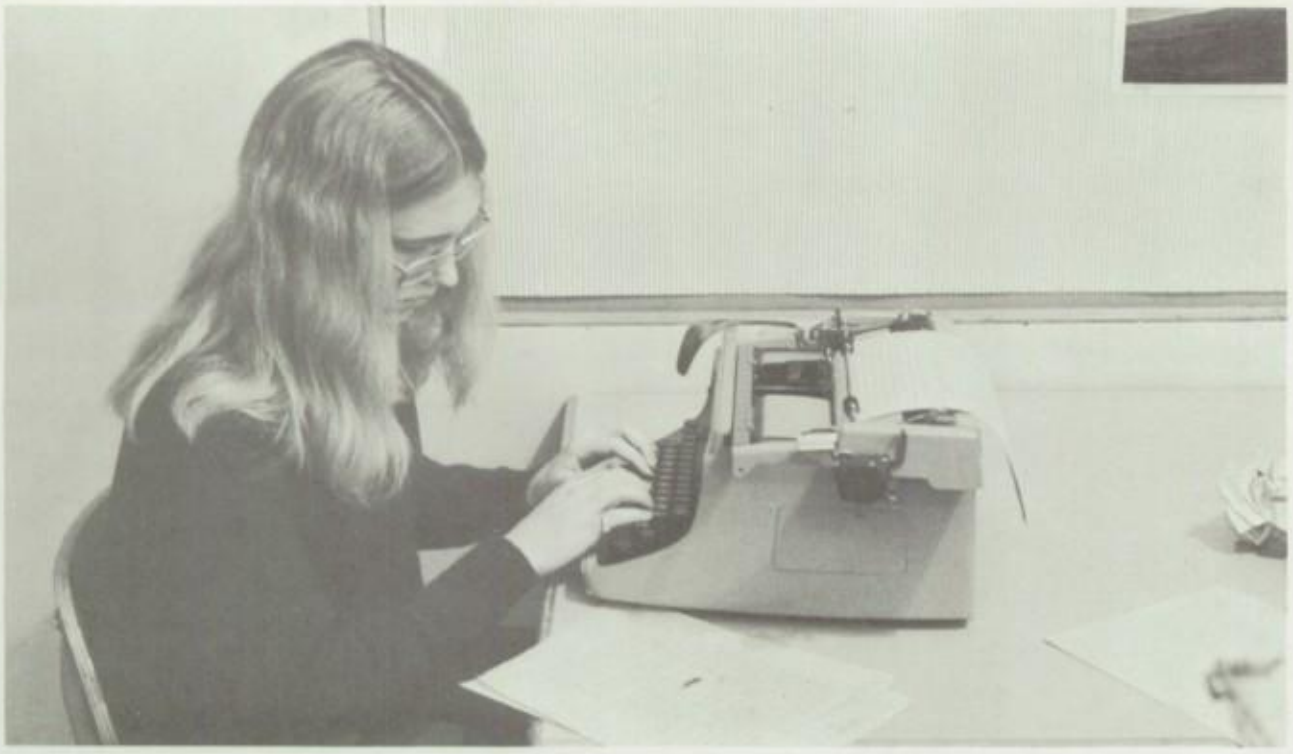
Under the usual pressures of publishing deadlines, the Clover Leaves staffers, News Editor Cathy Rogowski, and Michelle Fonville bring their ideas together to help speed up the development of another unique and clever article to help give CP's newspaper some real pizazz.

Clover Leaves meets challenge of reporting news



Shuffling through his files Clover Leaves Editor-in-Chief Stan Gress searches for an aid to further improve the school's bi-monthly paper.

Using the past to explain the present, Patricia Johnson searches for facts to bring out in one of her stories featured in the Clover Leaves.



Busily typing up the final copy of a story for the Clover Leaves, reporter Korky Furrer skillfully makes her contribution to the publication of another month's edition.

Under Mr. William Shattuck's direction, the Clover Leaves staff produced CP's bi-monthly newspaper.

Throughout the year, reporters interviewed students and faculty members alike in order to publish a variety of articles about CP. The paper provided information about college scholarships in the "Counselor's Corner." A Movie Review Column discussed recent films. Ken Denman, sports editor, kept everyone up to date with all of CP's athletic events. "Sounds" informed readers of upcoming area concerts.

Twenty-three dedicated student journalists, under Editor-in-Chief Stan Gress, labored many hours to publish many informative editions of the Clover Leaves.

Clover Leaves Sports Editor Pam Jordan concentrates on her statistics while her assistant J.J. Johnson watches the CP-FP football game.

Clover Leaves Sports Editor Ken Denman looks over the work of reporter Pam Jordan as they plan the final layout before the upcoming deadline.

Dedicated Clover Leaves adviser Mr. William Shattuck, gives his ideas to willing young journalists as they work hard to meet a copy deadline.

Enthusiastic cheer staff adds spirit to athletic events

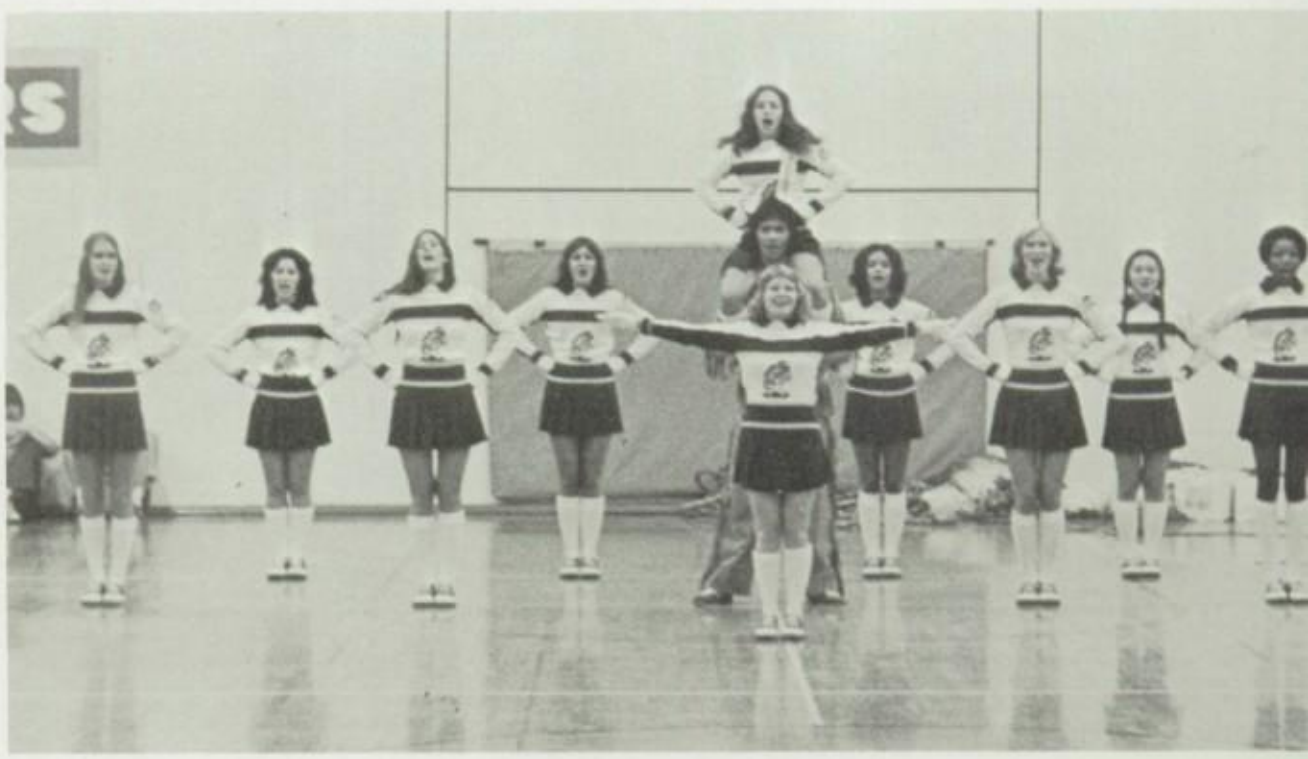
"We've got spirit, how about you?" Yelling to rivals across the football field Clover Park's

The largest squad of cheerleaders to support CP teams was initiated in 1975. Under the guidance of Mrs. Sally Wallace, the pepsters bolstered fall sports; then separated into two equal groups to cover the diversified winter sports program.

Five seniors composed the "gold squad," which led cheers at basketball games. The "green squad" covered wrestling matches.

Completing the staff was senior Alenn Bautista. As Warrior, he danced to the traditional "Cherokee" and assisted the cheerleaders in stunts.

Pep assemblies, car washes, jewelry sales and a performance at a Seattle Sonics game were part of the many activities the squad pursued during the year.



Whole-heartedly supporting the mighty Warrior Machine, Clover Park's active Cheering Staff rouses spirit in the student body at a pep assembl by giving a fiery performance.

Wayne; To a friend from a friend, I wish you the best of health and future. Not only are you a great astronomer but you are also a great person. It has been my pleasure knowning you and I wish you the best of luck. Remember painting the roof on the school.

Your Friend, Robert W Carpenter

Performing before home and Lakes Lancer fans, Clover Park's Drill Team dance in great form to two musical tunes played by the Warrior Pep Band during a colorful halftime.

Mixing innovative dance routines with complicated marching maneuvers the 1975-76 Drill Team entertained sports fans at halftime.

Dancing skeletons at Halloween, fifties jitterbugging routines, and a salute to America's Bicentennial birthday were inspired by the creative minds of the marching clan, Captains Kala Dralle and Kim Merrill, and Adviser Mrs. Sally Wallace.

Adding color and splendor, the Flag Twirlers, with Captain Sara Stray, performed alongside the Drill Team and twirled the banners with expertise during basketball season.

Springtime brought parades, floats, and bands, as the Clover Park Drill Team displayed intricate steps within their orderly formations.

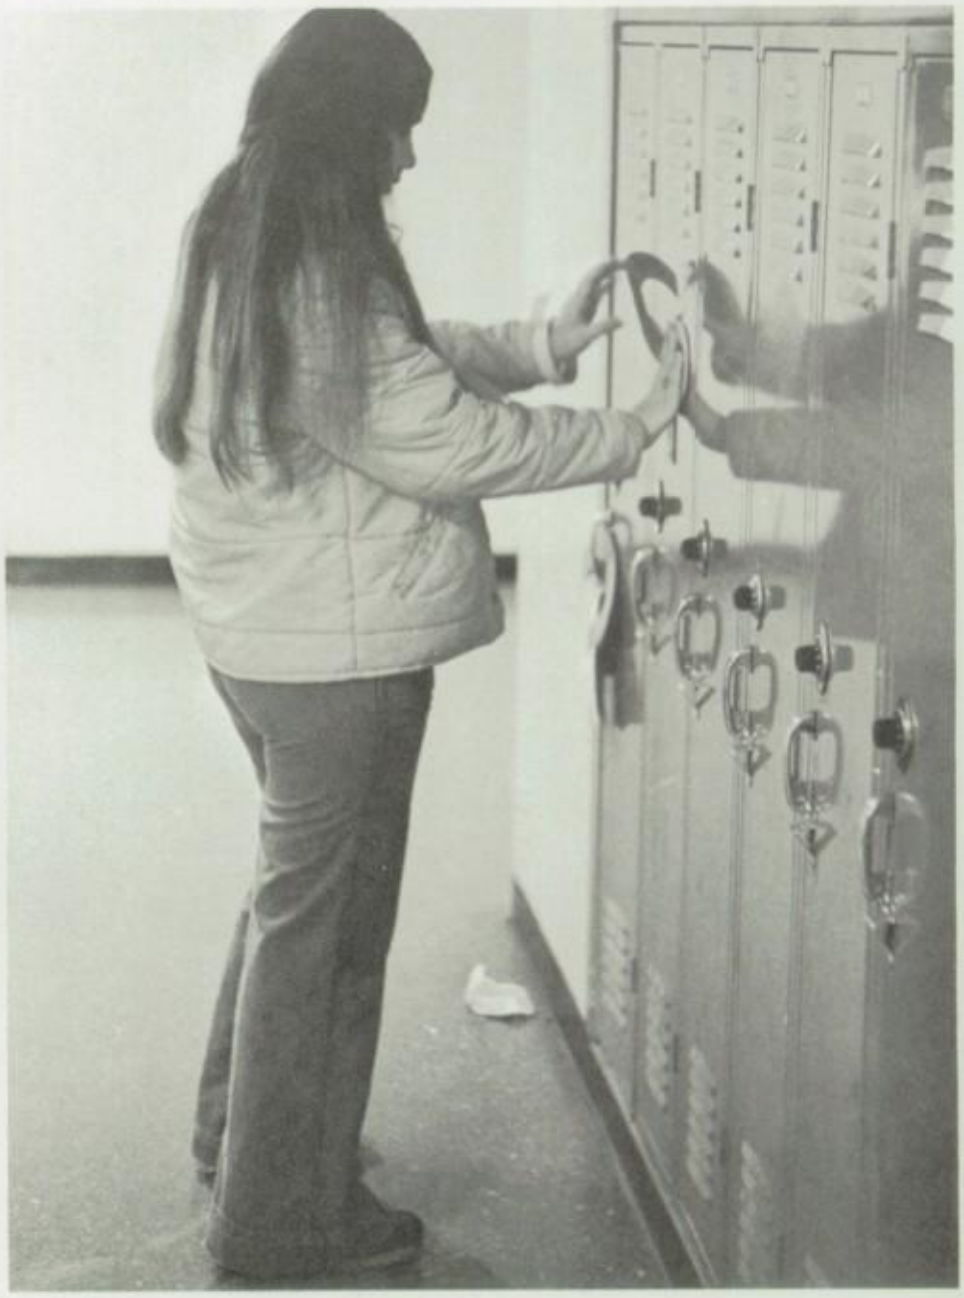
Pep Club

Pep Club members Elise Murowchick and Teresa Bucklin eagerly sort and count out their share of "WAMPUM!" buttons for enthusaistic buyers.



Tacking up "CP" decals on the lockers of school athletes, Pep Club member Martha Ortiz shows her support by contributing her help.

Engaged in a top-secret project, Pep Club member Leslie Burch hurries to post a "Good Luck" sign for baseball player Brian Hagbo on the day of the Bellarmine game. Providing cakes, cookies and other treats are just a few of the tasks assigned to CP's Guardian Angels.

promotes warrior spirit

Preparing for the Winter Sports Banquet, Mrs. Betty Rumbaugh instructs the Guardian Angels on which individual duties each will be assigned for the Pep Club sponsored event.

The Clover Park Pep Club swung into gear as colorful posters and decorated lockers appeared in the halls; promoting the Warriors for up-coming sports events.

Individual "Guardian Angels" were assigned to the various athletes at the beginning of each sports season. These "Angels" created signs and baked cookies in support of their sportsperson.

Pep Club President Leslie Burch, with the assistance of Banquet Chairman Tracy Burke, handled the sports award banquets at the conclusion of each sports season.

Supervisor Mrs. Betty Rumbaugh, and the dedicated volunteers bolstered Clover Park's athletic program with their perpetual enthusiasm.

Exhibiting Pep Club's support, athletes John Crabill and Jay Herron display their locker.

Creating a part of CP's decor, enthusiastic pepster Vickie Kittleson paints Pep Club sings supporting warrior athletes and their coaches.

"V-I-C-T-O-R-Y, up and at 'em, go and get 'em, CLOVER PARK HIGH!!!"

Igniting a spark of enthusiasm among faculty and students, Clover Park's pep assemblies provided spirit during the '75-'76 school year.

Cheerleaders and class officers led students in the traditional "two-bits" competition; vying for the possession of the pep jug. The band played rousing tunes along with the traditional fight song.

The coaching staffs introduced team members during the pep talk, firing up the student body during the sports season.

Adding a touch of amusement to the assemblies, cheerleaders and "class clowns" performed skits pertaining to the upcoming competition.

Receiving well deserved recognition, Clover Park Warrior Basketball Team members are introduced to the student body at the first winter sports assembly of the season.

In a huddle and raring to go, the mighty Clover Park Warriors prepare to zonk the Lakes Lancers, alias our cheerleaders, at an assembly.

WARRIORS ARE GREAT!!! echoes through the South Gym as the cheerleaders promote spirit for the season at a winter pep assembly.

Chewing steadily and vigorously, Mike Guttormsen and Dave Blankenship anxiously await the surprise at the other end of the licorice whip.

Skits and antics add spirit to CP pep assemblies

Head Football Coach Bob Colleran helps to inspire the student body with his distinctive style of speaking at the "beat Lakes" football assembly.

CP spies, Mr. Erickson and Mr. White ask gravedigger Alice Flowers for tombstones for use when the Lancers fall to the might of the Warriors.

CP is "Dyn-o-mite" exclaim Warrior fans as the Pep Band plays a musical accompaniment to the chant. Clover Park's rowdy band performs for home games and Pep Assemblies to help raise the spirit of the student body by playing comtemporary songs and yelling original cheers.

Art Club gives winning pumpkins to children's hospitals in Tacoma

To promote Halloween spirit, CP's Art Club sponsored the annual Pumpkin Carving Contest. Winning pumpkins were donated to children's hospitals in the Tacoma area to help brighten Allhallows Eve.

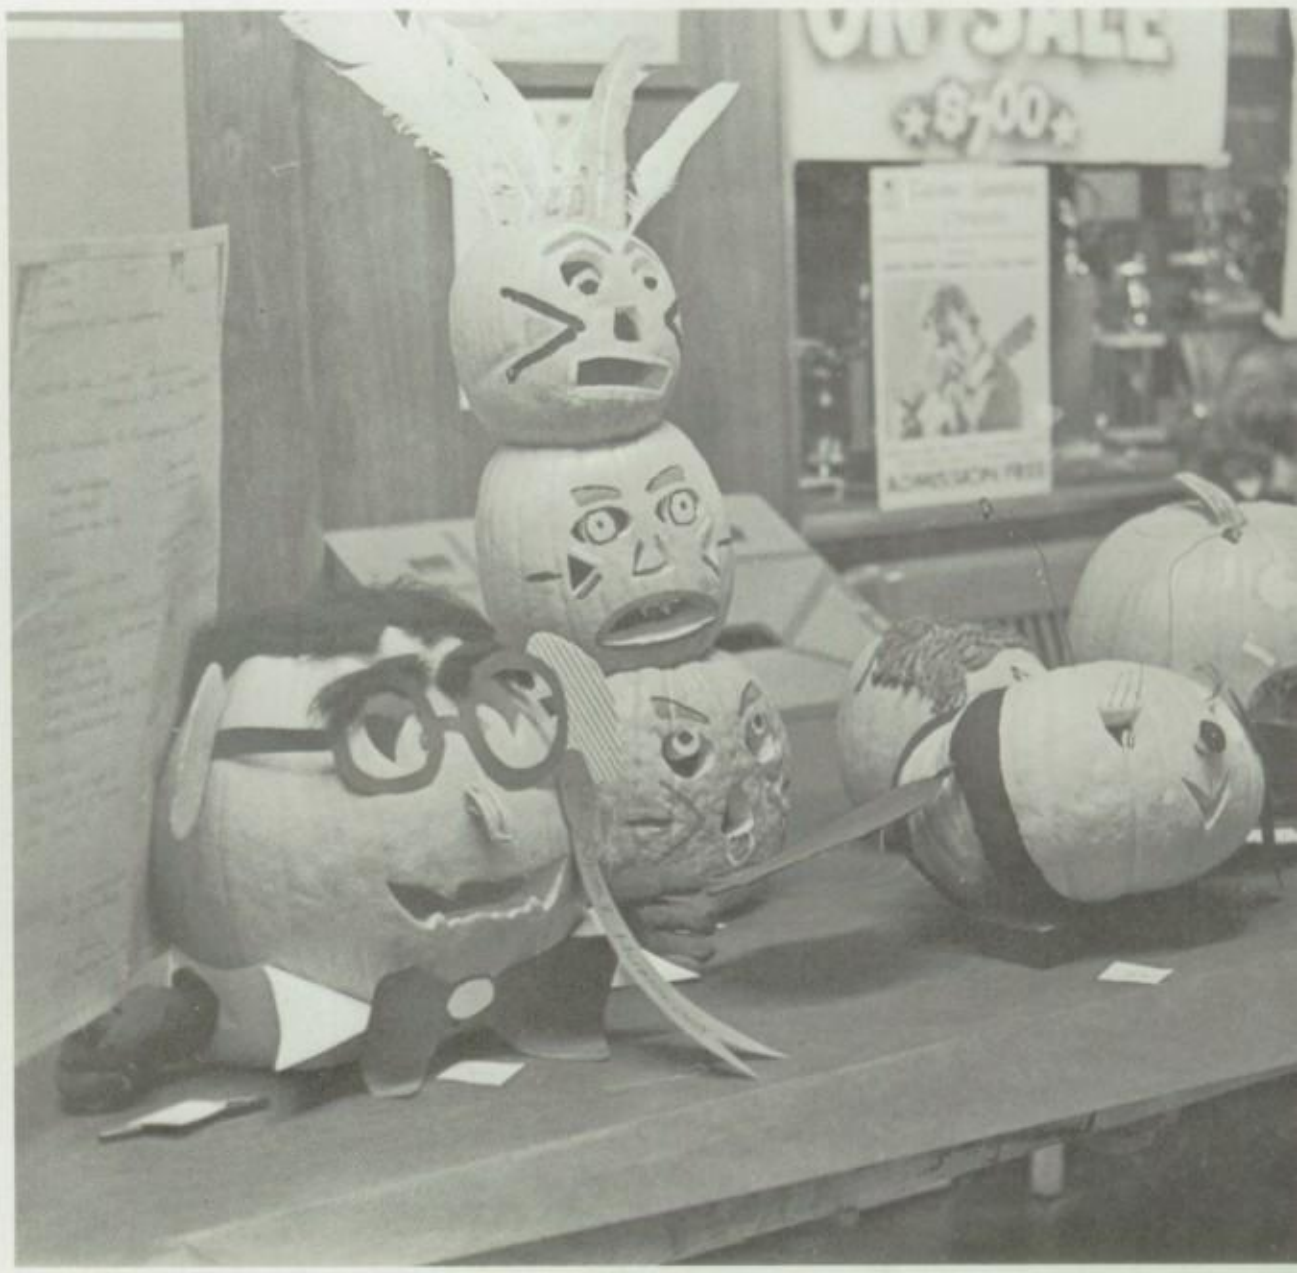
Under the supervision of Mrs. Blankers and Mrs. Kildall, Art Club members concentrated on similar service type projects.

Armed with paints, brushes, and unique ideas, the club turned old eyesores into works of art.

Each project group selected different chairpersons to head the various tasks.

The club met once a month to discuss group activities. In the spring the artists planned to visit museums and cultural centers.

In preparation for Christmas, Art Club members create festive banners for CP's holiday halls.



Looking at Halloween through many faces the competitors in the annual Pumpkin Carving contest sponsored by Clover Park Art Club display the results of their carving creativity.

Discussing crafty ideas, Tracy Scofield, Adviser Mrs. Robin Blankers and Mimi Haas talk about possible Art Club money making schemes.

Art Club members Tammy Masters, Tami Skala and Bob Anderson meet with Adviser Mrs. Gloria Kildall to plan their next artistic venture.

Contributing new ideas to FBLA club members, Advisers Mr. Gerry Magnuson and Mr. William Smith explain various fund raising propositions.

Signing the roll sheet to account for their presence, Future Business Leaders of America, prepare for one of their important meetings.

Envelope stuffing, candy sales enrich FBLA's treasury

A re-newed organization at CP, the Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA), got underway with the sponsorship of Mr. Gerry Magnuson.

Based on the idea of preparing students for the modern business world, the club taught its members both leadership qualities and successful business procedures.

Activities included touring local businesses, club exchanges, leadership conferences in Olympia, and a regional workshop at Stadium High.

President Mike Treadwell, and officers Leigh Ayers, vice president; Carrie Abnew, secretary; and Steve Pichler, treasurer, led the twenty active members in fund raising events. Envelope stuffing and candy sales boosted club finances.

Afro-American Club members, Sylvia Parker and Patrice Wynn, with faculty advisers, Mr. Fleming, and Mrs. Turner's help, plan their 1975-76 formal dance for the month of March.

Delighted to be chosen, Sylvia Parker and Mont Montique reign as Afro Queen and King.

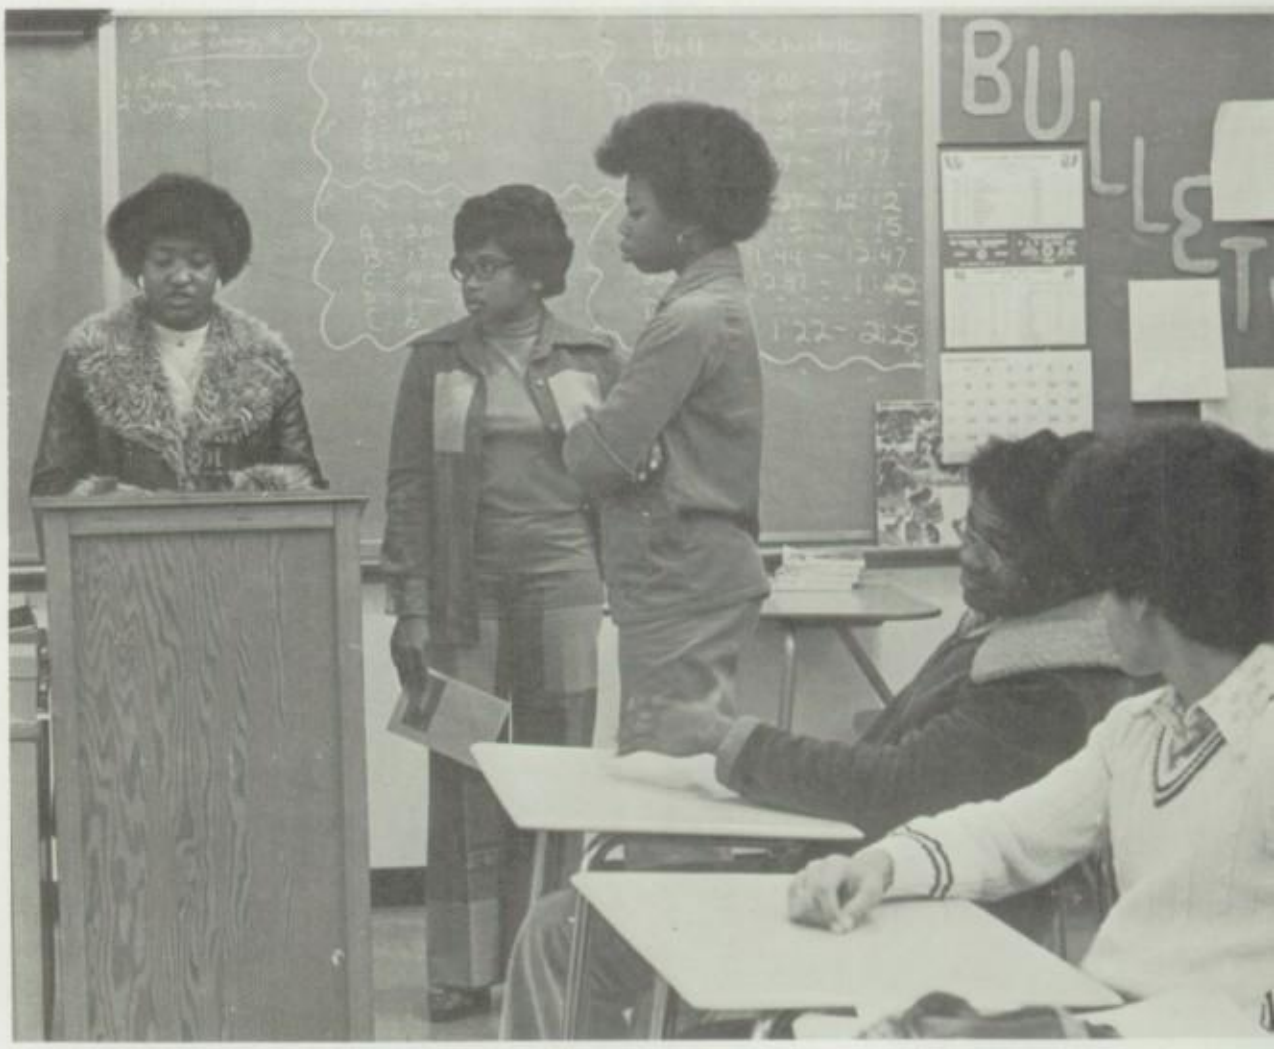
Marla Holmes leads Afro-American Club through good year

The Afro-American Club kicked off the Xmas season by sponsoring the holiday dance. The ethnic club used dances, bake sales, and other money making activities to support their major social affairs.

The club held an observance in mid-March. The week provided informative displays on black awareness.

The Afro Ball highlighted the week of commemoration. King Monte Montague and Queen Sylvia Parker headed the Royal Court. Mike Martin and Sue Shelton were the Duke and Duchess respectively; while Marla Holmes and Clyde Connor reigned as Princess and Prince.

Sylvia Parker represented Colver Park in the Tacoma All City Afro-American Pageant, also held in March.



Afro-American Club adviser, Mrs. Turner, listens closely as Vice-President, Patrice Wynn, takes the floor in discussing the ways to get inacti members involved.

"Our spirit is SKY HIGH!" Che-Warriorettes promoted enthusiasm and involvement in the sport of wrestling. At home and away matches, the eight girl squad lent the team a helping hand in the setup of equipment, recording of scores, and reporting. They were continually joining in with the enthusiastic "WARRIOR POWER" chant of a spirited cheering crowd.

These pepsters' dedication displayed 100% support for the wrestling squad. Signs and posters decorated hallways to advertise the importance of their matches. Cooperation, dependability, and the true Warrior spirit motivated their enjoyment in working for the wrestlers . . . Their spirit was SKY HIGH!

Che Warriorettes help inspire school spirit at CP

Dipping into a foamy bowl of tasty punch, Che-Warriorettes, Cathy Deocampo and Sue Shannon serve at the Wrestling Team's Parent Night.

Lifting spirits Che-Warriorette Linda Lowe watches as Warrior Wrestling Coach Jim Erickson picks up the pieces of a Green and White victory.

Outdoor Recreation Club bring students back to nature

Capturing the great western environment, members of the Outdoor Recreation Club fulfilled another year of activities.

Under the direction of Ms. Debra Collins, members met bimonthly to discuss and make plans on taking future field trips and hikes.

Ski trips, innertubing at Paradise, beach hikes, basic rock climbing, and a bike hike to Vancouver were included in the activities.

The requirements that members must have to maintain an active membership included participating in at least two activities per year.

Adults and non-members were granted honorary membership to the Outdoor Recreation Club for helping and taking part in their activities.

Surrounded by a forest of tall pines and a range of snowy mountains, Reflection Lake, a small pond near Paradise at Mount Rainier, shines its stillness and beauty to hikers.

Evonne Palmer heads

Lounging in the easy chair, Ted (Jeff Brizee) waits for the start of the marriage ceremony in the Thespian apprentice play, "A Wedding."

Concentrating on the responsiblities of a presiding officer, Evonne Palmer plunges into the preparation of the coming meetings agenda.

Crooning to her idol, Lisa Lundeem sings "Dear Mr. Gable" during a Thespian meeting.

Preparing to open another monthly meeting, Thespian Club officers Danny Davison, Richard Pichler, Lori Alward, and Mike Courts take a look at the business to be discussed.

Thespians

The 1975-76 Thespians concluded an eventful year with dynamic acting talent. Presiding President Evonne Palmer headed the club.

By performing, attending theater productions, and working on company staffs, Thespian apprentices strove to obtain the points necessary to raise their status to a full-fledged member of International Thespians.

Apprentices put on two contrasting plays, "The Wedding," a comedy directed by Lori Alward; and "Still Voices," a drama directed by David Dysart.

Main social events of the year included Theater Dinner Night, state and regional conferences, and two initiation banquets with installation of officers.

Expressing his feelings about the marriage of his friend, Dan Estes acts as best man in the Thespian apprentice presentation of "A Wedding."

Thespians Richard Pichler, Kathy Shivers, and Mike Courts display their talents in re-enacting a fairyland scene for the apprentice initiation.

Taking the box containing universal secrets from the stately wall, portrayed by Maura Shea, Dave (Mike Courts) ponders on its possibilities.

Interact Club performs services for Tacoma area

Devoting time and energy needed to make constructive ideas successful, Interact Club took on the task of money-making and serving the local community.

Sponsored by the Lakewood Rotary Club, and under the management of Co-Advisers Mr. Tony Apostle and Mr. Jim Hadland, Interact helped supply needed food to the hungry families in the Tacoma area on Thanksgiving. Individual class competition and a fifty dollar first prize proved to be a worthwhile scheme to collect the cans of food.

In addition, the 1975-76 club added various service endeavors to their list of fund raising, attaining the necessary resources for a trip to Crystal Mountain.

Gathering together for a quick snack break meeting, Patti Madsen and other Interact members listen intently as Adviser Tony Apostle speaks out on some important issues.

Surrounded by Interact Club members, Mr. Tony Apostle, leads a discussion on future plans.

Hey Wayne,
How's it going. Too bad you graduated the year. I'll be at voc-tech next so it really doesn't matter 'cause I wouldn't see you much. Have a nice summer.
Enjoy my minor! Thanks for being a good friend. Oh, did I tell you are legal for '77, the Class that's going to learn,
is the class of '77,
for the class of '78,
the bridge will be their fate.
Sincerely,

Wayne,
You're a heck of a nice guy but you're too darn smart.
You just got to "dumb" up.
Seriously a great student & a good friend.

SENIOR CLASS

Senior Class recollect memories of '76; bid farewell to Clover Park

World events dominated the contemporary class of 1976. In the three year term at CP, the group witnessed world history in the making. Occurances included Watergate, gas shortages, terrorism, Skylab, compact cars and pocket calculators.

As a class of achievements, '76 graduates were the first to complete the trimester cycle; through the new program, the variety of courses insured "something for everyone."

Construction on campus included refurbished gymnasium bleachers, new Home Ec kitchens, horticulture/science lab, additonal classroom portables, and a student built greenhouse.

Outstanding scholars, Tony Hansen and Mike Snodgrass achieved national recognition as semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship Test.

The gracious Beth Clary reigned as Daffodil Princess, representing Clover Park in the annual 1976 Puyallup Daffodil Festival.

Caps and gowns, Senior announcements, yearbook signings, and diplomas enriched the traditional Senior week of graduation.

June 8 brought tears, and hopes for the future as the upperclassmen progressed towards their individual goals in college, vocational training, or immediate employment.

Their futures will bring some quiet moments to remember Clover Park; the pep assemblies, football games, friends, and homework; remembering a class of achievements, the spirit of '76, the times for REFLECTIONS.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER:

I Shall Pass This Way But Once.
Any Good, Therefore, That I Can Do Or Any Kindness That I Can
Show To Any Human Being, Let Me
Do It Now. Let Me Not Defer Nor Neglect It, For I Shall Not Pass
This Way Again.

Good Luck To All of You

"Reflections" completed; Editor gives farewells and thank-you's

Finally getting back to the great outdoors after spending the winter in room 346 turning out "Reflections," Klahowya Editor Leslie Wood celebrates her regained freedom.

A Klahowya is something most people think of only at the end of a school year. However, anyone who has ever put a yearbook together knows that it takes a full year's work to complete it by spring.

An editor's job is hectic, nerve wracking, and seemingly unending. It is also immensly rewarding. This is due in part to the end result, the yearbook. But most of the reward comes from working with a lot of great people. I would like to thank Ms. Faith Lamoree for setting all our copy and Harta Studios for furnishing the necessary photographic supplies. Thanks also to Mr. Jim Palm of the American Yearbook Company for helping us through the rough spots, and Mr. Donald Turya for keeping us going. Many thanks to those dedicated staff members who spent afternoons and weekends making the Klahowya come to life.

I can only hope that this book has left everyone here at Clover Park with pleasant "REFLECTIONS" of the 1975-76 school year.

Leslie Wood

It's been alot of fun these last few years. We've gone through a lot: clear, cloudy, dead batterys and all. I hoped we have a few more good nights this summer. I'll try to see you a few times in the next year. Have fun at college, don't ease too many girls, or drop an eyepeice on a 29" mirror. Take it easy

See you, later
